RIOTING AGAIN BREAKS OUT IN EGYPT, IRAQ

Bullets Streak Over Jerusalem; British Troops Seek To Restore Order.

By The United Press

JERUSALEM, Dec. 4—Bloody Arab rioting broke out in Egypt and Iraq again today, and another death was reported in Palestine, where the British began a determined campaign to maintain order.

A flurry of gunfire sent bullets whining across the rooftops of the crowded Jewish quarter of the old city of Jerusalem. Two Jews and one Arab were reported wounded. British troops raced through alleys and winding paths to the scene of the shooting but the combatants had scattered.

Large crowds of students ran amok in Cairo, scattering only when steel-helmeted police charged in with blazing guns.

Other Moslems demonstrating against the partition of Palestine wrecked the United States information service office in Baghded, and smashed a British kindergarten. Eleven persons were injured in Cairo.

Murder Victim Found

The body of a murdered Jew was found in Tel Aviv raising to [illegible] the number killed in Palestine alone since the United Nations voted last Saturday to split the Holy land into Arab and Jewish states.

A ship carrying 200 illegal Jewish immigrants slipped through the British blockade of Palestine, and with the help of the underground Hagana, landed the Jews at Tel Aviv. They were the first group to break into Palestine since partition was voted.

Sir Henry Gurney, chief secretary of the Palestine government, reportedly ordered Palestine police to do everything possible to prevent further Arab-Jewish rioting. Heretofore, the British have not been too concerned about preventing destruction of property.

Today's rioting in Cairo was the most serious that has occurred there. Hundreds of students stormed through the streets, setting fire to one street car and overturning another.

When police appeared, the students began to hurl stones. The police, some mounted on horses, and shields to protect themselves as they moved in on the crowd, wielding clubs and shooting into the air or into the ground.

Start for Embassy

The crowd scattered, but soon reformed into smaller groups. One group started for the United States embassy, but was headed off by police.

Another group reached the British consulate and began to hurl stones at the building. Police scattered the demonstrators before any damage was done.

Other Moslem students in Baghdad demolished the United States information office. The mob of several thousand persons swarmed into the building, threw typewriters into the streets and burned other equipment.

Strike Ban Sets Off New Wave of Rioting

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Dec. 4—The government, armed with a new and drastic anti-strike law, made some dents today in the Communist-propagated strikes which have virtually strangled French economy, but confronted fresh violence on the fashionable Riviera.

A mob seized the postoffice in Cannes. Another throng was driven back by rifle butts and truncheons of mobile guards at the postoffice in Nice where the central labor committee called a general strike.

The government was striving to reopen struck mines. Rail traffic leaving Paris reached 80 per cent of normal and some commerce was coming through the Atlantic ports.

Conditions along the Mediterranean coast were so critical that trains from Paris were proceeding only as far as Lyon.

Consider Pay Raises

Premier Robert Schuman's cabinet considered raising salaries of public employes and the council of ministers seemed ready to approve raising minimum pay throughout France, a focal issue in the strikes led by the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor.

The national assembly, after five days and nights of tumultuous debate, finally beat down Communist opposition early this morning and approved Schuman's anti-sabotage and strike control legislation by at vote of 403 to 183.

A little earlier, the armed forces ministry announced it had chosen battle-hardened 24-year-olds—half the class of 1943—to fill the quota of 80,000 men called up to bolster police ranks in fighting industrial strife. The reservists were ordered to report beginning Saturday. All of them will be under orders of the interior ministry, which controls the police.

Penalties Stiffened

The new law passed by the assembly redefines the offense of sabotage and boosts maximum penalties to 10 years imprisonment and fines of 1,000,000 francs ($8,000). It also makes punishable the use of fraud, threats or violence to start strikes, keep them going on or spread them.

Today, with almost 2,000,000 workers still on strike and key industries and services limping or paralyzed despite strong back-to-work trends in some fields, Schuman's government faces many difficult situations, including these:

At Marseille—strikers and police were alternating in building and destroying road blocks on the highway from Aix, over which most of the food for France's second city and greatest port passes.

In the Valenciennes mining region—the armed forces ministry said troops were being fired upon, but stood the fire without returning it, "resisting the pressures of many hundreds of strikers."

At Mont Saint-Martin—troops were moving in to remove the last of 500 strikers who barricaded themselves inside a steel mill after obtaining a supply of gas masks.

On the Le Mans-Tours railway line—railway workers found evidence of damage similar to that which wrecked a train, at a cost of 20 lives, near Arras yesterday.

MOORE'S CONDITION REPORTED "FAIR"

Doctor Lists Injuries Suffered by Marion Man.

Condition of William O. Moore, injured in an altercation with a cab driver Tuesday night, was reported "fair" in City hospital today by his attending physician.

Moore suffered a fractured jaw and lacerations of the scalp when police said, Safety Cab Driver Donald Sloan Jr. struck him with auto jack in a dispute over payment of a cab fare.

Moore's aunt, Mrs. Russell Moore with whom he lives at 370 Latourette street, filed charges against Sloan in municipal court yesterday of assault with intent to kill and assault and battery.

When arraigned in court, Sloan pleaded not guilty and was released under $500 bond. No date has been set for the hearing pending Moore's release from City hospital.

Moore was erroneously called William O. Thompson and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thompson in yesterday's Star. The uncle and aunt are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Moore.

NICHOLS TRIAL JURY NEARS COMPLETION

By The United Press

LIMA, Nov. 4—Selection of a jury to try Lester Nichols, 42, Silver Lake, Ind., on first degree murder charges resumed today with court officials confident that it will be completed in time to allow the making of trial statements and a possible visit to the scene of the crime by the jury before the day's session ended.

So far 11 jurors had been tentatively seated with at least one more to be selected from a special venire of 40 after the original venire of 75 was exhausted.

Judge M. B. Jenkins withheld a decision on the selection of a 13th, or alternate jurer, but Prosecutor Paul T. Landis said he would insist an alternate juror be selected as the trial was expected to run for at least 10 days.

The state indicated it would ask the death penalty for Nichols, who is accused of killing Rev. Lewis Whitaker, Nichols' estranged wife's father. He also is facing charges of shooting his wife, Nora 44, with intent to kill.

DELAWARE, Dec. 4—The Ohio Wesleyan university board of trustees today approved construction of two new buildings on the school campus.

Work probably will start early next month on an administration building and a $400,000 Student Memorial Union, the board said. The buildings will be the first step of the university's 10-year development program.

Panic Buying and Bank Runs Worry Russians

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—Reports of "panic buying" and impending currency changes in Soviet Russia have reached Washington and been given sufficient official credence to be broadcast around the world by the government's "Voice of America" radio.

The state department's broadcast in 23 languages last night said the wave of buying had been touched off by widespread rumors of prospective price increases and devaluation of the Russian ruble.

The rush to trade paper money for durable goods at Moscow and other cities, the broadcast said, is reported to have swelled to such proportions that some establishments in the Soviet capital have been forced to close.

Reports to authorities here, supplementing the one on which the broadcast was based, also hinted at further trouble for the tightly managed Soviet economy.

Heavy runs to withdraw savings from banks, these reports related, have resulted in an order to limit individual withdrawals to 200 rubles daily.

Reports from Russia

These spectacular reports—coming out of Russia itself—gave such a sudden new twist to the Kremlin's relations with the rest of the world that diplomats here were cautious in weighing the likely effects.

Moscow's unceasing propaganda against American plans to aid western Europe has hammered the theme that (a) the capitalist United States is headed for an inevitable depression while (b) the Soviet economy is secure.

Now, however, there appear to be grave doubts among the Russian people themselves.

Detailed accounts reaching Washington said the residents of Moscow seemed to consider as true rumors that the Kremlin would decree a new currency tomorrow and that later new and higher prices would be ordered into effect.

Examples in China

Any scaling down of the value of the ruble or raising prices for consumer goods would be a harsh blow to savings. Together, such actions would have the same effect as inflation in the forms made familiar in China and other countries.

There, inflation is measured in terms of foreign currencies and prices have assumed astronomical proportions.

The widely current Moscow rumors were that the new currency would become effective about Dec. 5, that the present ruble would be accepted in exchange only up to the amount of two months' salary, and that at least a portion of savings accounts might be "frozen."

Coupled with this rumor was another that by Dec. 15 the Kremlin would decree a single price system to supplant the current method of rationing some goods at fixed prices and letting the others find their own higher levels. The new prices would be sharply higher, this rumor had it.

An embassy official told a reporter "there is no sign of inflation in Russia" and insisted that the ruble has been gaining rather than losing in value.

EUROPE RELIEF BILL IN HOUSE

Foes Cry Our Gifts May Eventually Be Used Against Us; Vote Next Week.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—Emergency help for Europe and China began its journey through the house today with an opposition cry that "all we give in the way of aid may eventually be used against us in one way or another."

Rep. Leo Allen (R-Ill) called upon his colleagues to defeat the $590,000,000 measure immediately at issue and give searching scrutiny to future foreign spending proposals lest "the industrial plants built with our money * * * be used to manufacture the implements of war for Russia to use against us."

Allen, chairman of the rules committee, was scheduled as the first speaker at the opening of house debate.

At least two days of heated debate face the bill before it collides head-on with a roadblock of amendments designed to reduce its financial authorization and to restrict its application.

Final Vote Next Week

Present plans call for a final vote next Tuesday or Wednesday. Speaker Martin (R-Mass) has expressed the hope it can reach President Truman by the end of next week.

But between the time the bill passes the house and the time it goes to Mr. Truman it must hurdle a senate-house conference committee, for the house is considering a different bill than the one the senate passed last Monday.

The major differences are in the amounts of interim aid proposed—$590,000,000 by the house foreign affairs committee and $597,000,000 by the senate—and in the countries that would receive it.

The senate voted to toss the lifeline only to Italy, France and Austria. The house committee added China and suggested that $60,000,000 be earmarked for that country.

Even opponents of the bill, including Allen, conceded that the measure will be passed. But they were determined to fight to the last vote for amendments.

Proposed Amendments

Among these waiting to be considered are proposals to:

Reduce the total authorization to as low as $400,000,000.

Restrict all government buying under the bill to commodities declared surplus.

Impose price ceilings on government purchases as a safeguard against pushing domestic prices higher.

Provide for administration of the emergency program, as well as any subsequent long-range program, by an independent agency rather than by the state department.

Write into the bill a plainly-worded declaration that congress is not committing itself to future financial aid.

U.S. JUDGES FIND 10 NAZI CHIEFS GUILTY

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, GERMANY, Dec. 4—Ten former state secretaries, prosecutors and judges in Hitler's ministry of justice were convicted by a U.S. military tribunal today on war crimes charges. Four others were acquitted.

Among those convicted:

Franz Schlegelberger, former acting German minister of justice and the main defendant.

State Secretaries Herberg Klemm, a friend of the missing Martin Bormann, and Kurt Rothenburger, who rose to legal importance under the Nazi regime.

Ernst Lautz, chief prosecutor in the notorious people's court of Berlin, which tried treason cases. He was convicted for handling the cases of foreigners under Hitler's "night and fog" decree and perverting the laws of treason to the Nazi program for extermination of Poles. The "night and fog" decree was directed at suppressing resistance to the Nazis in occupied countries by spiriting civilians into Germany for secret trial.

Wolfgang Mettgenberg, a German authority on international law, accused of helping to carry out the "night and fog" decree.

Four of the defendants in the unique case of judges sitting in judgment on other jurists were sentenced to life imprisonment, four to 10 years in prison, one to seven years and one to five. The trial started March 5.

Franz Schlegelberger was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The three-man court was made up of Judges James T. Brand of Salem, Ore.; Mallory B. Blair of Austin, Tex.; and Justin W. Harding of Franklin, O.

Champ Steer Sold, May Bring $8,800 To Young Owner

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—The grand champion steer of the 48th International Livestock Exposition, Big Boy, an 1,100 pound roan Shorthorn, sold at auction today for $8 a pound. The bid was $2.50 a pound less than that bid for the 1946 grand champion last year.

The successful bidder today was Wilson and Company, buying for the Davidson Meat company, Chicago. Bert Overman, chief cattle buyer for Wilson, said the steer would be slaughtered and redistributed to hotels and restaurants on its customer list.

The steer, bought by Claude Millwee, 18-year-old Fort Cobb, Okla., farm boy for $75 and fattened to the king of this year's beef animals, may bring him $8,800 if the steer has not lost any weight during the show. The 1,100 pounds was the animal's weight when acclaimed grand champion on Tuesday.

The bidding for the prize animal started at $2 a pound as the auctioneer, Col. Roy Johnston of Belton, Mo., tried to put some life into the sale. Despite his efforts to top the price of $10.50 a pound paid for Royal Jupiter, the Oklahoma A. & M. college entry which won the grand championship last year, buyer's were reluctant to bid. Last year's price was a show record.

The reserve grand champion, a Hereford steer named Wyoming Proud Mixer, was bought for $3.25 a pound by the Golden Oak Packing company of Chicago. It will be resold at a Chicago restaurant.

In addition to the grand championship steer, other sales scheduled today included the reserve grand champion, Wyoming Proud Mixer, owned by the University of Wyoming, Laramie, and champion carlots of cattle, sheep and swine.

The show's grand champion barrow, shown by 16-year-old Miriam E. Meyer of Crescent City, Ill., a honey-haired 4-H club girl and the first female swine exhibitor ever to win the title, will be sold tomorrow. Also to be disposed of at auction is the grand champion wether lamb, owned by Oklahoma A. and M. college.

AMERICAN DEFENSE TREATY IN SENATE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — President Truman submitted the inter-American defense treaty to the senate today and asked for its approval.

The pact, signed Sept. 2 in Rio De Janeiro, pledges 19 nations of the western hemisphere to act jointly against any aggression in the hemisphere's security zone, stretching from pole to pole and from Greenland and Alaska south to the Falklands.

"The principles, purposes and provisions of the treaty have my complete and wholehearted approval and I am happy to recommend the treaty to the favorable consideration of the senate," Mr. Truman said in a brief message.

Mr. Truman acted three days after Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the senate foreign relations committee, and one of the authors of the treaty, called for immediate submission of the pact for consideration.

The document must be ratified by the legislative bodies of the 19 republics. They are:

Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Peru, El Salvador, Panama, Paraguay, Venezuela, Chile, Honduras, Cuba, Bolivia, Colombia, Mexico, Haiti, Uru-

CATCH FLYING PEN FUGITIVE

One of Five Escapees from Missouri Captured After Plane Crash.

By The Associated Press

JACKSON, Tenn., Dec. 4—Undaunted by a crash landing in a stolen plane, a "potentially dangerous" federal convict fell into the hands of the law last night as he prepared to take off in a second plane, Sheriff Tom Lewis reported.

Sheriff Lewis identified the man as 24-year-old Charles Lee McIntosh, who escaped Monday night with four companions from the U.S. medical center at Springfield, Mo., while serving a six-year term for violation of the Dyer act. None of the others has been captured.

Lewis said the slight, dark-haired McIntosh unfolded a fabulous saga of untutored flying, a casual landing for fuel, and of diving at boats on the Mississippi and Tennessee rivers.

McIntosh was arrested as a suspicious character after his presence at a Jackson landing field was reported to officers, the sheriff said.

He said he was heading for his home at Dayton, O., and was looking for the Mississippi river as a guide, but that he followed the Tennessee river. "I flew up to Murray, Ky., and ran out of gas," Lewis quoted McIntosh, "and landed in a cotton field close to a farm house. The man gave me 10

HOUSE APPROVES SCIOTO LAND FUND

Legislature Asked $100,000 To Improve Property.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4—Ohio is prepared to take over part of the Scioto Ordnance property at Marion from the federal government for an intermediate institution for delinquent boys.

Included in supplemental appropriations sought of the legislature is an item for $100,000 to consummate the transfer of a 1,297-acre tract with 47 buildings to the state for that purpose.

The measure was passed by the house last night and similar action is expected in the senate today.

The transfer is conditioned on the state rehabilitating the property and the $100,000 would be a pledge for that purpose. The federal government's inventory price on the property is $748,000. The state would get it without cost other than the pledge for rehabilitation and development.

State Welfare Director Charles W. Sherwood told the house finance committee, which approved the $100,000 allotment, that the institution would be developed for the older and more incorrigible boys now sent to the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster. Such boys now are being sent to the State Reformatory at Mansfield.

Director Sherwood said it probably would require an expenditure of $1,000,000 during the next five years to develop the institution.

If the state does not acquire the property now, it is to be sold on the open market.

SAFE PROVES SECURE

By The Associated Press

CIRCLEVILLE, O., Dec. 4—Burglars who stole a safe from the Firestone store in Columbus last week went to a lot of work for nothing. The 500-pound safe, battered almost beyond recognition but still protecting $1,000 in cash and checks, was found in a field near here yesterday.

FAST PACE SET IN YESTERDAY'S OPENING ROUND

Passage of Gas Tax and Highway Bill Completed by Legislators.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4—The Ohio legislature, less than 24 hours after it convened in special session, today completed enactment of two bills in Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's 10-point emergency program.

Here's what the bills do:

Add an extra cent to the three-cent state gasoline tax (balancing anticipated repeal of the one cent-a-gallon liquid fuel tax, and

Correct an error in the previous legislative session, which cut off the state highway department's funds for construction of state roads.

One Dissenting Vote

Enactment was completed when the senate passed the highway bill, 28-0, and approved the gas tax measure, 29-1. The dissenting vote was cast by Senator Howard Metzenbaum (D-Cuyahoga), who did not explain his negative vote.

The legislators hoped to wind up their work tonight.

Maintaining the fast pace set in yesterday's opening round, senators and representatives acted to whip through bills already passed by one house and sent to the other for a final vote.

Completion of the program calling for $29,676,087 for veterans' bonuses, welfare operations and pay raises to state workers will set the stage for skeleton meetings of both houses Friday to sign a few bills. Others will be signed later this month.

The senate last night passed six bills in rapid-fire order and sent them to the house. That chamber approved five other measures and passed them on to the senate, but held over one proposal for a vote today.

The held-over measure proposes elimination of $3,880,000 in highway improvement subsidies to counties, cities, villages and townships for next year.

Prospective New Revenue

Herbert explained in his personally-delivered message to the legislature that those subdivisions will get $3,000,000 more in 1948 than they now receive if an additional one-cent gasoline tax is enacted, boosting that levy to four cents a gallon.

Repeal of the one-cent liquid fuel tax, subsequently voted by the senate and sent to the house, will mean that motorists will not pay any more in taxes on that fuel than now, the governor declared.

Repeal of the liquid fuel levy is required because of approval at the last election of a constitutional amendment limiting the use of motor vehicle fuel taxes for highway purposes only. About $15,000,000 annually in liquid fuel revenues now goes into the state's general fund to be appropriated for various uses.

House debate on the extra gasoline tax, which passed 104 to 18, cut down the speed with which that chamber moved last night. Rep. Robert J. Anglin (R-Jefferson) touched off the dispute by insisting upon repeal of the liquid fuel tax without enactment of an additional gasoline levy.

He asserted the present three-cent gasoline tax plus automobile license fees are adequate for present needs and that motorists should not be taxed four cents a gallon for such fuel.

Error Corrected

Other measures approved by the house proposed:

Reestablishment of the highway construction fund repealed by error in the regular legislative session.

Appropriation of $20,000,000 more to help pay Ohio's $300,-

Taking part in the service were Robert McCollister, Clark Byrnes, William Daugherty, Dennis Malloy, James Walsh, James Kirby, Frank Klaus, L. A. Axe, Robert Axe, Dr. A. J. Wagner, Edward McAndrew and William McAndrew.

A report was made on a meeting at Mt. Vernon in which Daniel Gibb and Maurice Tobin assisted in conferring the second degree. Attending the meeting also were Grand Knight Cornely and Joseph Dunn.

Tickets for the banquet may be obtained from the chairman or council members.

Reciprocity

REALISTS always have said tariff is a local problem, and it is. Attempts to broaden reciprocity agreements are running into local opposition. It's one thing to level tariff barriers for the broad benefit of nations, but another thing to tell specific industries they must compete with low-paid foreign labor.

Reciprocity is obviously a sound principle, but its critics continue to challenge it as sound practice. Workers in industries affected by foreign competition, they argue, cannot eat a principle. The critics remember the depression, when some American products went begging for buyers because the market was filled with foreign products at a lower price.

The problem, therefore, as far as reciprocity is concerned, is to demonstrate that it is sound in practice as well as in principle. The demonstration must convince all owners, managers and workers who are concerned with local effects of the current attempt to broaden reciprocity agreements.

One new fact has been added since the depression—the world's unsatisfied demand for virtually everything. As long as this demand continues to be greater than the supply of things obtainable, competition between enterprise in this country and enterprise abroad will remain at a minimum.

Tariff will be less potent as a local issue than ever before. Whatever can be done to ease international trade while this condition lasts will have maximum effect on owners, managers and workers in the United States. Unless rehabilitation can be brought about, of course, tariff might cease to be any issue at all. The United States might find itself with no one to sell to or buy from but its own citizens.

Medals for Everybody

THE recent order depriving Bennett E. Meyers of his Army medals suggests this might be a suitable time for the defense secretary to reconsider the entire subject of medals and ribbons. The noncombat variety was handed out so lavishly in the last war that they became a joke.

Many a pilot of an LSD (large steel desk) won a brace of medals for handshaking and behind-the-scenes finagling. The lieutenant colonel who wore a foreign service ribbon after addressing a meeting in Canada sports his decoration with as much distinction as many another passed out in wartime.

It has been suggested that all noncombat medals awarded in the war be subject to review now. This hardly seems wise, for it would require a tremendous amount of effort on a matter that isn't now of great import. But noncombat awards in the future should be handed out with much greater care. In World War II there were some general officers and colonels who spent a substantial part of their waking hours trading medals.

The Impending Gasoline Shortage

IF GOVERNMENT predictions come true, we are going to be running out of gasoline next spring. There just won't be enough to go around.

Although petroleum production is greater than during the war, we are using 100,000 more barrels per day than we are producing. Not much has been said about this impending shortage, but when it hits it will cause a bigger uproar than poultryless Thursdays. Those called for voluntary cooperation. When a gas station closes up for lack of supplies, a matter of choice isn't involved. Rationing plans have been discarded as too cumbersome and not worth the effort.

When the shortage hits and a good percentage of the nation's vehicles are immobilized, a cry will go up that will release steel for pipelines and refineries. Hell may have no fury comparable to a woman scorned, but earth has one. He's the discommoded motorist.

Irish Birthday

TWENTY-FIVE years ago this week, the Irish Free State came into being. Southern Ireland became a self-governing dominion, with a strong organization known as the Sinn Fein agitating for complete independence. Step by step, the Sinn Fein under De Valera grew stronger until it took over the government in 1932.

Then the Free State began to abandon unilaterally all the provisions of the Free State settlement, even abandoning the name and becoming Eire in 1936. Today Eire is to all intents and purposes a completely sovereign, independent nation, except for a few ties which it has found to its advantage to retain with the British commonwealth.

There probably isn't a more intensely nationalistic country in the world than Eire. During the war it maintained a truculent neutrality. On the occasion of the recent royal wedding in London, it elected to withhold official felicitations. Gaelic is encouraged as the national language. Those who question Eire's ways in the world are likely to get a dressing-down such as only an irate Irishman can administer.

A sympathetic psychologist might say that three centuries of British rule (British misrule, a Dubliner would say) have left Eire "withdrawn," suspicious. Twenty-five years of virtual freedom have made no visible progress in healing the old wound.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Reviews of Books on Vital Questions.

FOR some weeks, we have been dealing with the movies, let us now turn to book reviews. This has become quite a business in recent years, some newspapers running a daily book review column by a sort of book columnist who pretends to read the most massive and erudite volumes in the course of an afternoon. That it cannot be done is obvious, for instance, Du Nouy's "Human Destiny" cannot be read like a Rex Stout murder.

SOKOLSKY

I recently came across a review of Freda Utley's "Last Chance in China," by Harold R. Isaacs. Apparently, the editor of the "New York Times Book Review" operates like a Town Hall debate, getting someone who dislikes a book and its author to give the other side. Differing from the Town Hall, however, he permits no rebuttal, making it possible for an antagonistic reviewer to kill a book.

Now Freda Utley is a well-informed lady, an ex-Communist who has lived in Russia and China and knows what she is talking about. Long before the present converts to the "Russian Menace," who are hopping on the bandwagon of anti-Communism fast, Freda Utley recognized the danger and said it out loud. In those days that was a darling thing to do, because if one risked telling the truth, the galleons of propaganda roared upon the truth-teller with hatred.

So Isaacs says that Utley's point of view is

". . . She believes that no present evil in the world, like the Greek monarchy, the Turkish dictatorship, or a corrupt Chinese officialdom, is comparable to the Russian evil; that nothing was more naive than the notions that led President Roosevelt at Yalta to sign an agreement that launched Russia on its new drive for power in Asia . . ."

With that he disagrees. His view is:

"We can share Miss Utley's urgent fear of Russian totalitarianism. But it is more difficult to see how we are going to exercise the menace by joining hands with the Chiang Kai-sheks and Chen Li-Fus of China or of any country. If these are the only possible allies of democracy, then Miss Utley's, too, is a program for darkness."

In other words, he holds that the United States can afford to pick and choose its allies and not use what is at hand. He makes the further point that Freda Utley says that it might cost us $15,000,000,000 to support Chiang. She actually said that $3,000,000,000 or $4,000,000,000 would probably suffice. She does make the point, however, that China's importance to us is so great that $10,000,000,000 or $15,000,000,000 would not be too great a cost. I have my own doubts about all these billions, just as I have my doubts about the billions for Europe, but Isaac clearly misquotes and misrepresents Miss Utley's position, which he has no right to do. I found another such misrepresentation but do not choose to give it space.

Soldiers That Look Alike

Mr. Isaacs does not favor Chiang Kai-shek. Whom he does favor does not appear in his review, but the editor of the "New York Times Book Review," needing to decorate his page, to make it lively and attractive to the reader, fills it out with a photograph of "Soldiers of the Chinese Communist Army," who look like any other Chinese soldiers, neither better nor worse. He could have used a photograph of the Chinese government's Army against whom these boys are in rebellion. They would have looked about the same.

On the same page is a review of "Danger from the East" by Richard E. Lauterbach—a book that I have not read. It apparently is a violent attack on General MacArthur, who has done a grand job in Japan. Friends of mine, Japanese in Japan, some of whom I have known for a quarter of a century or more, have written to me to tell me of the wonders that General MacArthur has performed in and for their country. According to the reviewer, Robert Shaplen, this is what he gets out of Lauterbach's book:

"We have forgotten that Japan is basically a world problem, Mr. Lauterbach writes, "and we have made her 'a colony.' The emperor is still revered, his throne now shared by MacArthur . . ."

I can survive without reading Lauterbach.

Curley's Back And Boston Can Have Him

Boston's Mayor Curley, released from prison last week, has resumed his official duties.

From all reports, he's glad to be back home, too. Although it'll probably seem strange for a while, answering to "Your Honor" instead of a number.

At any rate, members of Boston's city council are glad, now that they no longer have to hold their meetings only on visiting days.

Mayor Curley, the first politician in the nation's history to serve a municipal and a penal term concurrently, was sent up for the latter on charges of mail fraud. Henceforth, one presumes, he follows Western Union's advice: "Don't write, telegraph."

His Honor should have things easier, now that he has to answer only to the taxpayers and no longer to the warden.

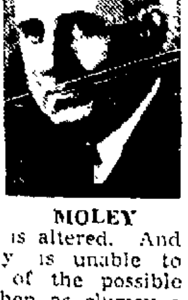
Incidentally, he ought to be a cinch for reelection. What other candidate can boast of having been given time off for good behavior?

Credit Bugaboos

By Raymond Moley

ONE of the most thrilling tales of the Technocrats was the account of how we could change and improve the economy of the world by the device of shifting the warm and cold currents of the ocean. The major premise is right, but the practical means of operation are, of course, impossible.

Something of the same lurid vision came to New Dealers when they discovered that by controlling credit we might control the economy of the nation. Here again, the premise is correct. The rub comes when controls are applied. The credit structure is so complex that when a thread is pulled, the whole fabric is altered. And human ingenuity is unable to comprehend all of the possible results. And when as clumsy a hand as that of political expendiency applies the controls, either something happens that nobody wants or nothing happens at all.



MOLEY

This observation applies to most current proposals before congress to lick inflation by credit controls.

Proposals Agreed Upon

The least controversial of President Truman's anti-inflation proposals have to do with credit. They are the regulation of commodity exchanges, the reimposition of curbs on installment selling and a nebulous power to restrict commercial credits.

The general acceptance of these proposals by both parties seems to be based on the belief that they will do no harm. But will they do any good? That is exceedingly doubtful

Some weeks ago, it was pointed out in this column that prices would not be lowered by increasing the margins on speculation in grain. The department of agriculture, in an effort to curb speculation, raised margins to 30 per cent. But increasing the margins had no apparent effect, because prices continued to rise. Now Secretary Anderson says he wants to raise margins to 50 per cent, but no higher. If this happens, history will be repeated. There will be no economic effect. Public sympathy is against speculation, of course—that is, speculation that the other fellow is doing. Hence, it is a good political move, but a useless economic gesture.

Curbs on installment selling will likewise fail to curb prices. In the first place, a curb on installment plans will not stop buying on credit. It can only increase the down payment and limit the payoff period. The installment plan is an established American institution. It has in no small degree been responsible for the great size of our automobile, sewing-machine and other durable consumer-goods industries. And the size of these industries has lowered prices and lifted the standard of living. In the 20's, there was fear lest installment selling would deepen a depression. That did not happen, because the public reduced its credits by a greater proportion than the shrinkage of its income.

There was justification in 1941 for curbing installment selling, not because of its effect on prices, but because of the need to divert raw materials into armament.

Now the $11,000,000,000 of consumer credits claimed by President Truman is small when compared with the national income. The restraint on purchases will not affect the prices where really dangerous inflation exists, which is the area of food. And in the field where installment selling is common, a real curb exists, which is the available supply of goods.

Federal Reserve Chairman Eccles' proposal to tighten commercial credits by raising the reserve requirements of the federal reserve system is a horse of a different color. It is, in fact, a different sort of horse and a dangerous one. Treasury Secretary Snyder has already sounded a warning against the Eccles idea, which, fortunately, Eccles has no power to put into effect without new legislation

Raising the reserve requirements would raise interest rates, and cause banks to unload government bonds, thus depressing their value. This would mean more difficulty in selling World Bank bonds to help put over the Marshall plan. It would raise the cost of any new government loans or investments and burden the budget with a new item of increase

The way away from inflation is not through credit measures. They are either useless or dangerous or both.

Twenty-one schools, including Harding High school of Marion and Ashley High school entered 86 teams in a total of 172 debates at a tournament and clinic held Saturday at Wooster college in Wooster. All debates were non-decision with coaches and Wooster students acting as critics. The Marion affirmative team, Owen Meddles and John Grimes, debated teams from Kent State High, Canton McKinley, Alliance and Cleveland Shaw High school. Harding's negative team, Margaret Hufford and Josephine Frank debeated Cleveland Collinwood, Toledo Clay, Newark and Wooster. Coach T. D. Bain accompanied the teams and acted as one of the critics.

It was Sunday, Dec. 4, 1927.

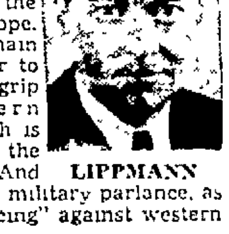
Molotov's Stand in Germany

By Walter Lippmann

RUSSIAN Foreign Minister Molotov has now made it plain enough that he is not in London to arrange a European settlement at this time. While his agents are using violence against the French and Italian governments, he has shown his own hand by rejecting the French proposal for a compromise on the German assets in Austria, and by announcing that he looks forward to the military occupation of Germany for an indefinite time to come.



LIPPMANN

This means that the Kremlin intends to have the Red Army remain in the center of Europe. It is to remain there in order to keep its grip upon eastern Europe, which is encircled by the Red Army. And it is to act, in military parlance, as "a force in being" against western Europe.

It is to be near enough at hand to encourage the French and Italian Communists while they attempt to prove, on orders from Moscow, that it is impossible to govern western Europe without them.

The situation is serious. But there is no reason to doubt that we can meet it by a series of measures which we have the right to take, are in a position to take, and are able to take.

These measures have all been discussed separately, and on none of them is there, in principle, a serious division of opinion within the country, or between congress and the executive, or among the recognized leaders of the two parties. If, now, these measures could be decided promptly, definitely, and together, the Soviet Union will certainly not win the campaign which it is now conducting.

Like Battle of Bulge

For this campaign, though dangerous and destructive, is, in the cold war, remarkably like the Battle of the Bulge in the German war. What then are the measures which we could take? They would, I think, include what follows:

ONE—The first measure is logically in the field of American military policy. Since Molotov intends to keep the Red Army in the center of Europe, we have no choice but to build up and maintain an operational striking force capable, as Undersecretary of State Lovett argued the other day, of delivering a sustained assault at long range.

That, of course, and not by our token armies on the continent, is how the Red Army can most surely be "contained." As long as the Red Army holds half of Europe in its grip and threatens the other half, it must be neutralized and checked by American military power designed specifically to reach the vital centers from which that army is directed and supplied.

We should, therefore, make it clear to Moscow and to all the world that until there are peace treaties which result in the military evacuation of Europe, we shall not disarm but shall, on the contrary rearm.

TWO—The immediate passage by the house of the interior aid bill, as it passed the senate plus the house provision for an advance from the RFC.

THREE—The submission in the nearest possible future of the full Marshall plan.

FOUR—A statement by the President that when American troops evacuate Italy on Dec. 15, the defense of Italy against external aggression will remain an obligation under the peace treaty—since Italy is so nearly disarmed—and an obligation under the charter of the United Nations, and that we shall honor these obligations. In addition, if the congressional leaders think it advisable, congress could support the President by adopting, as Sumner Welles has suggested, a joint resolution

FIVE—An announcement that we have decided to support the Italian claim to be the trustee of the African colonies which were Italian before Mussolini.

SIX—A declaration at London that this government favors putting the coal and steel resources of the Ruhr under an international statute, and that it is prepared to make a binding agreement with France, and with all other interested nations, that the resources of the Ruhr will not be restored to the sovereignty of Germany but will be dedicated to the security of Europe and its common welfare.

SEVEN—A positive rejection of the partition of Germany and of a separate peace with the western part of Germany.

EIGHT—A positive stand in favor of a German peace treaty with a German government, preferably federal in character, which speaks for the whole of Germany within its post-Hitler frontiers, in favor of the replacement of military government by civilian control, and in favor of a timetable, fixed in the treaty, for the withdrawal of the armies of occupation.

NINE—An offer to Poland and to Russia to negotiate about the control of the Ruhr and the allocation of its resources if Moscow will accept a compromise on the Austrian treaty and will negotiate some rectification of the eastern frontier of Germany.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Twitchells and "Miss Hush"

The Elmer Twitchells have a sign out "Do Disturb." They will stand for no intrusions. cannot bother with trivial matters like the of Europe, inflation or a world war threat. are busy trying to identify "Miss Hush" in current radio mystery and win the largest pot in airwave history.

* * *

The Mystery Voice in its most recent said, "Think of Santa's reindeers. What deer is second to him and might be first to Personally I prefer an auto. Now you have profession and my name." The Twitchells taken it from there.

* * *

"We got it," exclaimed Mrs. Twitchell. a dancer, of course. Now what dancer has name like an auto. She says she prefers an auto. See? She picks a Ford... Mary Pickford."

PHILLIPS

"Mary Pickford is married," said Elmer.

"A fine way to cross us up," snapped the wife. "Lemme think . . . Reo? Studebaker? Olds?.. Wasn't there a dancer named Mary Oldsmobile? No, that was a song. ..Dodge? Cadillac? Kaiser-Frazier?"

"Is Henry Kaiser a dancer?" asked Elmer, sweating it out. "Is there a Miss Frazier?.... Could it be Elsie Janis?....There was a named Elsie."

"No. It was a cow," insisted the wife. ley? Pontiac? Chrysler? Graham? ...There a dancer named Margo or Martha Graham, but maybe Miss Hush isn't named after a car but just linked up with some part of a car . it! The horn . It's Lena Horn."

"Why not Toots Shor?" scoffed Elmer. "Was there a Ziegfeld Follies dancer named Prince Yellowcab years ago? What dancers do we know that could be named Trailer Camp?....Or Parking lot ..Bingo!... We win! ..It's Dorothy Parker."

"She's no dancer," insisted the wife, "and she been married."

"I want that confirmed," shouted Elmer appointedly. "Bumper?.. Transmission? Fenders? Lamps? Hood? It could be a Miss Hood. What unmarried Hoods do we know dance?"

* * *

"All of a sudden it's come to me," yelled Twitchell, now in a bad way. "Where does auto take you? Out on the open road? Who loves open roads? A gypsy. It's Gypsy Rose Lee. Remember in those lines second to Santa, to me?"

"For Lee to be right it would have to be second to Ulysses S. Grant," sneered Elmer. "Look, what was the last name of that famous dancer Isadora somebody?"

"It wasn't Jaloppy or Jeep," countered the wife. "Lissen, a famous auto was once known as Lizzie. It's Lizzie Pavlowa."

"You're 100 per cent right except that Lizzie wasn't the front name and anyhow she was married."

"My goodness, why don't some dancer stay single?" moaned the wife.

* * *

They were quite groggy now. Elmer said could be Ann Pennington except that her name was Ann Pennington and there was nothing automobilish about it. Mrs. Twitchell thought there was once an auto clock named Pennypot which was close.

"What's the total list of prizes now anyhow?" gasped Elmer.

"A sedan, an airplane, a furnished house, $5,000 in cash, sable coat, your house painted inside and out, a deep freeze unit, a television set, an ice box, a string of pearls, a diamond bracelet, a half interest in the Yankees, all of Hialeah Park, 30 per cent of all Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals, the first 20 floors of the Waldorf Astoria and all the investments of General Meyers," said Mrs. Twitchell.

"Let's hold out another week," suggested Elmer, falling on a couch, close to a mental wreck.

"Why?" asked the wife.

"They may add Fort Knox," sighed Elmer

The Twill Comfort Suit

By Truman Twill

We are sorry winter has caught us with Twill comfort suit still not finished. The has presented more problems than seemed sible when it was begun during the late war.

The idea was borrowed from aviation outfits that high-flyers wore to keep warm. The aviation outfits plugged into a socket provided that purpose and hottened up their wearers means of wires woven into the padding.

That idea had been borrowed, in turn the electric blankets already being made the war and now as common as mink businessmen's wives. But wait until we electronics to our all-season comfort suit

What we refer to is the kind of get-up men feel comfortable in during warm weather the baggy pants, floppy shirt, casual shoes so on. Summer is the only time of the year most men ever feel really comfortable

As soon as the weather turns chilly, they give up comfort and return to the conventional costume of their sex—buttoned-up shirts, around neckties, pressed pants, padded jackets stiff shoes, cooking-pot hats, the usual layout underwear and heavy socks, plus overcoats

With the Twill all-weather comfort trousers this will be different. Men will wear the outfits 365 days a year, 366 in Leap Years. Seasons will make no difference once they accustomed to the privilege of being comfortable the year 'round, they will throw away the ventional clothing.

American males will appear in the weather dressed in nothing but minimum essentials. As the temperature drops, they will up the amount of electric current drawn miracuously compact storage batteries built their belts. Their only concession to will be a filmy raincoat, so light it can be in their pocketbooks when not in use.

In fact, they may even wear hats with shoes with no toes and heels and go plunging—whoops!—necklines, because ways will be warm as toast—yum.

It may be hard to get used to seeing frisking about like colts, impervious carriers to snow, rain, sleet, blizzard, etc won't be any harder than it was to get tomed to seeing women do it without benefit of electronics, aside from the built into females that enable them to warm with nothing on worth mentioning males with everything on but the hall rug in sick discomfort and wish spring would not be so far behind.

"However, your youth and enthusiasm may shake off the handicaps that were placed on me. While serving the sentence, I have learned something that may be beneficial. If so it is at your disposal."

COURT RULING ASKED ON RENT CONTROL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 4—The legality of rent controls in peacetime will be submitted to a final test by the U. S supreme court in a few weeks, housing officials predicted today.

The court will be asked to decide on a ruling by Federal Judge Paul Jones holding rent controls unconstitutional when peace "in fact" has arrived,

"We considered the decision of such nationwide importance," said Karl M. Duldner, area rent director for Cleveland, "that we decided to go directly to the U S supreme court for a quick ruling

"And we should have a decision before the rent act expires Feb. 29"

Ed Dupree, general counsel of the office of housing expediter said in Washington the appeal will be filed late this week or early next week.

"As for rent control" he commented, "it's still in effect until the supreme court passes upon it."

He said at least two other U S district judges had upheld the 1947 housing and rent control act's constitutionality.

One landlord here, Mrs. Hazel Smith, was permitted by Judge Jones yesterday to disregard an order by rent control officials asking that she reduce rents to tenants of her rooming house

She was granted a temporary injunction restraining enforcement of the order, and Duldner said he thought similar injunctions would be given to other complaining landlords in Judge Jones' court.

PRESIDENT TRYING TO "CATCH UP ON SLEEP"

By The Associated Press

KEY WEST, Fla, Dec. 4—A tired President Truman sought today to catch up on his sleep as he settled down to a weekend of loafing at this sun-bathed naval submarine base.

He got off to a good start yesterday when he, in naval parlance, "hit the sack" for more than two hours shortly after flying here from Washington.

Pointing out the President stood for an hour and 20 minutes Tuesday night shaking hands with 1,070 guests at the White House diplomatic reception, his press secretary, Charles G. Ross, told reporters: "He needed it."

Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, Mr. Truman's physician, pronounced the President in good physical trim, four pounds under top weight, but tired from strenuous work of the last few weeks. He wants the President to get "about 48 hours' sleep" during his five days here.

Except for his speech Saturday afternoon at Everglades City dedicating the new Everglades National park, the President's schedule is being kept free of engagements to permit him to devote most of his time to sleeping, sunbathing and swimming at the beach near the old Fort Taylor club.

The President will fly to Naples, Fla., Saturday and go by automobile the 35 miles from there to Everglades City for a barbecue luncheon immediately preceding his 12-minute address, slated to start at 2:51 p. m. (EST).

HAILED AS HEAD OF JEWISH STATE As thousands of New York Jews celebrated the creation of a Jewish state in Palestine, enthusiastic friends hailed Chaim Weizmann (left), scientist and President of the World Zionist Organization, as the first President of the new state. With him are his wife and Moshe Sherlok, Palestine's representative to the UN Assembly, which adopted the plan for creation of separate Arab and Jewish states.

gallons of fuel oil and I put it in the plane and took off again.

"I didn't have a bit of trouble landing or taking off—I just pulled the stick and up she went."

McIntosh said he amused himself during part of his flight in the light plane by diving at boats he saw on the rivers.

McIntosh was being held at the Madison county jail today. He spent a large portion of the night under questioning by the FBI.

Meanwhile, no trace had been found of the remaining prisoners since three of them terrorized a farm family with a home-made knife and a pitchfork Tuesday night, before fleeing in a neighbor's car.

The three were identified from photographs as William McClellan, 23, of Cumberland, Md., Edward Elsbury, 21, of Marianna, Pa., and Charles R. Maley, 24, of Springfield, O.

Elsbury was serving a seven-year sentence for conspiracy and attempting to escape from a U.S. marshal at Columbus, O.; Maley was serving 20 years for attempted robbery of a New Holland, O. bank; and McClellan was serving three years for Dyer act violation from Pittsburgh, Pa.

The fifth man is Edward Marion Harrison, 31, who was serving five years for Dyer act violation at Little Rock, Ark.

931 HEAR MISS TRUMAN

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 4 — Margaret Truman, in her first personal appearance in Iowa, sang before an audience which the management said numbered 931 persons last night. Clifford Bloom, Des Moines Register music critic, described the program as "reminiscent of lyceum days, abounding in tid-bits and with not a serious art song to be heard save a trifle from the pen of Haydn."

"NEW-USED" CAR DEALER CONSENTS TO BANKRUPTCY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4 — John W. Singleton, the auto dealer who sold almost new cars at apparent losses running into thousands of dollars, yesterday gave his consent to a bankruptcy action. The court had appointed a receiver previously.

Singleton is being held in default of $110,000 bond on charges of embezzlement and larceny by trick. Police Capt. Thomas A. Murphy says 336 persons now claim they paid a total of $670,000 to Singleton, but never received delivery.

The used car dealer was moved to the county jail hospital yesterday after the jail physicians reported he was suffering from stomach ulcers.

By The United Press

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 4—Army search parties were reported officially today to be closing in on the area where it was believed a C-47 transport, missing six days with 20 persons on board, had finally been located.

This area was reported officially to be around Idar-Obeerstein, 68 miles southwest of Frankfurt. Later unofficial reports said the survivors had radioed a searching B-29 in the bad Kreuznach region that they had seen its flares and that the crash was "in a ravine due south."

It was speculated here that the five crew members and 15 passengers, who include one woman, must be seriously injured.

MOLOTOV MANEUVER CONFUSES BIG 4

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 4—The Big Four foreign ministers conference entered its second round today with the western diplomats apparently confused and uncertain as a result of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's latest maneuver on the German peace treaty.

The Russian leader proposed yesterday that his country, the United States, France and Britain should submit to the foreign ministers council within two months "proposals for the fundamentals of the peace treaty for Germany."

His suggestion drew the immediate fire of French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, who said that if the four agreed to such an arrangement they might just as well adjourn the London meeting at once because it is the fundamentals of the German peace settlement that they are supposed to be discussing here.

Neither U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall nor British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin made any comment, so Molotov announced that, lacking support, he would withdraw his proposal.

Soviet officials said later he had had no intention of trying to break off the London meeting.

SENTENCE WITHHELD

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 4—Judge Harold B. Doyle today withheld sentence on Leonard Constantino, 43, of Campbell, and Dale Gloria Josten, 30, of Alliance, convicted white slavers, pending a motion for an appeal. A common pleas jury found them guilty last night of taking a 15-year-old Campbell girl to a disorderly house in Alliance.

MEAT OUTLOOK GROWING DIM

Present Plan Will Bring Enforced Abstinence Next Spring.

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Editor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — By selling livestock at lighter weights and earlier in the fall and winter slaughter season, the farm is not only saving grain but is setting the stage for enforced observance of meatless days next year.

Because of the shortage and high price of grain, the grain-saving campaign and the uncertainty of future livestock prices, farmers are marketing now hogs and cattle which under more favorable conditions would be sold later.

Thus a large part of the winter's meat supply will become available during December and January instead of being spread over a longer period.

Eating On Future

As a consequence, consumers are eating some of the future meat supply now. Thus the period of shortage which is inevitable for 1948 will arrive much sooner than if farmers were in a position to follow the marketing pattern of the past few years. And the shortage will last longer and be more acute.

Meat production is now at near record levels. It is expected to taper off appreciably by late in January. Under better conditions it would hold up fairly well through February and possibly into March.

It is expected to pick up somewhat for a couple of months next spring, when this year's fall pig crop reaches market weights and when grainfed cattle marketings normally reach their peak for the year.

It will fall off again in the summer, possibly to the lowest level since early in the war.

The agriculture department has predicted that the 1948 per capita meat supply will average about 140 pounds, or about 11 pounds less than this year's average.

Supply Above Average

But averages do not tell the full story. The per capita supply at the present time is considerably above the rate of 156 pounds for the full year of 1947. But next summer the rate may drop below the prewar average of 126 pounds. There may be periods when none will be available in butcher shops, particularly outside the great meat-producing areas in the midwest.

Rationing has been suggested as one means of spreading supplies more evenly throughout the year.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson did not mention rationing but he told the house banking committee late yesterday there should be price control because otherwise the expected spring meat shortage may bring "fantastic prices."

In 1860, 500 wagons a day often passed Ft. Kearney on the Overland Trail.

In Loving Memory

★Of George Miller, who was taken from us suddenly 11 years ago December 4.

Your end was sudden, father dear,
You made us weep and cry,
But, oh, the saddest part of all,
You never said goodbye.

Years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never
The memory of all the happy days
That we all spent together

To those who have a father,
Tend him with loving care,
For you never know his value
Till you see his vacant chair.

Jeanetta Ulery,
Georgia Parish.

AUDITOR TO CHECK ON GRID MEN ON PAYROLL

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said today he would make a "spot check" of state offices to determine whether Ohio State university football players on the state payroll actually work at their jobs

His announcement followed disclosure that 43 Ohio State players were paid $3,436 by the state for the month of October.

"If I find that the players are not actually putting in the time that the department heads say they are, I will hold the department heads responsible," Ferguson said. "It may mean . . . have to stop the pay of some department heads if I find the players aren't working and use part of their salaries to pay back the state treasury."

The auditor said that when department heads certify their payrolls that action is taken as assurance that the employes listed actually do the work to which they are assigned If the certifications are not true, payments would be illegal, Ferguson added

Meanwhile, O.S.U. Vice President Bland L. Stradley said he knew nothing about the football players holding state jobs but added that he could see no objection to it if the men were actually working. He suggested that in all probability many Ohio students other than athletes employed by the state.

School Reopened After Ending of Fire Hazard

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O., Dec. 4—Hertzler grade school classes resumed yesterday after Fire Chief Stanley Shaw permitted reopening of the school, which he ordered closed Monday as a "dangerous fire hazard."

Five truckloads of trash were taken from the school's basement and new fire extinguishers were installed.

Shaw closed the school after touring it with Parent-Teacher association members who complained of fire dangers.

In 1885 and for a few years thereafter, boatloads of Egyptian mummies were imported into England and their linen wrappings were converted into paper; mummy paper was of fine quality and much in demand.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The government will pay expenses of moving Eniwetok residents 150 miles to an uninhabited islands...If they know of any other uninhabited islands there are people who will pay their own expenses.

• • •

The people are being displaced so that Eniwetok can be used for atom experiments...This was considered simpler than using the uninhabited island and not displacing anybody.

• • •

Most islanders were opposed to moving but it is not considered good form to argue with atoms.

• • •

Meanwhile there is talk of a new secret weapon...It could be the one-ounce bottle into which chemists have crammed the odor of four thousand ounces of onions.

• • •

If Uncle Sam ever pulls the cork on that, real tears will be shed for civilization.

• • •

I hear it was perfected too late for George Marshall to take to the foreign ministers' conference.

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

CLIMB a flight of stairs in an elderly brick house in Greenwich village. Open the door and you come into the home and workshop of a lady of courage.

She is Dorothy Romaine, who learned how to be an interior decorator by being a janitor

Some years ago tragic circumstances compelled her to earn a living by taking care of two houses. Previously she had been an artist—an "artist who couldn't paint," as she put it.

"It seemed the blackest period of my life," she said, "I had to clean rooms, scrub stairs, stoke furnaces. I was numb with endless fatigue and despair."

BOYLE

Troubling her spirit most was the fact her labor gave no outlet to the creative force she felt within her.

"I was an artist faced with the necessity to earn a living, yet inexorably forced to create—in some form or other," she said.

But if one channel is blocked, the creative force of an artist must find another outlet. Mrs. Romaine found hers in painting, repairing furniture and redecorating the two old houses.

"I learned I could make a picture out of a room," she said.

THE DISCOVERY changed her whole life, and for that she is still grateful.

"Tragedy makes you go forward," she said, "You have to—there's nothing to go back to. You have to be daring."

Little by little she tested her growing skill by redecorating the apartments of her friends. Her problem was to do this without a large expenditure of money. As her friends weren't the type who buy furniture by the vanload.

"But every artist loves a challenge," she said, "and to achieve big results with small means is thrilling.

"An artist has the strange and personal power of seeing things as a picture. When I entered a room I could see the elements that made it blurred, drab or unharmonious. But by simple changes in the juxtaposition of objects, new color patterns, redoing old pieces of furniture, choosing lovely lamps and eliminating useless and ugly things I learned to put harmony, charm and personality into a room.

"I found that beauty is not merely a matter of cost but of taste."

GRADUALLY Mrs. Romaine converted this hobby into a full-time career. She still specializes in helping people of low-budget incomes who "need beauty in their surroundings" but haven't time or talent to do their own decorating.

In the bric-a-brac of dusty auction rooms in lower Manhattan she turns up inexpensive bargains, finds many fine old pieces of furniture disguised by coats of cheap paint.

"Having no money taught me that it isn't the price you pay—it's what a thing is that's important," she said, "and I don't agree with people who bellyache that life is dismal."

Her own creed—taken from the New Testament—is painted over her fireplace and gives her daily comfort:

"Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

She is proud that she is no burden on her grown daughter and a son, now attending an eastern university.

"The children don't have to worry about what they'll do with mama," she laughed, "Instead they wonder what the devil mama will do next."

Salvation Army Yule Kettles Out This Week

The Salvation Army kettles, harbingers of the Yuletide season, will be on the streets Friday and Saturday of this week, and the same days the following week it was announced today by Adjutant Mary Nisiewicz. On Monday, Dec. 15, the kettles will be at various points in the business district each day until Dec. 24.

This year, as in former years, the contributions will be used to purchase grocery orders for the community's less fortunate families at Christmas time. These gifts will include grocery orders, toys, candy and fruit for children and sunshine baskets to be distributed at the City hospital, rest homes, the Children's home, County home and County jail.

Applications for baskets will be taken at the Salvation Army citadel office starting Monday, Dec. 8 and continue through Dec. 13. The hours will be from 10 a. m. until noon and 3 to 5 p. m. Adjutant Nisiewicz announces.

TEN—A declaration that we regard all the European nations, including of course those in eastern Europe, as members of one indivisible political and economic community; that in so far as we are permitted to do so, we shall treat them as such; that as an evidence of this, we favor the granting of productive credits to Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia when those credits fit clearly into the European recovery program.

Each Measure Necessary

It is possible, I believe, to show that each of these measures separately is necessary and wise. But in the situation which is now developing, the combination of all these measures would, I believe, have special and extraordinary value.

In combination, they constitute a policy of concrete measures which are designed to reassure the frightened and to warn the reckless, to unite Europe, to provide it with security, to promote its recovery, to restore national respect, and to inspire hope.

The combination of these measures would be a policy which has scope and depth, is bold and is magnanimous. It would, I have little doubt, touch the hearts and minds of the peoples of Europe. They would see that in their ordeal we are not only prepared to defend them and to help them out but—what would mean the most to the very best among them—that we have lent them our understanding too, have realized what are their vital national interests and what also are their common interests as good Europeans.

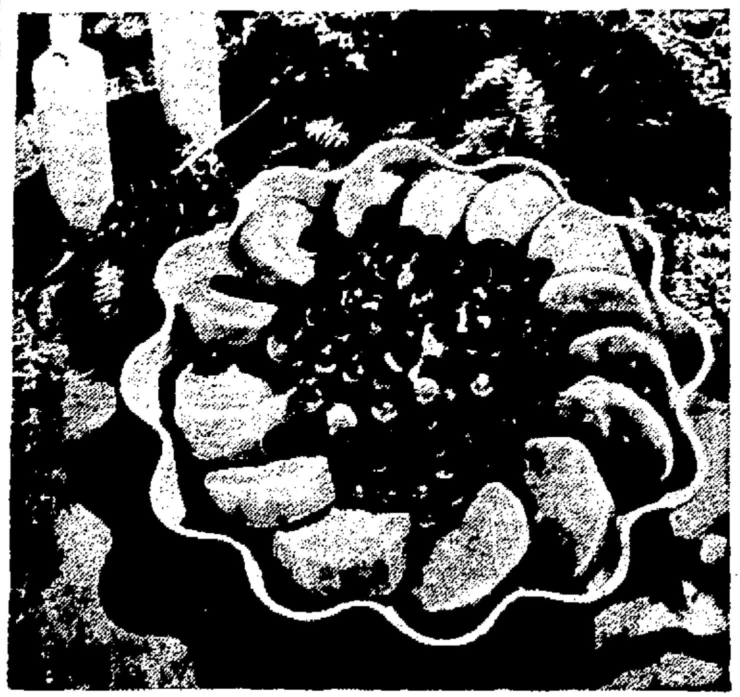
Sweet Potato Dishes



YAM CASSEROLE . . . With cranberries and orange . . .

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

This is the time of year when I always keep a weather eye cocked for interesting sweet potato dishes! Yams go so well with turkey and ham that holiday-time spurs me on the trying new recipes for them.

Last Christmas I discovered how wonderful tasting they were when coupled with cranberries and orange. And I've used this yam, cranberry and orange casserole ever since—to the applause of family and guests. It's handy because it calls for whole cranberry sauce and that comes in jars all the year round. Do try this casserole—it rally has an extra-special flavor.

Yam, Cranberry and Orange Casserole

5 medium-sized yam sweet potatoes, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup orange juice, 1 tablespoon finely shredded orange rind, ¾ cup whole cranberry sauce.

Scrub yam sweet potatoes in cold water with vegetable brush. Put them in a saucepan and add just enough boiling water to cover them. Place lid on saucepan and boil until tender. Drain at once, peel and slice in lengthwise slices or 1-inch crosswise slices. Arrange in casserole. Combine the sugar, butter or margarine, salt, orange juice and half the orange rind in a small saucepan; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Pour over yams and bake in a moderate oven (375 F.), basting if desired, for about 30 minutes. Spread cranberry sauce over the yams and sprinkle with remaining orange rind. Bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, just enough to heat cranberries. Adding the cranberries last in this way preserves their bright red color. This makes 6 servings.

Now I find two interesting-sounding recipes for sweet potatoes in a new book that has just come into my kitchen, Paul Bragg's Health Cookbook, published by Alfred A. Knopf, New York. The cookbook was privately printed but apparently there was enough clamor for it to warrant this present and handsome edition.

Although I am not of the health food or health fad school I have found that there are some excellent cooks among that following and that their dishes are often worth trying. You don't have to be too prejudiced—or too discouraged—by the unfamiliar ingredients called for, because as Mr. Bragg says, there are "health food stores" all over the country these days. If you are adventurous you can always sample their wares.

Maple Candied Sweet Potatoes

3 medium sweet potatoes, ¼ cup maple syrup, ½ teaspoon butter, ½ teaspoon vegetable salt seasoning, ½ cup unsweetened apple juice, ¼ cup of water.

Steam potatoes in jackets until nearly tender. Peel and slice into baking dish. Heat remaining ingredients to boiling, pour over potatoes, and bake in slow oven (300 F.) 1 hour. Serves 3.

Sweets in Apples

2 tablespoons butter, 3 large apples, 2 tablespoons brown or raw sugar, 2 medium yams or sweet potatoes cooked, mashed, 2 tablespoons raisins.

Remove slice from top of each apple, and core. Scoop out apples, leaving a substantial shell. (Scallop edge with a sharp knife, if desired.) Chop pulp. Add butter, mashed sweet potatoes, brown or raw sugar and raisins. Mix well. Fill apple shells. Place in baking dish with a small amount of water. Bake in modertely hot oven (375 F.) 45 minutes. Serves 3.

REV. ELDON R. MARTIN PENSION GROUP SPEAKER

Rev. Eldon R. Martin, pastor of the First Wesleyan Methodist church was a guest speaker at a meeting of the Old Age Pension society of Marion county Friday afternoon in the Eagles' hall. He chose his text from the seventh chapter of Matthew and said in part: Love, gentleness, meekness and patience, long suffering, honesty, virtue are the fruit of the spirit. The fruit of our lives is the real test of being a Christian. It takes fertile ground to grow fruit. The evil tree can bring long suffering; a good tree can not bring evil or poisonous fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

Rev. Martin offered the opening prayer and the group took part in prayer and a patriotic exercise. Music included a song by the choir, and a vocal duet by Christian Ruth and William E. Sergent. The history of Thanksgiving day was given by Mr. Sergent, and Claude Crowley and Tom Manhart reported on the state convention of Townsend Clubs of Ohio. A report of illness and deaths in the membership was given by Mr. Sergent, and Arthur Hershner read items of interest from the national publication on legislative affairs. A song by the choir and prayer by Rev. Martin closed the meeting.

How To Flatter Mother

DAD'S GIFT SURPRISE . . . A floral scented bouquet in a fancy package.

* * *

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Ask a son what his mother would like for Christmas and almost invariably he will say, "Oh, she doesn't want anything fancy." How Sonny underestimates his Mom! Just because she has reared a family, battles with pots and pans and is the family seamstress is no reason to suspect she doesn't enjoy the charm a glamor gift affords.

Listen to her exclaim at top-of-the-pack Yule favorites such as perfume, cologne, sachet, fancy soaps, bath powder, and tricky, unusual compacts.

Here are some suggestions:

Scented Soaps . . . In a variety of colors, shapes and sizes, scented with her favorite fragrance.

Sachets . . . Hangers, lingerie cases and handkerchief bag are sachet scented in spicy, tangy, floral scents. Or buy sets of sachet with which Mom can experiment. These are put up individually in bottles or tiny satin bags.

Cologne . . . Take your choice of scents which run the gamut from tweedy bouquets to exotic fragrances. Most colognes are light enough not to clash with Mother's personality, even if your choice is wrong.

Perfume . . . You must use a bit of intuition and lots of good taste when selecting perfume. Here is where your mother's personality does count. A shy little mother can't run around reeking of a perfume meant for a sophisticated cafe society matron. On the other hand a dynamic woman rarely selects or wants a light floral scent.

Lovely, unusual bottles and packages missing since before the war are available again. Take your choice of a gold bottle wit ha circlet of rhinestones; a hat box containing decorative hatpins besides its three small trial-size bottles of perfumes; perfume enclosed in a gold Christmas bell complete with clapper! There is perfume to be found in Christmas tree type ornaments; in Santa Claus packages; in lucite boxes.

Compacts . . . Every woman enjoys having a brand new compact. There are large over-sized cases and dainty, small antique-type units available in gold-plate, silver-plate or bronze. One red, white, and gold one is a pretty, gay one which she perhaps will use immediately Christmas morning.

Dissension Rumored In Pacific Coast's Stand on Major League Expansion

Near Certain Rejection of Coast's Major-Minor Request Causes Split

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 4—One of the big battles in baseball appeared to be shaping up today as rumors of dissension among Pacific Coast league owners leaked out here to dwarf all other activity at the minor league's 46th annual convention.

Despite League President Clarence Rowland's insistence that all was serene among the Coast's moguls, it was learned that Paul I. Fagan, vice president of the San Francisco Seals, and generally referred to as the "strong man" of the league, had confided to friends that he was determined to bring major league baseball to San Francisco.

It also was learned that the "Big Four" coast teams, with the exception of the Chicago Cubs' owned Los Angeles club, had held a "secret" meeting several weeks ago to consider what steps would be necessary if the big leagues refuse the Coast's request for major league status.

It appears almost a certainty that the American and National leagues will not grant such a request.

An informant told The Associated Press that the three clubs had placed a value on the property held by Sacramento, San Diego, Portland and Seattle at $2,500,000 and agreed among themselves to compensate those clubs that amount.

Each of the clubs going into the majors agreed to pay $500,000 to the others with a half million dollars coming out of the league treasury, the informant added.

Disturbed by reports that the league was split into two factions, Rowland called for a special session among the Coast's officials and came out with a "united front" stand reiterating their previous expression of faith.

Emil G. Sick, president of the Seattle club and Yubi G. Separovich, general manager of Sacramento, who recently sold his interest in the Solons to Oscar Salenger, were lined up solidly against the "Big Four."

In the first day of the three-day session yesterday, Minor League President George Trautman greeted the delegates from 54 leagues with a resume of National Association activities in his first year as president, winding up his remarks with a warning that requirements would be higher for admission of new leagues.

PIRATES SEND FLETCHER TO CLEVELAND INDIANS

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 4—Trades finally got out of the rumor stage with the Pittsburgh Pirates sending first baseman Elbie Fletcher to the Cleveland Indians for slightly more than the $10,000 waiver price. In return the Indians sent first baseman Les Fleming to the Pirates' Indianapolis farm for the waive tag.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—Pat Kennedy, who probably knows as much about basketball officiating as anybody, figures that the lessons learned in the big pro league eventually will dead to two changes in the college court regulations . . . Kennedy, a notably noisy figure when he's officiating, manages to keep fairly quiet while he's discussing his job as referee in chief for the Basketball Association of America in accents—and sometimes words—faintly reminiscent of Mushky Jackson . . . "We have made two changes that I think the colleges will follow," says Pat. "We allow coaching from the bench during timeouts. Everybody knows it's done anyway, so we let the players go over to the sidelines and receive any instruction the coach wants to give. And we don't allow a team to refuse a foul shot and take the ball outside. We found it slows up the game, costs the team that's behind a chance for a two or three-point shot and it leads to repetition of the foul." . . . The B.B.A. is agin' anything that slows up the game. The whole idea—and that covers Pat's famous whistle-tooting act, too—is "give the fans a show."

OHIO STATE U. will have an all-sophomore basketball team this season because Coach Tippy Dye can't find any juniors and seniors good enough to displace the sophs.

Prexies To Meet Bexley In Opener at Edison Tomorrow

Tomorrow night will see the start of the Harding High school basketball season when the Prexies meet Bexley at the Edison gymnasium.

Bexley Coach Carlton Smith will bring a veteran team with him which will include Campbell, Bernlohr and Anders, all last year's varsity members. Wallingford and Zeller, who played second string varsity, are expected to fill the other two spots on the first team. Cohen, Harkness, Myers, Nagle, Neustadt and Thall all came from last year's reserve squad. Whether Coach Smith uses his double pivot offense Friday night will depend on his material.

Prexy Coach Kenneth Somerlot will put his boys through the polishing-up stage at practice tonight. His probable lineup is Clark and Riddle at forwards, Jim Rea and Dick Thomas at guards, and Jim Coss at center.

Another senior showing a lot of promise in practice is Dick Gherman. Others who will probably see action are Ed Roseberry, Roger Andrews and Bob Short. Bill Buckingham and Tom Taylor will make up the rest of the varsity squad.

Although the Bexley Bobcats are big, Coach Somerlot thinks the Presidents have a good chance to win.

"The boys definitely have the winning spirit," said Coach Somerlot.

Adult tickets are now on sale at Markert and Lewis and stúdent tickets went on sale in Harding's East Hall at noon. Because of the limited capacity of Edison gym (which seats but 250), only 75 adult and 125 student tickets are available. Fifty adult and 35 student tickets were allotted to Bexley.

The reserve game starts at 7 p. m.

U.S. Olympic Heads Await Word on Hockey

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 4—The United States Olympic committee today awaited the decision of the Swiss organizing committee at St. Moritz, Switzerland, concerning the "hot potato" status of who will make up the United States ice hockey team in the 1948 winter games.

Yesterday the committee, headed by Avery Brundage, meeting in Chicago, threatened to withdraw all the United States' teams from the winter contests if the Swiss committee sticks to its preference for the ice hockey entry of the "professional and commercial" Amateur Hockey association.

In London, however, John Ahearne, general secretary of the International Ice Hockey Federation, termed the Chicago action "a bluff."

OLYMPICS ENTRY IN DOUBT

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 4—Frank Lane has been re-elected president of the American Association for a two-year term. Both Lane and Secretary Earl R. Flora were given sizeable bonus checks.

Lane, who just completed his first year as association president, still had another year to go on his first contract. Under action taken by the league directors the former Cincinnati and New York Yankee western division farm director is now contracted through 1950.

"ALL STAR BATTLE ROYAL TONIGHT"

To make up for unavoidable program of last Thursday due to the icy Michigan roads Promotor Fishbaugh has signed another battle royal with a champion and two former champions in it. Here are the five stars who will take part tonight: Herb Parks, American Junior Heavy Champion and holder of the Canadian Light Heavy title; Billy Rayburn, former American Junior Heavy Champ; Billy Weidner, former Mid-West Champion at Columbus who has never lost a match in Marion; Billy Murray, the Canadian who handed Paul Orth his first Marion defeat and did a wonderful job on last Thursday's Card and last, Capt. Mike Mihalakis, one of the most colorful men in the ring. The second and third man to lose in the royal will wrestle an hour semi-final instead of forty-five minutes and the last two to survive the mat massacre will come back for the two-hour main event. KENTUCKY, VILLANOVA TO TANGLE SATURDAY

Success of 1st Great Lakes Bowl Game Uncertain.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4—Another football bowl venture will be unveiled here Saturday when the Wildcats of Kentucky and Villanova tangle in the first annual Great Lakes Bowl game.

Success of the feature, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, hinges upon the weather and the interest local football fans may have in a clash between out-of-town elevens who experienced winning but not unbeaten seasons.

Villanova, which has been established as a seven-point favorite, came thundering down the stretch to win its last three games against Marquette, Georgetown and San Francisco.

The Pennsylvania Wildcats lost to Army, 13-0, to Boston college, 6-0, and played a 7-7 tie with Miami of Florida.

Kentucky dropped three games this season—to Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. Alabama and Mississippi were just a bit too tough, while the Tennessee victory was regarded as an upset.

Chief credit for Kentucky's upswing in gridiron fortunes has been given to Paul (Bear) Bryant, 33-year-old Arkansan who starred at end on Frank Thomas' Alabama powerhouses from 1933-35.

Bryant apparently has satisfied Kentucky's wants in the coaching department because a contract he signed in February, 1946, was extended for a 10-year period the following November.

Western Reserve Star Signs with Pro Browns

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4—Warren Lahr, Western Reserve star fullback, is passing up another season of college football to play with the Cleveland Browns next year.

Lahr, who announced yesterday that he had signed with the professional team, was described by Brown coach Paul Brown as an excellent prospect.

"I saw Warren play only once and he made a fine impression on me," Brown added.

The 185 pound, five foot eleven player is from West Wyoming, Pa. and intends to remain in college and graduate in Feb., 1949. He is 24 and served in the Navy during the war.

Ohio Hunters Might As Well Put Up Guns

Game Chief Sees Little Chance for Increase of Wildlife Population.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4—You might as well put your shotgun among your souvenirs for a while, if you use it only to hunt Ohio game.

Dr. E. D. Martin, head of the game management division of the state division of conservation of natural resources, declared today that the 1947 game population was the lowest in history, and that he saw no chance of a great increase within the next five years.

And that means the fast-flying pheasant and the rapid-running rabbit will be just as few and far between as they were this year when hunters out-numbered the game in practically every field.

Dr. Martin said the state division placed some 69,000 pheasant chicks on game farms last spring, and that he didn't see how that total could be bettered despite the planned use next spring of electric brooders.

Many factors entered into the low game population, Dr. Martin said. Among them were a lowering of brood stock, spring floods which killed young rabbits and pheasant as well as wrecking egg-filled nests; and lack of cover during the war years as practically all available fields were tilled.

Dr. Martin said "I expect the game population will never get back to its 1941 peak. This year it was the lowest since 1917, when automobiles first game into general use, making trips to the distant hunting spots convenient to city hunters who formerly had made only short trips to the outskirts of their towns. These same automobiles also take a huge toll of rabbits and other game, especially at night."

Last year 750,000 hunting licenses were issued in the state, but Dr. Martin said the number dropped this season.

"We knew the game population was very low, and did not encourage the sale of licenses," the division chief said. "As a result of the drop in the number of hunters, and strategically-placed game refuges to which flushed game might escape, I believ ethe carry-over in seed stock will be a bit heavier this year."

He disclosed that 59 game refuges had been set up since Sept. 1, and that he hoped to have at least 150 in all sections of the state available by spring.

"The game refuge system," he said, "is the most practical and cheapest form of propagation. It is about the only method by which we can be certain of having breeding stock carried over from one season to the next, but even with the natural increase thus assured, plus the placing of pheasant from our own brooders and the drop in the number of hunters, I see no great increase in the game population for the next five years. I'll be glad when we get back to the place where hunters can take the field and be assured of bringing home a bag of some kind."

Mt. Gilead Cagers Open Friday with Edison

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Dec. 4—Mt. Gilead Indians open their basketball season Friday night when they meet the strong Edison Tigers on the Edison floor.

The Indians have only two varsity lettermen back, Gay Klingel and Nelson Campbell, neither of whom were starters last year.

D. B. Noble will coach the junior varsity this year.

Edison, which lost all of its 23 games last year, has won its first six games this year under their new coach Fred Goare. Goare's brother Manyard, who plays guard on the Edison team, set a county scoring mark last Saturday night dumping 63 points through the hoop in his team's 103-45 victory over New Bloomington.

BEE GEES WIN SECOND CAGE DOUBLE HEADER

By The Associated Press

Bowling Green university won another basketball doubleheader last night routing Assumption of Canada, 80-28, and Bluffton of Ohio, 73-43, as Coach Harold Anderson substituted entire teams in trying out his 20-man varsity squad.

The victories were the third and fourth of the week for the Falcons, who opened play Monday night by blasting Defiance, 75-23, and Tiffin, 84-17, in another twin bill.

Bowling Green's giant centers, six foot ten inch Charley Share and six foot six inch Mac Otten, dominated rebounds in both the Assumption and Bluffton games last night.

Elsewhere around the state, Akron whipped Baldwin Wallace, 63-54, Toledo downed Cedarville, 44-30, and Fenn College paid little attention to publicity touting John Carroll's power, defeating the Red Streaks, 44-42.

Bounty for foxes in Marion county is $3.

Harding, St. Mary Gridders Feted at Annual Banquet

Two Coaches Introduce Letter Winners; O.W.U. Mentor Talks

The Harding Presidents and the St. Mary Irish were honored in a bang-up football banquet in St. Mary's Moira hall last night sponsored by the Inter-Club council.

About 57 football players, coaches, and managers received tribute from Marion fans for the fine football they have played this season.

Guest speaker for the annual occasion was Glen Fraser, coach of Ohio Wesleyan's Battling Bishop's, who said he was happy to see the spirited support that Marion fans give their teams and hoped that Marion teams would always be as successful as they have been this year.

Jack Laudenslager, master of ceremonies, introduced coaches of Marion's winning teams, and the coaches in turn introduced assistants and players.

St. Mary Letter Winners

Coach Gene Fetter paid tribute to the help he had in coaching the Irish from Forest Sharrock and Martin Lewis and introduced the 17 St. Mary letter winners: Joe Maniaci (captain), Dick Schuler, James Moloney, John Granger, Dan Smith, Dick Werley, Tom Wagner, Ed. Moloney, John Baldauf, Bob Stuber, Bob Cusick, Kevin Krigbaum, Paul Cusick Ed. Murphy, Bill Merchant, Nick Maniaci and Jim McDonald.

Coach Pete Howison of Harding introduced his assistants at Harding, Howard Thomas, Kenneth Somerlot, and George Keel, and the coaches of the city's three junior highs, George Whitehead of Edison, John Luginbuhl of Central and Darl Gatchell of Vernon. He also thanked the Boosters club for their support and said he was sorry they hadn't used up all of their fireworks. "They would have," said he, "if they'd gone to Sandusky."

Earn Harding Letters

Harding letter winners he introduced were: Jim Coss, Dick Gherman, Dick Huddle, Dick Corwin, Jim Hill, Jack Hoffman, Gene Peadon, Bob Ralston, Bob Short, Jack Bishop, P. J. Menzer, Clarence Smith, Tom Taylor, John Isaly, Keith Bushatz, Merle Daum, Dick Leffler, Dick Upton, and Lloyd Williams, and senior gridders Don Ellis, Fred Lacey, and Jim Eddy, juniors Roger Andrews, Ralph Hogan, Bob Chapman, Ray Phillians, and Calvin Roest.

St. Mary manager Jim Stahl and Harding managers Jim Williams, Dick Roseberry, and Pete Regules, were honored by their coaches.

In his remarks to the group of about 250 at the banquet, Coach Glen Fraser said he favored giving the game to the players and said he places a premium on good play rather than winning play.

Team Man Best

"The greatest tribute one can pay a player is to call him a team man," said Fraser.

He would rather see a team do things on their own initiative than follow a set routine.

He told several amusing incidents to illustrate his talk and after the banquet showed movies of the Ohio Wesleyan team in action.

Host for the evening, Father Spickerman of St. Mary, and Superintendent E. E. Holt also spoke to the group and told several amusing stories.

Laudenslager thanked the sponsoring organizations—Lions club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club, Kiwanis club, Y's Men's club, and the Exchange club—for their help in making the dinner a success and thanked Carl Keller and John Smith in particular for their work.

SET GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS IN FEBRUARY

Amateur Boxing Classic To Be Held in Toledo Arena.

Special to The Star

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 4—Golden Gloves will fly once again in the Toledo area this season with the dates for The Times' big amateur boxing classic having been scheduled as Feb. 2, 4, 6 and 9.

The magic dates fall on Monday, Wednesday and Friday for the three preliminary nights with the big final championship windup falling on the following Monday. The site for all bouts will be the beautiful new million-dollar Sports Arena located in downtown Toledo.

Last year some 120 youngsters entered the first annual Times' classic with eight champions eventually being crowned on the final night when more than 8,000 fans packed the University of Toledo field house for the giant climax. It was the largest crowd ever to witness an indoor event in Toledo's history.

As always is the case, the eight champions this season will move on to the tournament in Chicago the final week in February. Last year Toledo made a history-making inaugural showing, finishing sixth among teams from 32 states and sending flyweight Pat Lowry and light heavyweight Buddy Carr to the finals of their weight divisions.

Already young mittmen of the Toledo area are hard at work grooming themselves for the big fistic venture with activity general throughout northwestern Ohio and southern Michigan. Last year, Monroe, Mich., with its ambitious amateur mitt program, sent a score of youngsters into the Toledo event to rank first in number of entries.

Several nearby towns are planning their own elimination tournaments this season and interest everywhere is high as the Golden Glovers prepare once more for the "big push."

Entry blanks will be published shortly and additional information may be obtained by writing the Golden Gloves Director, Toledo Times Sports Department, Toledo, O.

LOUIS, WALCOTT REST UP FOR BOUT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 — Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott, both 33, which is aged as prize fighters go, took well earned rest today to get in top mental and physical shape for tomorrow's world heavyweight championship fight.

Odds ran as high as 1 to 10 Louis will retain the title he has held 10 years. There was comparatively little betting.

Last word from the champion's camp was the unanimous verdict of his sparring partners that he is better than ever.

The challenger's associates made no such claim for their man, but instead hinted they would rather see some other referee than Arthur Donovan in the Madison Square Garden ring for the 15 round fight. Louis said he didn't care. Donovan has worked 12 of Joe's 23 title defenses.

Louis at 212 pounds will hold an 18-pound advantage over Walcott; his reach is 78 inches, two more than Walcott's; and at six two he is two inches taller.

To Heck with Defense, Says U.S.C. Mentor

By The United Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4—Coach Jeff Cravath of Southern California today came up with his theory on how to beat Notre Dame Saturday: "To heck with defense," he said. "You can't win a ball game with defense," he said. "You can't win a ball game with defense."

Although he has no Johnny Lujack, the Trojan coach does have a couple of men who can rifle a ball—George Murphy and Jim Powers. The former was throwing tricky, short passes while the latter heaved them long and right into the arms of his receivers in workouts.

Sending his varsity against the junior varsity and fourth string, Cravath was gratified as the first team marched down the field time after time.

The drives were sparked by veteran back Mickey McCardle who broke loose for numerous long gains.

B.G. RESUMES WRESTLING

BOWLING GREEN, O., Dec. 4—The ten match wrestling schedule which was approved here today by the University Athletic committee officially resumes wrestling as an inter-collegiate sport at Bowling Green State university after a lapse of six years.

Glenn Dobbs, besides setting passing records for the Brooklyn Dodgers, punted 80 times for his club last year, averaging 47.8 yards per punt to set an all-time record.

Rockne, Jones Gone but N. D.-U. S. C. Rivalry Goes On

By JIM BECKER
AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Knute Rockne and Howard Harding Jones are gone, but the intersectional rivalry they began will have its 18th renewal Saturday before 105,000 spectators.

Notre Dame and Southern California will tangle on that date in Los Angeles, continuing a series that began in 1926 and has never presented a one-sided show. While other schools wriggle off the Irish grid schedule because "no college can play Notre Dame every year," the men of Troy will attempt to demonstrate that a college can play the Irish on level terms season after season.

After 18 battles, the two schools stand separated by only 27 points, with the Irish on the healthy side—having gained 20 of those points in last year's 26-6 fracas.

Here's how close the series has been:

Four of the games were decided by points after touchdown in favor of Notre Dame.

USC has posted three shutouts over the Irish—and three times the Trojans were balked at the goal line.

Two games were settled by field goals.

Only seven games produced a winning margin of more than one touchdown—four going to USC, three to the Irish.

One game ended in a tie.

Thrilling Battles

Some of the most thrilling battles in the history of the gridiron sport have been produced by this series. Two of these same in successive years. In 1930 the men of Troy were loaded. They smacked down mighty California 74-0, blasted the Indians of Stanford, 47-14, and came into the Notre Dame tilt determined to wipe up the sod with the Irish.

Jones had prepared his gridders to cope with the powerful Notre Dame backfield of Carrideo, Swartz, Savoldi and Brill, but was totally unprepared for the charges of an unsung back by the name of Bucky O'Connor, who ran wild. Notre Dame surprised the grid world with a 27-0 rout—the largest margin ever compiled by either team.

KNUTE ROCKNE

HOWARD HARDING JONES

That was Rockne's last team. His death that year broke up the genuine friendship that had existed between the rival mentors. On each visit to South Bend thereafter, Jones always placed a wreath on the grave of the immortal Knute.

When Jones died, following the 1940 season, his successors continued the custom, and Notre Dame coaches honored the Trojan coach likewise.

In 1931 Southern Cal got back into the win column in a real thriller. Down 14-0 after three-quarters at South Bend, they suddenly burst their bonds and counted two quick touchdowns, only to miss the extra point that would have tied the tilt.

But with time running out, Johnny Baker, great Coast guard, stepped back and booted a field goal to give the Trojans a 16-14 edge. It was the beginning of a three-year string of Trojan wins.

In Los Angeles in '35, the series produced one of its greatest thrillers, and a controversy that raged through the nation. An undermanned Trojan team (those were lean years for Jones who was between great teams) faced a powerful Irish squad with only a slim chance to win. The Irish shot off to an early 6-0 lead and were driving for a second score when Mickey Anderson pulled down a flat pass on his own two-yard line and took off for the goal with Larry Danbom of the Irish in pursuit.

Runs Into Official

Anderson stepped the 98 yards but Danbom ran into a clumsy official and was knocked down in the chase. Many Notre Damers felt he might have nabbed Mickey. Later the Irish made it 13-6, but shortly before the half ended the Trojans pulled a line buck-lateral play they had hoarded for the occasion to score from 80 yards out. They added the point and the game ended at 13all.

Not so spectacular, and probably best forgotten, was the game of 1942, that almost ruptured the famous series.

Tempers flared that day on both sides of the field as the two powerful teams played a little extra-rugged football. The Irish took a 13-0 lead in the first half, and neither team seemed to care much about the score after that.

Three times the benches of both teams emptied into the field to slug it out. The second half of the game degenerated into a slugging match as the officials let it get out of hand and the fans booed roundly.

Notre Dame and Southern California didn't play again until last year—the war and the travel ban was given as the reason—and a lot of fans claim that the fisticuffs on the field that day were the reasons or the postponements.

The big game has been back since last fall and probably will enjoy a long and hearty life. The 105,000 who witness it in Los Angeles and the 56,000 who jam the South Bend stadium in alternate years are glad to have it.

Rickey Gets Chandler's OK To Sign Durocher

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—Branch Rickey, who has been playing the role of baseball's "Mr. Hush" on the Brooklyn Dodgers' managerial plans for 1948, admits that Commissioner A. B. Chandler has given him the green light as far as naming Leo Durocher is concerned.

"I have seen the commissioner," Rickey was quoted by the New York Times, "and that millstone is no longer around my neck."

This was taken by baseball men to mean that any day now the announcement would be forthcoming that Durocher had signed a contract to pilot the Brooks next season.

(The New York Daily Mirror, in a copyrighted story, said Durocher had signed a contract yesterday at Rickey's Chestertown, Md. (farm).

The Mirror also reported that Dixie Walker, popular Brooklyn outfielder, has been traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates with pitchers Hal Gregg and Vic Lombardi for shortstop Billy Cox, plus cash and several other undisclosed players.

ATOM BASE BOSS SHOWS UP PROPHETS

By The Associated Press

GREENFIELD, O., Dec. 4—Lt. Gen. John Edwin Hull, commander of the super U. S. atomic energy base being developed at Eniwetok, atoll, has contradicted the prophets of the Greenfield High school class of 1913.

Ed Hull, as he was known then and now in his home town, was to spend his life as a "hermit farmer coming to town infrequently and then only to procure some of the necessities of life, particularly tobacco for his pipe."

It didn't turn out that way. In fact, a much more accurate forecast was summed up recently by F. R. Harris, superintendent emeritus of the Greenfield schools, who not only was Ed's teacher in high school but also his football coach.

"Football in that day was a far cry," Harris recalled, "from the intricate game of today. But at least it taught the boys initiative and leadership, and these qualities have certainly been an outstanding characteristic of General Hull."

Football was his foremost interest in those days, and in the words of his coach:

"He undoubtedly belongs on the all-time, all high school football team. He was fullback on the team that was all conquering in south central Ohio in 1910 and 1911, and captained the squad in his senior year."

He attended Miami university, at Oxford, O., where he played a line position in football. He received his degree in 1917. Shortly after graduating, he was commissioned in the reserve corps, and then in the regular Army as a second lieutenant. After serving overseas in the First World War, he chose the Army as his career.

Grand Jury's Meyers Case Probe Near Close

By The United Press

…SHINGTON, Dec. 4—A federal grand jury today neared completion of the first phase of a … investigation into the … business deals of retired … Gen. Bennett M. Meyers.

As the jury temporarily laid aside the Meyers case to take up other pressing business, government prosecutors indicated they … already presented the main body of their evidence against the former Air Force procurement officer.

It was believed the jury might take formal action in the Meyers case within the next few days.

Bleriot H. Lamarre, his wife, Mildred, and her brother, T. E. Readnower, the three main government witnesses against Meyers, completed three days of jury testimony on their relations with the retired general yesterday. Prosecutors said they would not be recalled during the present phase of the jury's inquiry.

ESCAPED MANSFIELD PRISONER RETURNED

By The Associated Press

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 4—Police today said Clarence Griffey, who had been questioned about possible knowledge of the drowning of Martha Seel, 19, near Pittsburgh, is being returned to the Ohio State reformatory at Mansfield, O., from which he escaped in the spring of 1946.

Detective Sergeant Howard G. Brewer said Griffey was arrested Nov. 23 on a charge of possession of obscene literature. At that time he gave his name as Walter Jarvis Brock, 23, of San Antonio, Tex. Brewer said a routine check of fingerprints with the FBI established the identification as Griffey, and brought the information that he had escaped from the reformatory.

Brewer said that newspaper clippings about the drowning of Martha Seel of Etna, Pa., were found in the man's billfold. Pittsburgh police were informed of Griffey's answers to questions about the Seel drowning, but Brewer said a Pittsburgh detective, who was to have come here to aid in the questioning, had not arrived.

UNION ASKS REVOCATION OF BUS CO. FRANCHISE

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Dec. 4—The Canton Federation of Labor called on city council today to revoke the franchise of the Canton City Lines, Inc., as a strike of company bus drivers and mechanics entered its sixth day.

The Federation, AFL central body here, accused the company of failing to provide adequate bus service, keeping its workers on a low wage level and failing to negotiate a "reasonable wage structure and working conditions" in the current dispute.

There was no immediate reply from the company which, with the exception of taxicabs, provides the only public transportation here.

The striking members of the AFL-International Teamsters Union are seeking a 30-cent hourly pay boost. Their average wage now is $1.10 an hour. The company has offered a 10-cent hike.

REPORTS NEW DENTAL CURE

Ox Teeth Fillings Halt Human Decay, Swedish Dentist Claims.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 4 — A method of healing decayed teeth like a body wound, whereby the teeth grow new enamel, has been announced by a Swedish dentist, Dr. Sten Forshufvud of Gothenburg, after several years of research.

The report on the new method, which shortly will be published in Sweden, has not yet been studied by dental authorities, but Prof. G. Westin of the Dental Institute said that "if correct, the report is one of the most sensational ever published in the realm of odontology."

Nature Finishes Job

Dr. Forshufvud, who began his research on biological dental healing in 1937, said he used "pieces of teeth of oxen, freed from most of their organic substance," as a filling for cavities. "Nature does the rest," he added.

Dr. Forshufvud said that "the mineral bandage" acts as a support or scaffolding, through which reticular fibers grow, thereby restoring nutrition in the wound area. Then the mineral bandage is gradually resorbed, while at the same time human enamel is built up.

The mineral material from oxen's teeth is retained in its place for the same reason which keeps the edges of a wound together; the blood plasma keeps it there, the dentist said.

He does not use any surface support for the filling but said this might improve the method.

Dr. Forshufvud said the method, although still in an experimental stage and lacking practical value since it is not generally available, is of tremendous theoretical interest.

He said he had treated about 40 cases by his new method, and about 40 or 50 per cent of them had been successfully completed. The oldest case is of 18 months standing and incisions in the healed areas show that enamel has grown in.

STATE 4-H WINNER — Warren Bailey, 20, who lives on a 75-acre farm at Bridgeport, O., is the 1947 first-prize winner of the 4-H Club "Live Power" tractor maintenance program. He has been judged winner of the statewide program which is conducted in cooperation with the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio. Bailey has been a member of the 4-H Club for 10 years, six of which he served as president of his local club. In addition to tractor maintenance, he has also carried the projects of agricultural engineering, gardening, forestry, steer, cow and pig, and he estimated that the returns from his projects have been at least $2,039.

Denver Bible Student Will Return to School

Robert E. Gustin, a student in the Denver Bible College, Denver, Colo., who, with his wife and daughter, have been residing during the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Parker of 654 Mary street, will leave Friday morning to return to the college. He will resume his studies in preparation for the Gospel ministry with the second semester scheduled to open Monday, Dec. 8. While here, Mr. and Mrs. Gustin appeared in a number of speaking engagements in and around Marion, and Mr. Gustin was employed with the Henneuse Engineering Co. on Monroe street.

The Maranatha Bible church of which Rev. Earl Holliday is pastor, in a session Tuesday night awarded Mr. Gustin a license to preach.

Mr. Gustin was graduated from Harding High school with the class of 1943 and before entering school served four years as a lieutenant with the Army Air Corps. Mrs. Gustin and their daughter, Cheryl Lyn, will remain with her parents until spring when she expects to join her husband and take up training in music and child evangelism.

DEFIANCE CHURCH TURNS DOWN $125,000 LEGACY

By The Associated Press

DEFIANCE, O., Dec. 4—St. John's Catholic church of Defiance today had rejected the legacy of the Wilhelm property here, under the terms of the late Amelia Wilhelm, which provided that it be converted into a Catholic High school and named Adam Wilhelm school in her father's memory.

The church, by the rejection, also renounced claim to the remainder of the estate, estimated at $125,000.

The sum is not sufficient to finance alterations and construct and operate a high school, stated the rejection, which was filed in probate court here.

The will provided that if the church did not accept the school terms, then the estate should be distributed among relatives.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Mifflin-Jackson-Marseilles Sunday school convention of Wyandot county has been set for Sunday afternoon and evening at the Shiloh Christian Union church. It was announced that the sessions will be open to the public.

Doughnuts and Bank Dollars Mix Here

By The United Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Henceforth, employes of the City Bank and Trust Co. will daily over a doughnut as well as a dollar.

What's more, they'll do it in a penthouse, air-conditioned. With the doughnut will go free coffee.

It's part of the new building housing the bank. The penthouse, reached by a private elevator, will be used by the bank's 250 employes.

Lunch will be offered at cost. When a stenographer is through sipping her soup, she can take a swing at shuffleboard or badminton.

For those more interested in mind than muscle, the bank offers a lounge and reading room.

The shuffleboard and badminton are played on a sundeck landscaped as a patio garden. It is surrounded by a white picket fence, and blossoming out of the black earth atop the roof are shrubs and vines.

And if that isn't enough to mend the tattered nerves of a teller, there is lounge furniture and a liberal sprinkling of beach umbrellas for those who simply want to watch.

Below is the business part of the bank, as modern in decoration as the penthouse, but down there it's all dimes and dollars. No doughnuts.

New Light Reported Death to Bacteria

By The United Press

JOLIET, Ill.—A new fluorescent light kills bacteria and enables housewives and factory or office workers to get a sun-tan while they work.

The light was described at an American Chemical Society meeting here by Dr. Sampson Isenberg, director of research for the General Luminescent Corp. of Chicago.

Discovery of new and more stable chemicals that emit ultraviolet fluorescent light has made the new lamp possible, Isenberg said.

"The housewife, if she so desires, may perform her kitchen duties under the soft and pleasing radiations of the new fluorescent lamps, and at the same time deodorize the room, kill air-borne bacteria and get a sun tan," Isenberg said.

Marry Young? Marry Old?

When Jeb Crowell's daughter, Sue, married nineteen-year-old "Slim" Blake, a lot of folks (especially older ones) began to shake their heads. Young marriages! Tut, tut!

So I looked up some figures. It's true, young American girls and boys marry younger than in other countries. And where do you suppose they had the least chance? I won't name it, but maybe you've guessed. One of those countries that before the war suppressed all individual freedom and tolerance.

That's why I'm not worried about our younger married couples. They were raised in a country that respects one another's right—a country of tolerance and temperance (a lot of bridegrooms are ex-G.I.'s, and it looked to me like their favorite beverage was beer!)

From where I sit, it isn't when you marry that's important. It's the all-important spirit of tolerance and understanding that you bring to marriage.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"IT WON'T be my fault if Faith gets premature notice of the wedding," Olina said as she moved toward the door."

"It won't be anybody's," Mary said, "but everybody will have to be extra careful. That child has thousands of little antennae sticking out all over, each one charged with supernatural prescience."

We all laughed at her nonsense, and Olina, pausing, spoke to me.

"Have you any idea when we're going to the farm?" she asked, and I knew from the tenseness of her voice that her real query was: "When can I see Georges?"

"Or," she added swiftly, "is that something you mustn't tell me? If so, please forgive the question."

"There is no question of forgiveness, dear child," I told her. "You may rest assured that the moment I know the date of our departure, I will come to you and tell you all I know about it."

"Thank you so much," she said. "And now, may I trouble you with something else? I hate to, because you are so busy, but I do want to send a letter to Georges, and—"

"Of course I'll take a letter from you to Georges," I told her heartily. "Run along home now and write a volume or two, if you can before I start. But, remember, don't say anything to him about the wedding preparations, except to comment on what he already has told you, which, naturally," I finished smiling, "ought to take up several sheets of paper."

"Thank you," she said, flushing, and getting out of the room on the word.

Mary sent an eloquent look at the door closing behind her.

"Poor 'Lina!" she said. "I don't want to be around when she wakes up."

"I don't think you need to worry," I said with conviction. "She, because of her training, and early environment, cannot look at marriage from the standard of anyone save a royal family. She counts it as bliss that she isn't being forced into a marriage with someone she loathes, that instead she is marrying a man whom she idolizes, and who, to all appearances, loves her dearly."

"To all appearances," Mary repeated, and I looked at her sharply.

"Mary!" I said. "Are you just speaking rhetorically, or do you know something that the rest of us do not know?"

She gave me a long steady look.

"There's something I'd like to tell you," she said, "but I wonder if I have the moral right to spoon out any lentils."

"That's something you'll have to decide for yourself," I told her, and she sighed.

"I've got to get it off my chest," she said, "and you're the only safety deposit box I know that really locks."

"Thanks for the compliment," I said, "and if you're bent on talking, I don't mind telling you that my curiosity is nearly at the boiling point."

"Don't let it spill over," she said flippantly. "It will mar the linoleum. But, didn't I hear you say that Georges expressed surprise that I was in that sanitarium?"

"Yes, he did," I said, sitting erect in surprise.

"The cock-eyed liar," she said. "I received three letters from him, addressed to me there."

I stared at her, too astonished for the moment to speak. When I did get my breath, I was so angry that I was glad Georges was not in the room. I think the royal playboy would have been amazed at the smacking he would have received.

"But," I stammered, "I think Olina received only two brief notes from him all the time he was gone."

"I know," she said. "Isn't he the world's worst heel?"

"He is all of that," I said. "But, I cannot understand how he got your address. He certainly did not write to any of us for it."

"You underestimate little Georges," she said. "He is a past master of petty bribery and small court intrigue. I am sure that he found somebody who let him know that I had gone to the sanitarium."

"I am more sorry than I can tell you about this," I said, "for Olina's sake. This must mean that Georges never will be able to rid his heart of your image."

"Pish and tush, also poppycock!" she answered. "If Georges has any real affection in his system, which I sometimes doubt, I am sure it is all Olina's. He doesn't care two snaps of his fingers about me."

Blames Dog and Cat Chase for His Arrest

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4—Richard O. Wheeler, 50, complained yesterday he was unjustly pailed for four days because his dog chased a cat into a farmer's orchard—just as a game warden happend along.

His story:

Wheeler and a brother-in-law, Ira Cross of Akron, were hunting near nearby Reynoldsburg on Nov. 24 when his dog took out after the cat at 4 p. m., when the law requires that hunting stopped.

They unloaded their guns and Wheeler tried to capture the dog. The game warden arrested them on charges of hunting after 4 p. m. and trespassing.

Mayor Harold J. Stouder fined each one $10. Wheeler promised to return the next day to pay the fine and costs. He said he did return but the mayor was out. Later a constable picked him up and put him in jail.

Wheeler was released on order of Common Pleas Judge John R. King, who will hear his appeal from Mayor Stouder's sentence.

HE SHOULDN'T KICK

By The United Press

GOSHEN, Ind.—The sheriff here reported little progress in solving the "Guernsey mystery." A dairy farmer called the sheriff to report that his eight-month-old Guernsey heifer had been stolen. The farmer called again the next day. A two-year-old Guernsey cow had been placed in his barnyard during the night.

Farm Cats Earn Keep, Is Finding in Survey

By The United Press

CHICAGO — The American Foundation for Animal Health contends that the cat does more than any other farm animal to earn its keep.

The more the cat eats (assuming his diet is rich in rats and mice), the more money he earns for the farm owner, the association said. An industrious cat with a healthy appetite will return a profit of at last $10 a year, the foundation reported.

Between 1848 and 1862 California produced $500 million in gold.

PROSPECTORS SEEK GOLD IN ARIZONA

By The United Press

GOLDFIELD, Ariz.—Boom days may come again to this former thriving mining town on the northwestern flank of Arizona's rugged Superstition Mountains, 40 miles east of Phoenix.

Alfred Strong Lewis, formerly with the state mineral resources branch, said he is preparing to strike again for the gold that is known to lie within the Mamouth and Black Queen claims, whose histories date back to the days of Jacob Walz and the saga of the Lost Dutchman mine.

Lewis said he would begin work in the Black Queen this winter. The mine, lying a mile north of the main 1,067-foot Mamouth Claim shaft, is more accessible and in better condition to begin immediate operations, he believes.

Mining activities were started here in 1891, when Charles Hall and Dennis Sullivan bought the Black Queen claim. Three years later the mine was producing 100 tons a day and Goldfield was a city of almost 5,000 inhabitants.

The era of prosperity was short lived, however. In 1894, Goldfield was swept by a flood which buried the workings in mud and water. Continuous cave-ins made further operations impractical. Hall, then reportedly worth $1,000,000 went to Denver for a vacation. Before he could complete plans for reopening the mine, he died, and the thriving city became just another Western ghost town.

In 1914, George U. Young, mayor of Phoenix, interested several townsmen in investing money in the project. They sank $265,000 into digging the Mamouth Claim shaft. Operating costs stopped the project and Goldfield again was abandoned.

The property changed hands several times during the next few years and in 1939 a group of Phoenix businessmen bought the 800-acre Goldfield site at a sheriff's sale. Lewis, who had supervised operations for Young in 1915, returned to supervise preparations to mine again.

The long diagonal shaft of the Mamouth claim with its two miles of workings is now filled with several million gallons of water, the result of seepage during the past decade. It will be pumped out gradually for milling use.

The output of the U. S. food manufacturing industry has quadrupled since 1899.

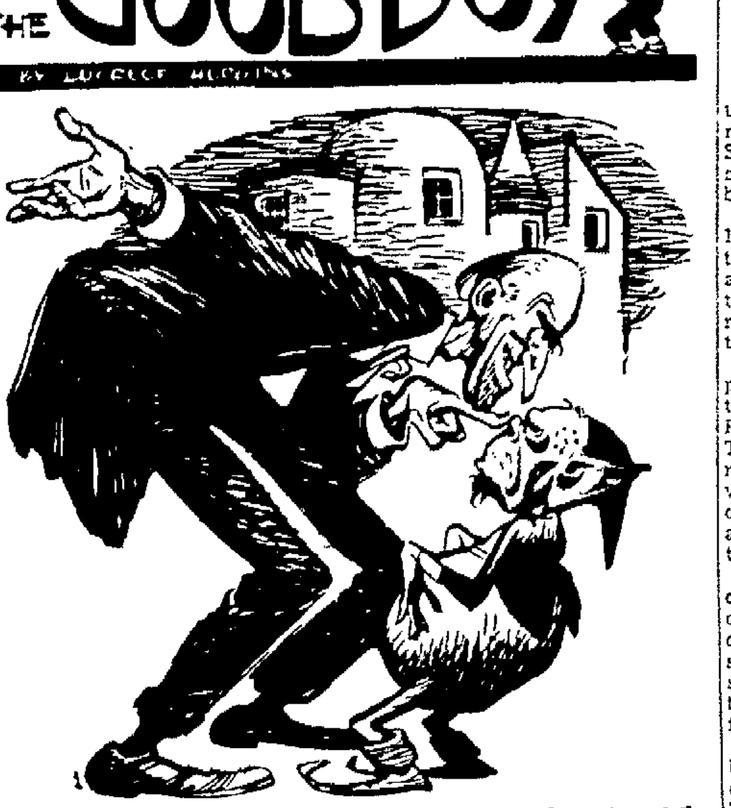
Santa AND THE GOOD BOY

BY [illegible]



"GET RID OF SANTA CLAUS AND THERE WILL BE NO MORE CHRISTMAS!"

CHAPTER ONE

Mr. Sleek's Evil Plot

AT THE very top of the world is the North Pole and at the North Pole, as everyone knows, lives Santa Claus.

At the bottom of the world is the South Pole and there, as very few people know, lives—or, used to live—Mr Sleek.

It is very odd that so few people have ever heard the name of Mr. Sleek for, in his time, he got around the world quite a bit and wherever he went Trouble went, too

Everything that Santa Claus is, Mr. Sleek was the opposite Where Santa is fat and jolly and kind, Mr. Sleek was lanky and sour and mean. He wore black suits and he never needed an overcoat because he was always so hot and bothered with hating people that he never felt the cold at all.

Yes, Mr. Sleek hated people and particularly he hated children

Why this should be so I do not know. It may be cause Mr. Sleek himself was never a child and did not understand children's ways Or it may be because Mr Sleek could not laugh and so it made him angry to hear children's laughter.

He himself said it was because children were Bad. "They make too much noise," he snarled. "They take up too much room. They eat too much and cry too much laugh too much and they never, never, never think of anyone except themselves"

NOW, it used to be, a very long time ago, before the events of this story, that Mr. Sleek lived with thousands of evil fairies called sprouts and you will see what a wicked man he was when I tell you some of the things he did.

He sent his sprouts all over the world to tie knots in little girls' pigtails and tear holes in little boys' pants so their mothers would be angry and scold them. The sprouts also stole marbles and baseballs and broke up drums and pushed out the eyes of doll babies. They knocked milk out of children's hands and hid rubbers and gloves and caps so that sometimes they never could be found, especially when they were needed. They tripped up boys when they were running and sneezed in little girls' faces so they often had colds all winter long.

They sprinkled salt in the ice cream at birthday parties and dumped ants in the sandwiches at picnics.

And because the sprouts could travel about invisibly or take on any shape they wished they were never caught or even suspected

Mr. Sleek was always busy at these evil things but he was his very busiest at Christmas time for then he had to work very hard indeed to spread misery in children's hearts. He sent his sprouts crawling into mailboxes to tear up letters children wrote to Santa. He put frogs in the throats of choir boys so they couldn't sing Christmas carols. He stopped up chimneys with rags and pillows so that Santa couldn't climb down He poured boiling water on winter lakes so the ice would melt and children couldn't use their new skates

But, as I said, all of this was long, long ago and, before Mr Sleek's spirit was broken. For broken it finally was and this is the story of how it happened

ONE day Mr. Sleek called in his ugliest and meanest sprout whose name was Jeffrey Jeremiah

"Jeffrey," said Mr. Sleek, "I have an idea that will forever wipe out gladness from the hearts of children."

"Tell me, tell me!" cried Jeffrey eagerly "How can we do that?"

"It is very easily done," replied Mr Sleek "We have simply to get rid of Santa Claus and there will be no more Christmas for children.'

"But Santa Claus!" protested Jeffrey. "He is very powerful!"

"He is a goody-goody and no more powerful than I," retorted Mr Sleek. "I shall get rid of him and I shall take over Santa Land and forever afterwards I myself will drive Santa's Sleigh on Christmas eve."

"And what will be in the sleigh if not toys to make children laugh with joy?" wondered Jeffrey

"Ashes," snapped Mr. Sleek. "Ashes and switches for every child in the world on Christmas morning!"

(Next: Mr. Sleek bargains with Santa)

URANIUM SOURCE SOUGHT IN OCEAN

By The United Press

LONDON—The world's largest untapped store of uranium and radium is being measured by a Swedish deep-sea expedition led by Prof Hans Pettersson of Goteborg

The expedition, aboard the 1,400-ton motor schooner Albatross, has studied the deep ocean and its bed during a voyage across the Atlantic and Caribbean and recently entered the Pacific through the Panama Canal

Many lines of research are being pursued by the expedition's scientists Prof Pettersson wrote in the British scientific magazine Nature The measurement of uranium and radium, made by analyzing large volumes of sea water taken from different depths, were not directed at discovering a method of retrieving the elements

"Such measurements have become of especial importance because of the light they may shed on the ionium precipitation in the sea" Prof. Pettersson wrote. He said such precipitation is supposed to be responsible for the radium found in deep sea deposits.

Echo-sounding charts of the sea bottom have been taken to a depth of 21,680 feet, it was reported They showed that the floor of the Caribbean was much smoother than that of the Atlantic. Many submarine cliffs, previously unknown, were found.

The depth curve moves incessantly up and down, Pettersson reported He said the cliffs suggested long "faults," or places where the rock had buckled because of lateral pressure.

The uneven surface of the bottom of the ocean made the work of measuring the sediment thickness at great depths complicated, he said An ingenious method of sounding the sediment carpet was developed by Prof. W Weibull of Bofors, who accompanied the expedition. Depth charges were set off and echoes reflected both from the sediment surface and the hard rock beneath the sediment were recorded.

By that method it was found that the sediment carpet—the rock of the future—beneath the Atlantic Ocean is 5,700 feet to 25,500 feet thick, and beneath the Caribbean much less. The measurements will be continued in the Pacific Ocean as the Albatross works west.

Bucyrus Legion Home Returned to Tax List

The American Legion Post No. 181 in Bucyrus had its post home placed back on the tax lists on the order of the state board of tax appeals Wednesday, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus The property located on East Rensselaer street is valued at $8,900

The Bucyrus property was among 35 in 20 counties returned to the tax duplicates by the state board which held that the 33 veterans posts and two private residences were no longer being used for charitable purposes.

In the case of veterans posts and lodges, the board found bars being operated on the properties and cited a state supreme court decision that a property having a bar was not being used exclusively for charitable purposes

In the investigation the board checked lists of tax exempt properties in various counties against permits issued by the state liquor department.

Japan's Population Passes 78 Millions

By The United Press

TOKYO—Allied officials have found that the congested condition of the Japanese islands—diminished in area as a result of defeat—has reached an all-time peak.

The latest population figure was put at 78,220,840. That is an increase of 5,851,698 since V-J Day.

Repatriation of Japanese nationals from overseas areas accounted for four-fifths of the increase, while the remainder was due to a natural increase in the birth rate

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Folic Acid Helpful in Anemias

The number of chemical substances required by the body for its proper functioning probably runs into the thousands Some have been known to us for years and, from time to time, we discover others so important that we are amazed that they could have eluded us so long. From this we suspect still others of which we as yet know nothing.

One of those most recently discovered and one which plays an important role in health, is known as folic acid.

Folic acid is a part of the vitamin B complex, that magnificent bundle of health-essential vitamins among which are riboflavin and nicotinic acid.

Found in yeast and in liver, folic acid has also been made in the laboratory and hence is available today in pure form for the treatment of a number of disorders Like other vitamins, insofar as we know, it is effective only in treating conditions which are due to its lack. Among these are several types of anemia.

By and large, anemia is a condition in which the blood's red cells are not only reduced in number but also lose some of the hemoglobin or red coloring matter which enables them to carry oxygen to the tissues.

Among other things, the type of anemia depends on whether the lack of red cells is due to failure of the body to form them fast enough or to their too-early and too-rapid destruction. These various types cause different symptoms and they can be further distinguished by careful examination of the blood cells under the microscope.

One of the anemias which folic acid helps is a variety known as macrocytic anemia, which affects infants and children. Since it is helped so markedly by the taking of folic acid, this anemia is evidently due to lack of a normal supply of this substance in the body.

Perhaps the most important use of folic acid is in the treatment of pernicious anemia. Some years ago, it was found that pernicious anemia could be treated satisfactorily with liver or liver extract Folic acid apparently has the same effect on the condition as liver extract On the other hand, it seems less effective than liver in warding off the damage to the nervous system which often occurs in pernicious anemia.

Still another condition in which folic acid has been found effective is in the anemia which occurs in connection with a disorder called sprue. Sprue is found especially in tropical and semitropical countries. In sprue there is diarrhea, loss of weight and strength, as well as the anemia.

Anyone who develops anemia should, of course, have a careful study made by a physician to determine just what type of the disorder is present. Then the most effective treatment for the condition can be administered. If the anemia is one of the types which might be helped by folic acid, this preparation will be prescribed by the doctor in the proper doses.

COUNTRY DOCTORS ENROLL IN SCHOOL

Get Special Post-Graduate Training in Pennsylvania.

By The United Press

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Pennsylvania is passing along the latest [illegible] in medicine to the man who never had much access to the country doctor.

Leading medical centers of the state have put 150 instructors on the road.

This new venture in medical education, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Medical Society, received an enthusiastic reception from some 840 physicians of small towns and rural areas.

"We optimistically planned for 600 registrants for this course," said Dr. Charles W. Smith, chairman of the society's graduate education committee. "We were forced to shift our teaching centers to larger quarters as the doctors flocked to take the instruction."

The "students" attend one eight-hour class a week in the nearest of six centrally located instruction centers. The course lasts ten weeks.

The instructors are medical experts from leading training institutions of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. They lecture morning, afternoon and evening on the practical phases of diagnosis and treatment, explaining the best techniques known to the profession.

Of the 840 doctors who took the opening course, 580 were general practitioners, most of them from small communities and rural areas. Sixty-two were specialists in internal medicine, 61 were surgeons, 32 were obstetricians and gynecologists, nad 25 were neuropsychiatrists.

"This program has proved," Smith said, "that the general practitioner, especially the country doctor, seeks to keep himself abreast of the latest progress in medicine."

May Be Extended

In view of the program's success Smith forsees an extension of the service so it will be within reach of more doctors.

"In no other way can the country doctor learn so much for so little outlay of time and expense," Smith said. "We are prepared to open additional teaching centers and employ more insuructors.

Teaching centers at present are in Allentown, Harrisburg, Johnstown, Oil City, Wilkes-Barre and Williamsport.

Smith hopes the rest of the nation will take a cue from the results in Pennsylvania.

He said "there never has been anything like this in medical training anywhere in the world. The Pennsylvania program well can be a pattern for other states."

CLUB TO DISCUSS PLANS FOR MUSEUM

Marion Art Club Will Hear Two Speakers Tonight.

A step in what is hoped will result in the establishing of a museum to preserve the valuable historical mementoes of Marion city and county will be taken tonight when authorities on such a project speak before the Marion Art club at the home of Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz on Mt. Vernon avenue. Speakers will be L. J. Gray, assistant supervisor, division of state memorials, and Mrs. William Mason Phillips, curator of "Glendower," Warren county museum.

Joining the art club members will be a number of persons interested in the establishment of a museum, a project which has been a hope of the Art club for some time.

Mr. Gray will present information regarding the state department, the heads of the various departments and how they may help one with projects and materials. He is well known in Ohio, having served with the state society for many years in charge of Fort Ancient State Memorial and as a supervisor of southwestern Ohio previous to his present appointment.

"How a Museum Was Born," will be the subject of Mrs. Phillips' talk. She will describe and illustrate with colored slides the restoration of the historic Durbin Ward House at Lebanon, recently presented to the state of Ohio by the Warren County Historical Society to be preserved as a state memorial. It was through her leadership that the Durbin Ward House was acquired and because of her knowledge of architecture, furniture and historical background, she was employed to assist in the restoration of the house which is being favorably compared with the outstanding house museums in America.

Auxiliary Entertained By Mrs. J. H. Andrews

The Catherine Woods Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church was entertained Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. J. H. Andrews of 444 East Center street. A covered dish supper at 7 o'clock preceded the meeting and decorations were in keeping with the Christmas season.

For the program, the group sang Christmas carols, and Mrs. Glenmore Hawkins presented a paper entitled "Christmas in a River." Devotions were conducted by the entire group with each member reading a part of the story of the birth of Christ from the books of Matthew and Luke. Prayer was by Mrs. C. H. Lindsey.

Miss Bess Snider read letters from Miss Lottie Touchman of Piqua, O., a former member, and from Miss Blanche Riley, a missionary in the mining section of southeastern Ohio. Miss Riley in her letter told of their need there for things for Christmas. For more than 20 years, the auxiliary has sent donations of gifts or money to the section each year for Christmas. After the letter was read, a collecton was taken and a donation of $30 was given for Christmas parties in the mining district.

Mrs. Linsey read a Christmas story, "To Springvale for Christmas" by Zona Gale, and a gift exchange followed. Guests were Miss Caroline Dewar of Delaware, Mrs. Alma Snider, Mrs. Sadie James, Mrs. P. L. Felder, Mrs. J. B. Ferguson and Miss Genevieve Burt.

With 55,000 members, the Navajo tribe of American Indians is the most numerous in the United States.

BUILDERS CLASS MEETS

A Christmas program was held by the Home Builders class of the Morral Methodist Sunday school Tuesday night at the home of the teacher, Mrs. L. E. Neal. Decorations of the home were in keeping with the season. Following opening song and Scripture, prayer was by Mrs. J. William Myers. Business was conducted, with a donation of $15 voted for the church treasury. For the program, readings were by Mrs. J. H. Bardon, Mrs. Frank Haner, Mrs. Cedric Shoat and Mrs. Hershel Murray of Marion, a guest. Contests were conducted, a gift exchange was held, and a miscellaneous shower was given Mrs. Myers, wife of the pastor. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Alice Schertzer.

PLAN BENEFIT FOR CLARIDON LIGHTS

High School After Grid Field for Night Games.

Besides the weekly Saturday night benefit basketball games between the Claridon alumni and Ex-High All Stars, a group of Claridon sports fans has scheduled several other events for the purpose of raising enough money to buy lights for the Claridon football field.

They'll hold a community auction New Year's day, with Earl Sockle in charge, and Ralph Bauers is in charge of a community Grange play to be staged some time this winter.

Mrs Henrietta Van Gorden will direct another play to be presented by the Claridon school Community club.

Then the three 4-H clubs of Claridon will sponsor a paper and junk drive.

The weekly basketball games are in charge of Russell Wickersham and are double events each Saturday night. Besides the graduate games, the Claridon juniors play intersquad games.

Proceeds of refreshment sale at the basketball games also go to the football field light drive. Harold Magers is in charge.

Another of Claridon's large Summer Festivals has been planned for July.

The following organizations are backing the drive: Progressive and United Granges, United Juvenile Grange, Claridon Booster's club, Claridon School Community club, Claridon School Band Parents club, Claridon School Student council, Claridon School Alumni association, and the Claridon School Athletic association.

Rotarians at Upper Hear Talk on Orient

UPPER SANDUSKY — Guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club here was Harvey Stokely, a former Upper Sanduskian, now Far Eastern representative of the Parke-Davis Drug Co.

Visiting here while on leave, Mr. Stokely told club members of his travels in the Orient. Current financial troubles in China, he said, are the result of inflation and of monopolies. He also drew a vivid word picture of Russian influence in Iran and Manchuria, lands of far greater wealth and importance than is generally realized in the United States.

He concluded with his opinion it will soon be necessary to continue the United Nations without Russia and added he believed it is nevertheless essential that it be continued and strengthened.

OHIOAN HOME FROM CHINA, OPPOSES AID

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — Rep. Lewis (R-Ohio) said yesterday a seven-week one-man investigative trip around the world convinced him that American aid to China would be "worse than useless" because of "corruption unimaginable" in the Chinese government.

Lewis, last to return home of the scores of congressmen who went abroad this summer and fall, said he was "surprised" at the action of the house foreign affairs committee in embodying $60,000,000 for aid to China in its interim relief bill.

"I don't think they are in possession of all the facts," he told a reporter.

"I was predisposed to go the limit on helping China. But that was before my trip and before I talked with many American business men who had been living in China for years. From what they told me and what I saw myself, I wouldn't vote for a nickel to help China.

"I am convinced that any money we gave them would go only to line the pockets of the ruling class who would put it in their private bank accounts in New York City.

"I intend to tell congress that."

Lewis said businessmen and others he talked to in China said they did not fear the nation would go Communist, as "Chinese are individualists."

Besides China, Lewis stops included the Philippines, Singapore, Ceylon, India, Port Suez, Italy and Marseilles, France. No one was allowed ashore at Marseilles, he said, due to "communist" strikes in the port.

He paid his own expenses and was accompanied by his wife and young son, Richard.

LAUSCHE UNDER ATTACK FROM PARTY GROUP

5th District Chairmen Open Fire on Ex-Governor in Factional Fight.

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O., Dec. 5 — Democratic county chairmen of the seven-county Fifth district pulled the lanyard on the party cannon early today and hurled a bit of political dynamite toward former Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The Fifth district chapter of the Ohio Democratic County Chairman's association released a resolution which the chapter's chairman declared was aimed "at discouraging the candidacy of Frank J. Lausche."

District Chairman O. L. Sharpe of Guernsey county further admitted the one-paragraph resolution was considered by its endorsers as favoring either Ray Miller of Cleveland or Frazier Reams of Toledo—both avowed candidates.

By Sharpe's interpretation, the resolution was an apparent rebuff to the former governor's noted impatience with party machinery and political draglines. Many a shrewd political observer felt such impatience cost Lausche the governorship a year ago.

Lausche, informed of the development, said at Cleveland: "No comment."

Text of Resolution

The resolution read: "The Fifth district of the Ohio Democratic County Chairmen's association goes on record by unanimous resolution to support only a candidate for governor at the primary election who is an avowed Democrat, and one whose record proves he believes in the perpetuation of the two-party system as an integral part of our democratic form of government.".

Asked for personal comment and interpretation of the words, Sharpe, who is Guernsey county Democratic chairman, told a reporter:

"Those attending the meeting considered that either Ray Miller or Frazier Reams filled the requirements of that resolution.

"It was considered a discouragement to Frank J. Lausche as a candidate. You may quote that."

The Fifth district covers Guernsey, Licking, Muskingum, Coshocton, Perry, Fairfield and Knox counties.

Democratic chairmen for these counties attended the pow-wow in Newark's Hotel Warden and remained in session beyond midnight. Sharpe said "other leading Democrats" attended the meeting, but would not release their names.

Sharpe personally announced preference for Reams, former state welfare director under Lausche and famed for his gangster prosecutions as Lucas county prosecutor several year ago.

The county chairmen interjected their announcement into a political picture muddied earlier in the night by hard-to-trace rumors Lausche would announce his candidacy at a Girard, O., dinner.

This Lausche brushed aside, finally admitting he had turned down the Girard dinner invitation "10 days ago."

"FAMILY MATTER," SAYS NATIONAL CHAIRMAN

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — The national Democratic organization will follow a "hands off" policy in Ohio's expected intra-party scrap for the gubernatorial nomination, National Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath said today.

The Ohio situation was described by McGrath as "a family matter" which will have to be worked out by Ohio Democrats. He said national headquarters would not "take sides" in the anticipated clash between Ray T. Miller, former Cleveland mayor, and former Governor Frank J. Lausche.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Ohio Democrats in congress so far are non-committal on the announced candidacy of Ray T. Miller for governor and the generally expected Democratic primary race between Miller and former Governor Frank J. Lausche.

Rep. Huber of Akron told a reporter, however, that he "hopes all the candidates will conduct a campaign that will leave no wounds that can't be healed in time to insure Democratic victory next fall."

Lausche, long at odds with Miller, has not announced his candidacy but petitions have been circulated on his behalf. Several Washington sources, well acquainted with the state situation, said they expected him to throw his hat in the ring momentarily.

COURT INDICTS TEN WRITERS

Face Contempt Charges in Investigation of Communists in Hollywood.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — Ten movie writers, producers and directors today were indicted for contempt of congress in refusing to say at a Communism-in-Hollywood investigation whether they are or have not been Communists.

The 10 now must stand trial to determine their guilt or innocence.

Those named in separate indictments returned by a federal grand jury, are Albert Maltz, Dalton Trumbo, Samuel Ornitz, John Howard Lawson, Ring Lardner Jr., Herbert Biberman, Robert Adrian Scott, Lester Cole, Alvah Bessie and Edward Dmytryk.

Additional Counts

Eight of them also were indicted on an additional count alleging they refused to say whether or not they belong to the Screen Writers Guild.

All 10 had declined to answer specific questions about Communist affiliations during hearings held by the house committee on un-American activities in October. They contended that the committee was violating their constitutional rights by inquiring into their political beliefs.

Dmytryk is a motion picture director, Biberman a director-producer, Scott, a writer-producer, and the others are scenario writers. Dmytryk and Scott recently were dismissed by RKO studio, Lardner by 20th Century-Fox, and Cole and Trumbo by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The others have no regular studio contracts.

Possible Penalties

The maximum penalty on conviction for each count of contempt is $1,000 fine and a year in jail. The minimum is $100 and a one month jail term. Separate trials are expected to be held for each of the 10 defendants.

Those named in a second count for refusing to say whether they belong to the Screen Writers Guild were Maltz, Trumbo, Ornitz, Lardner, Biberman, Scott, Cole and Bessie. Lawson and Dmytryk were indicted on only the one count alleging they refused to say whether they were Communists.

MAN WANTED IN SHOOTING ARRESTED

Forrest E. Lucas Caught at Bucyrus on Tiffin Charge.

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., Dec. 5—Forrest E. Lucas, 47-year-old Tiffin auto mechanic, was in jail today awaiting a hearing on a charge of shooting his wife, Clara, 43, with intent to kill.

Lucas was arrested at Bucyrus last night and returned here by Police Chief Harold J. Fraley. Chief Fraley said Lucas confessed to firing a shotgun at his wife through the window of her mother's home Wednesday.

The police chief quoted Lucas as saying he rode a freight train to Canton after firing the shotgun and started hitch-hiking back to give himself up after learning his wife had been wounded seriously. He was arrested in a Bucyrus restaurant.

Condition of Mrs. Lucas, who lost her right eye and received wounds about the face, was reported improved but still critical today. Mrs. Lucas recently filed suit for divorce.

MOUNTAIN WARFARE FLARES IN KENTUCKY

By The United Press

HYDEN, Ky., Dec. 5 — The threat of old-time mountain warfare with modern submachine guns hung over Leslie county today following the second ambush shooting in four days, involving at least six submachine guns, rifles, shotguns and dynamite.

Three persons were wounded early yesterday morning when they were routed out of the Medo-Mont tavern by dynamite and fired upon by an estimated 15 to 25 armed men as they attempted to flee.

Officials linked the latest shooting with the ambush-slaying of Cornelius Caldwell, 25, a Purple Heart veteran who lost his left leg in action in Germany. Caldwell, with his brother Ray, 23, and two unidentified girls, were ambushed in a truck Saturday night along the Harlan-Hyden road, about two miles from the tavern.

Injured in the ambush yesterday were Mrs. Theo Block, wife of the tavern owner, her 14-year-old son, Melvin, and Levi Brock, a cousin and employe of the tavern owner.

State Highway Patrol Sgt. Earl Gilbert said that at least 500 rounds from six machine guns were fired at the Brocks as they fled from their burning tavern. The guns were stationed at strategic spots along Pine mountain, overlooking the tavern.

Gilbert said Mrs. Brock was shot in the left shoulder as she tried to reach a taxicab to escape. The trio then attempted to take shelter in their home, about 150 yards away, but it too was riddled by machine gun bullets.

The sergeant said window panes in the house were broken, showering glass over a bed in which Brock's two younger sons were sleeping.

"The trouble appears to be an aftermath of the Caldwell shooting," he said.

Leslie County Police Captain William Caldwell, father of the two victims of the Saturday night ambush, had no comment today. But two days ago he said he knew who had fired on his sons.

Gilbert said he found six slot machine stands and a heap of melted glass he believed to be remains of beer bottles when he investigated the burned-out ruins.

Leslie county is "dry" under local option, and Capt. Caldwell has made several "whisky raids" on the Medo-Mont tavern since he was appointed to office.

Brock estimated loss of the tavern and of a late model truck which also was blown up at $40,000. They were not covered by insurance.

Gilbert quoted Mrs. Frankie Harris, a tavern employe, as saying "we know who set the fire and have witnesses to identify those involved in the shooting, and we'll prove it." However, she did not list any names.

FRENCH GOVT. CORPS STRIKES

Causes Power Failure, Halts Factories; New Law Set for Vote Today.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Dec. 5—The French government, harried by crippling, Communist-hatched work stoppages, ran headon into another strike today when government employes began walking off the job.

The first immediate effect was to blackout electric power, halting factories, stopping the subways and choking off communications, sailors and mobile guards moved into the power houses at once and got some of the generators going again, but Paris remained badly crippled.

The Council of the Republic, the upper chamber of France's legislature, was summoned to ratify the drastic anti-strike, anti-sabotage legislation passed yesterday by the national assembly, the lower house.

The new law is aimed at breaking strikes which have idled more than 2,000,000 workers for almost three weeks.

Police opened an investigation of a bombing late last night at the home of Communist leader Maurice Thorez in suburban Choisy-Le-Roi. A grenade exploded beside the house but Thorez was out of the city and there was only slight damage. No one was hurt.

Today's power failure was the second in Paris this week. Police cleared sitdown strikers from six power plants Tuesday morning and got power on after a blackout of several hours caused by a strike of electrical workers.

Deaths Mount to 44 In New Arab Attack

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Dec. 5—A double Arab attack on the Jewish city of Tel Aviv broke the Moslem Sabbath calm shortly after noon today and plunged Palestine into a fourth day of fighting in which 44 persons, 21 of them Jews, have been killed.

Hundreds were among the wounded. Damage mounted into the millions.

Arab mobs struck at the Hatikvah and Zablawi quarters of Tel Aviv a few minutes after Moslem congregations streamed from mosques in neighboring Jaffa.

Hatikah, the first target, was raked by gunfire which was returned by Hagana, the Jewish underground defense force. One Jew was known dead and another was wounded.

While the fight waxed on in the Jaffa-Tel Aviv border area, Jerusalem appeared for the most part quiet.

Army Employe Wounded

At Haifa, a Jewish civilian employe of the British army, Moshe Weisbrot, was felled by machine-gun fire while attempting to resist two men of "unknown nationality" who entered an office demanding money. Another man, J. C. Hall, was shot in the thigh.

The Moslem Sabbath gave the Hold Land a night of silent, sullen peace, but dawn broke on a warlike scene of rolling armor, guns and deploying British troops.

Church-going Arab crowds traversed lanes of khaki and machines loaded with soldiers and policemen alerated for possible new Arab outbreaks against the imminent partition of Palestine.

"We got new orders last night," one Army officer said. "Today we are taking no nonsense."

Battle-plating was installed in Army vehicles during the night and fire power was augmented. Tear gas bombs were issued to all security forces.

A highway curfew stopped all civilian vehicles between Jerusalem and Hebron to the south, and between Jerusalem and Ramallah to the north.

Armored cars, ordered to shoot if necessary, convoyed essential traffic between the Holy City and the coastal hot corner of Tel Aviv and neighboring Jaffa.

Police reinforcements started moving into the curfewed no-man's land between Jerusalem's Jaffa gate and the Princess Mary avenue approach to the modern part of the city.

GALION BOARD PICKS NEW SCHOOL SITE

Special to The Star

GALION, Dec. 5—The board of education Thursday night selected the site for one of two new elementary schools to be erected in Galion under a $615,000 building program approved by the voters last month.

The new North school will be erected in Heise park on a site owned by the board of education, board members decided last night. A portion of the specious Galion municipal park is owned by the school board and includes a wooded section in which the new one floor plan building will be erected.

The present North school is located at North Market and Grant streets in the residential section of the city. Possibilities of rebuilding on the present site were discarded in favor of Heise park when it was learned that additional property would have to be acquired by the board for erection of the new and larger school.

No action was taken on the South school, the second elementary building under scope of the new program. The $615,000 bond issue is expected also to provide funds for repair work on other school properties and to erect bleachers in Heise park.

Harry Brumenshenkel, Mansfield architect was retained by the board to furnish plans for both schools.

Gilead, vice presidents; Roy Shipton of Marion, treasurer; L. Otis Porter of Marion, commissioner; Dr. Gray and Robert T. Legislature Enacts Herbert Program with Slight Change

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert displayed elation today over the dispatch with which the Republican-dominated legislature approved his special session program with only minor changes.

"I'm well pleased," the governor said in commenting on work of the two-day session which whipped through 12 bills appropriating $29,676,087 largely for veterans' bonuses, welfare purposes and pay raises to state workers, as well as correcting regular session bobbles.

The governor didn't look too closely at the legislature's failure to permit financially hard-pressed cities to vote operational and welfare levies at special elections with only a 60 per cent majority required for passage.

As finally approved, special levies may be passed at next year's primary and general elections with a 60 per cent majority, instead of the 65 per cent now required at general elections only.

Cleveland and Springfield particularly had requested legislative permission to vote such levies at special elections but rural house members objected and the senate, which previously approved the governor's request, acceded to the change.

A proposal to advance, from next April 1 to March 1, the date on which universal $10 license plates for passenger automobiles can go on sale almost met disaster, too.

Proposed Price Cut Loses

Rep. Ray C. Carpenter (R-Seneca) offered an amendment to cut the tag fee to a flat $7 and drew support from the Democratic minority and recalcitrant Republicans. The amendment lost only by a vote of 55 for to 65 against. The original measure passed 111 to 6.

Both houses concurred in a requirement that more than 500,000 cases of slow-moving cordials and other spirits could not be sold to large-lot bidders at less than the $9-a-case paid by the state in federal taxes.

The liquor department requested permission to sell the potables to out-of-state bidders to reduce its oversupply of less popular brands. These will be offered in state stores first—at cut rates for retail.

A brief exchange occurred in the senate prior to final passage of a $20,000,000 appropriation from general funds to help pay veterans' bonuses.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum (D-Cuyahoga) said the measure merely shifted the tax burden from property owners, who had expected to foot the bill through extra assessments, to taxpayers in general.

He also asserted that instead of receiving tax reductions, as Herbert claimed in his message to the special session, the state "took $68,000,000 more" from taxpayers in 1947 than in 1945.

Sen. Albert L. Daniels (R-Highland), senate finance committee chairman, replied that "the gentleman from Cuyahoga county is off base." He recalled Herbert's recent statements that Ohio shows a saving of $74,000,000 this year while 21 other states have new taxes.

Cleanup Session Today

After completing passage of the governor's program late yesterday with Herbert looking on from the sidelines, senate and house leaders called skeleton sessions today to sign most of the approved measures. Both houses agreed to adjourn for keeps Dec. 22.

The governor said he probably will not sign into law until Dec. 31 approved bills to repeal the one-cent liquid fuel tax and to increase gasoline levies from three to four cents a gallon. Both emergency measures now become operative upon signing.

Voters at the last election approved a constitutional amendment limiting such revenues to highway purposes only. Herbert said the change will not increase gasoline taxes but will facilitate bookkeeping.

The legislature also eliminated $3,880,000 in highway improvement subsidies to counties, municipalities and townships for 1948 but the governor said the extra cent gasoline tax will give them about $3,000,000 more next year than they otherwise would have received.

Other measures approved will: Recreate the highway construc-

STATE NOW READY TO TAKE SCIOTO LAND

Welfare Dept. Will Notify Federal Government of Action.

State welfare department officials said today they planned to notify the federal government that $100,000 appropriation by the special session of the legislature would enable the state to take over the Scioto Ordnance plant property here, The Associated Press reported in a dispatch from Columbus today.

The department will proceed with plans to convert the 1,243 acre property north of Marion and its 24 buildings into an intermediate training school for delinquent boys to be operated as an adjunct to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster.

The next regular session of the legislature will be asked to appropriate approximately $1,000,000 to develop the institution during the next five years.

John C. Waidner, chief of the business administration division, said the department had been notified by the Federal Land Bank at Louisville the government was ready to give Ohio a quit claim deed upon certification that the state had made the necessary funds available. The state will be required to pay the government only a nominal sum of $816.31 to cover the transfer costs. Most of the appropriation made by the special session will be used to prepare plans and specifications for improvement of the property.

MARSHALL CALLS FOR GERMAN TREATY ACTION

DEMANDS END TO TALKS IN GENERALITIES

U.S. Secretary Attacks Molotov's Almost Daily Speeches Before Council.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 5—Secretary of State Marshall urged the foreign ministers council today to "drop generalities" and "try to find out what each delegation really has in mind" for settling peace terms with Germany.

Marshall attacked Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's almost daily demands for quick creation of a central German government and declared:

"Any German government called upon to administer a Germany divided as it is today by the occupying powers would be a sham and a delusion."

Marshall led off today's council discussion on Germany's economic future.

His declaration evidently marked the beginning of the long expected American effort here to determine whether there are solid chances for agreement on the future of Germany at this conference.

Calls for Action

"The situation in Germany is a real one," he declared. "It urgently requires now—without delay—four-power decision on several specific fundamental matters of substance. I ask for action on these points in order to end the present division on Germany."

The United States, Marshall declared, favors "the establishment of a provisional government at the earliest possible moment but we regard it as dangerous to the security of the Allied nations and the peace of the world as well as cruelly misleading to the Germans themselves to pretend that mere setting up of a central German government would result in healing the division of Germany."

The foreign ministers were able to schedule a discussion on economic questions because the heated three-hour session on Austria late yesterday failed to produce a basis for quick completion of the Austrian independence treaty.

It did, however, project the Marshall aid plan sharply into the arguments here and once again dramatized the widespread differences between Russia and the western powers over the future, not only of Germany, but of Europe.

Molotov Makes Charges

Molotov accused the U. S. and Britain of blocking settlement of outstanding problems in Austria and charged that through economic assistance they were trying to enslave that country. The latter argument was one which the Russians also have made to various European nations against the Marshall plan.

In an immediate retort flung at Molotov across the council table, Marshall asserted that "we are all aware of the real purpose of attacks of this nature."

"Indeed it has been announced," he said, "it is to disrupt the great cooperative movement that is being launched for the economic recovery of Europe."

This exchange spotlighted one of the great difficulties in the way of any agreement between Russia and the western powers on the twin problems of German economic unity and German unity now coming up in Big Four sessions.

Marion Area Found Below State Average in Defective Car Check

One car in every five was found to be mechanically defective in a statewide police traffic safety check conducted during the month of July, according to statistics compiled and released by the state highway patrol and Ohio Chiefs of Police association, who jointly conducted the inspection.

During the program in which 191 departments throughout the state participated, 358,225 cars were checked. Of the total, 68,654 or 19.1 per cent were found to be defective.

Traffic checks were conducted both by the state highway patrol stations in each of the five districts throughout the state and by the police departments in a majority of the communities within these districts.

The state patrol checked a total of 193,183 cars of which 32,027 were found defective for an average of 16.5 per cent. The police check covered 165,042 vehicles of which 36,627 or 22.1 per cent were found defective. The two checks were combined to give the grand total.

Marion Patrol Rating

The report shows that a total of 8,593 cars were checked by the Marion highway patrol station with 1,217 found defective giving the Marion area a 13.1 per cent rating against the state patrol check average of 16.5 per cent and the state average of 19.1 per cent.

The Marion police checked 187 cars and found 83 or 44.3 per cent defective as compared to the police check average of 22.1 per cent.

Although 187 cars is scarcely a fair sampling, it could be construed from the report that Marion was considerably above the state average in defective cars.

The state highway patrol found headlights and taillights the chief mechanical defects here. This follows the trend throughout the state with few exceptions. Chief defects in the statewide check were headlights, taillights, stoplights and brakes in that order.

Percentages of defects found by the state patrol checks made by other stations in this area in District A include the following for these areas: Mansfield, 20.2 per cent; Findlay, 16.2 per cent; and Lima, 13 per cent.

Highest in State

Highest percentage defective shown in the state highway patrol survey was found at Massillon with 30.4 per cent where 2,104 cars out of 6,515 checked were found defective in one or more respects. Lowest percentage was shown at Columbus where 501 out of 8,604 or 5 per cent were defective.

Area communities checked by respective police departments came up with the following percentages: Galion, 19.7 per cent; Bucyrus, 17 per cent; Kenton, 23.7 per cent; Lima, 30 per cent and Upper Sandusky, 18.9 per cent.

Highest percentage found in any city was recorded at Cuyahoga Falls where 34 out of 37 cars checked were found defective for an average of 91.8 per cent.

Lowest average was found in Tuscarawas county where 216 cars were checked with no defects found for a perfect record. Six other communities throughout the state also turned in perfect records according to the police check. The communities and the total cars checked in each are as follows: Clarington, 76; London, 25; Philo, 49; Grandview, 27; Albany, 33 and Shreve, 40.

to have a car that's GUARANTEED to start!

Year after year, thousands of Ohioans bring their cars to Sohio and have them guaranteed to start. Why? Well, mostly because it's such a swell, reassuring feeling to know that they've given that car of theirs the best possible protection for winter. They feel more free to go places, to get more out of winter . . . without that old worry, "will the car start?"

Guaranteed Starting is a down-to-earth Sohio service, custom-made for Ohio's tricky winter months. It gives cars unsurpassed protection in bad weather. And it saves you time and money.

Start the winter with Sohio gasoline, motor oil and gear lubricants and let Sohio O.K. your battery—then we give you a WRITTEN guarantee that you start—or we pay your garage starting service bill!

Through 9 Ohio winters Sohio Guaranteed Starting has proved its worth. More car owners use it every year. Why don't you enjoy this extra car-starting security this year? It costs nothing extra above regular prices for products and services—yet what a grand and glorious feeling to have it!

METHODIST YOUTH RALLY SCHEDULED AT CALEDONIA

Memorial Methodist church at Caledonia will be host church Monday night for a youth rally of the Marion county portion of the Mansfield district of the denomination. A motion picture, "Courageous Dr. Christian," will be shown, and a freewill offering will be received. The rally will be at 7:30, Rev. S. E. Kaetzel, host pastor, announced.

OHIO LEGION LEADER TO SPEAK TUESDAY

Carl W. Smith To Address Bird-McGinnis Post.

Carl W. Smith, vice commander of the Ohio department, American Legion, and a charter member of Kenton Post No. 198, will be guest speaker Tuesday night when Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162 has its annual entertainment for the women's auxiliary. The meeting, to which all American Legion Posts of the county are invited, will be held in the Legion Dugout and will start at 8 o'clock.

Music for the program will be furnished by an instrumental quartet of Harding High school students. A social hour will feature refreshments served by a committee headed by Mrs. Evelyn Reynolds.

Mr. Smith, a past district commander, served the Kenton post in virtually every elective office, including commander. For the last 10 years he has served as a trustee of Buckeye Boys' State and as one of its instructors in practical government. He has served on Legion district and state committees for 25 years.

A former newspaperman, Mr. Smith served as secretary to Governor George White. For the last 10 years he has been a member of the state civil service commission. In World War II, Mr. Smith's son served in the infantry under General Patton and was wounded at Bastogne in the Battle of the Bulge.

CALEDONIA CHARGE

Announcements for Sunday made by Rev. E. E. Kaetzel of the Caledonia Methodist charge include worship at the North Canaan church at 9:30 a. m. and at Memorial church in Caledonia at 10:30. The sermon subject will be "The Lantern of Life." There will be no evening service because of a Sunday school convention at Trinity Methodist church in Mt. Gilead in the afternoon and evening. Tuesday night, the Adelphae Karitos class will meet in the home of Mrs. Walter Lea. A family night event has been planned for Thursday for members and friends of the church. Arrangements have been made for a program, and a Santa Claus will greet the children.

France Takes Steps

PREMIER SCHUMAN'S government has moved resolutely to check Communist-inspired industrial strife in France. By a vote of 403 to 183, the national assembly has passed laws to curb sabotage and the use of fraud, violence and threats to instigate strikes.

The law is France's answer to the international Communist organization's bid to make France Russia's puppet at the foreign ministers' conference at London, or, failing that, to overthrow the government. The Schuman government has met Communist leader Thorez' pledge of "magnificent battle until final victory."

The government took the only practical step possible. There is no compromise with the inspirers of saboteurs who open wide the throttles of locomotives in freight yards. Such opposition has to be met with ruthless force.

There is evidence that the Communists, by violence of their campaign, have encountered opposition within labor's ranks. The non-Communist elements have split from those who take their orders from Moscow, but how deep and lasting the cleavage is will not be immediately apparent. For the fact remains that Communists find fertile soil to sow dissension in countries which are economically ill. Workers in desperation rally around anyone who promises to improve their lot.

That's where the United States enters the picture. The interim aid bill and the Marshall plan are designed to see such nations as France through the winter and begin the task or reviving them industrially. The Schuman government is making a valiant effort to contain the Communists, but the decisive reply to them will have to come from Washington.

Is the Armor Plate Cracking?

REPORTS from Russia indicating panic-buying and financial instability comes as a surprise to the outside world. Russia is so shut off that outsiders know very little about its internal economy, the true power of its army or the extent of its reported concentration camps.

However, in recent weeks, writers with some claims to authority have reported its army vastly overrated and its concentration camps on a scale comparable to those of the Nazis. Add now to these the reports that Russians are unloading their rubles for whatever they will buy, and Russia stands as a poor example of the efficacy of Communism.

Of course, in evaluating reports from Russia, it is almost impossible to separate facts from wishful thinking. The Russians themselves are responsible for this. However, the current stories of financial troubles are deemed authentic enough to be placed on the state department's Voice of America broadcasts.

If the latest reports prove true, they will confirm a suspicion that has been growing in the minds of many—namely, that Russian bombast isn't a sign of confidence but of weakness. The tirades of Vishinsky at Lake Success, the obstinacy of Molotov at London, the vituperation that pours out over Radio Moscow—in all this there has been a note of desperation, like the stridency in the voice of a bully whose bluff has been called.

The Russian answer to these reports will make interesting reading. They will be subject to careful analysis, for what may be meant as a roar of defiance may really be a shriek of despair.

Britain's Lottery Plan

HARD-PRESSED financially, Great Britain is considering going out in the back alley and starting a gambling game.

The plan calls for the sale of $8,000,000,000 worth of lottery tickets throughout the world. Cash prizes would total $400,000,000, or about as much as they're offering for the identity of Miss Hush. The remainder would be split into thousands of smaller prizes.

Threadneedle Street bankers say the $4,000,000,000 profit would go a long way toward easing Britain's financial troubles.

It isn't a pleasant fact, but gambling has become a major British industry. There isn't much to buy with money, so it is wagered on the chance of getting more money.

But things have come to a pretty pass when the gambling virus moves one of the great nations to consider cash-raising methods worthy only of a banana republic. Lotteries are the shabbiest kind of fund-raising device, although it must be admitted it would be an interesting sociological experiment to observe what a poverty-stricken penny-scrounger would do if he came by $400,000,000.

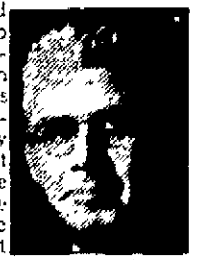
Unknown Craftsmen

By Frank Tripp

IT IS strange by what unusual routes obscure genius sometimes becomes known, and credit thus bestowed which otherwise might never have been given those who deserve it. Such an incident lately came my way.

International note was taken of the Merry-Go-Round bowl, the gorgeous crystal wedding gift of President and Mrs. Truman to Princess Elizabeth. Mention was made of its designer, Sculptor Sidney Waugh, but not a word of the man who made it (and made another like it for a showpiece by the way). The brilliance of his workmanship eclipsed its creator. How often that happens.



TRIPP

There are people who will read a book and be unable to tell who wrote it. They become so absorbed in the story that the characters live and talk to them. The writer is forgotten.

Others will watch a play and become so enamored of the actors that not only will the author be unknown to them but the play itself becomes smothered by their admiration for the players.

* * *

The same is true of music, paintings and works of art, as viewed by many people—perhaps by the majority. Certainly most people do not strive to know and praise the genuine creator of the things that give them joy. They are even that careless about their own Creator.

It is true that no greater praise can come to us than praise of that which we create. This is particularly true of those shy artists who hide from view and die unknown; yet are happy and repaid by the world's acceptance of their work.

Still in every heart lurks a yearning for appreciation; and with most the best comes out when worth is recognized. Even a child will try harder with his crayons if his last crude coloring is praised. Some people could almost live on appreciation. Others wouldn't know; they get so little of it.

* * *

These are thoughts smoked out by a letter from a friend in Washington. A home-town neighbor really, but still of Washington—Elsie Wrigley, Tom's wife; Tom, who marshals nationally The March of Dimes.

Elsie was conversing with an engraver of gloss who was doing some work for her at Woodward and Lathrop's. She instructed that the glass be shipped to Elmira. The engraver said he knew Elmira, lived his early life in nearby Corning, learned his trade there.

It was the day of the royal wedding and quite natural that Corning's part in that absorbing event should have been mentioned. They talked about the gift of the President.

* * *

Then happened the thing which prompted me to tell you of it. It was the reaction of one creator of art toward another. There lies the exception which proves the rule.

A writer reads a book with admiration—or disdain—for its author. A composer hears "The Magic Flute" and sees Mozart conducting. A craftsman sees a masterpiece with admiration for its maker.

That's just what this engraver saw—the skill which made the Merry-Go-Round bowl. He said: "I felt I knew the man who did the actual engraving, so I called Corning and asked my friend Joseph Libisch if he did the work. He did."

* * *

As we know the voice of a friend, so can one master of an art identify the art of his fellows:

Yet through generations to come countless royal guests will admire the wedding gift of the President of the United States to Princess Elizabeth; but never know the name of the man who made it.

And so Joseph Libisch of Corning, N. Y., engraver on glass with a copper wheel, entrusted to make an historic royal heirloom, must take his place with that legion of unknown master craftsmen who smile contentedly, in the satisfaction that what they created made someone happy.

This time a Princess—perhaps a Queen.

Just a Minute

By Jack Tarver

Giving Love the Acid Test

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh—he was Philip Mountbatten before their recent marriage—spent the day hunting last week.

What a shame their honeymoon had to end so soon.

Taking a woman hunting is even more disillusioning than seeing her with her hair in curlers and cold cream on her face.

There's only one thing worse than taking your wife hunting .. That's taking her fishing.

No man ever takes his wife hunting twice, and that's not altogether because so few get back the first time alive.

The truth of the matter is, as the Duke probably realizes by now, a woman has no more business on a hunting trip than a bird-dog on a honeymoon.

Still, he can console himself with the thought that, their marriage having survived it, it should endure throughout the ages.

Pentagon Pays for Itself

BECAUSE of its unique structure and sprawling bigness, the Pentagon building has come in for an overdose of kidding, but it makes sense to Defense Department officials.

Known as the world's biggest office building, covering 34 acres and boasting 17½ miles of corridors, the structure now houses 80 per cent of the Army Department, which in 1941 (it was the War Department then) had personnel scattered throughout 17 buildings in Washington.

Total population of the Pentagon today is about 22,000. Though this represents only two-thirds of its peak wartime population, the Pentagon still is filled to capacity.

The department at the end of the war was leasing space in 15 buildings in and around the capital. Today only two sections, remain outside the Pentagon.

Maj. Robert B. McBane, in the Army Information Digest, says it is estimated that the structure which cost $63,645,954 — little more than half as much as a single first class battleship—will pay for itself in eight to 14 years.

This is based on the rental of an equivlanet amount of scattered Washington office space.

However, Major McBane says that aside from such economy there is no way to estimate the saving in time, paperwork and efficiency from bringing thousands of the departments employes under one roof.

Secretary Forrestal gradually is moving top officials of all major segments of the military establishment into the Pentagon.

Chief stumbling block in connection with the move is the question of space. In addition to the regular setup, Mr. Forrestal has moved or is moving a large number of defense boards and agencies into the building.

The navy has extensive communications facilities in its building. To move them would involve considerable expense. If they are not moved the communications would have to be connected with the Pentagon by relays.

At its peak during World War II the Pentagon housed nearly 33,000 workers, the average working population of a city of 100,000.

Only one-fourth the population is military. The rest are civilian Defense Department personnel, operation and maintenance workers employed by the Public Buildings Administration and employes of the Natoinal Food Corp., which operates the cafeterias and beveage bars.

Maintenance personnel includes several hundred janitors and charwomen, most of who mork at night. A crew of 10 window-washers works constantly on the 5.2 acres of glass in 5,693 casements, making the rounds about once in 30 days.

Pentagon "Town" has 'round-the-clock cafeterias and beverage bars, banking service, medical and dental clinics, postoffices, barbershop, uniform and tailoring shop, drugstores, railway and airline ticket service, frozen foods counter, dry-cleaning and laundry, newsstand and so on.

Developed during the war was a sort of special service for War Department civilians, the Community Activities Branch is constantly thinking up new ways of bringing normal recreational outlets to the Pentagon populace.

There's a 100-voice Pentagon Choral Club, a theater group of 100 members known as "The Pentagon Players," two public speaking classes in which privates to full colonels take lessons from college professors for 14 weeks. There's also a stamp society.

The Pentagon has the largest private branch telephone exchange in the world, with facilities enough to service a city of 125,000. The dial exchange system, which serves 22,000 main telephone stations at the peak, still serves at least 17,000.

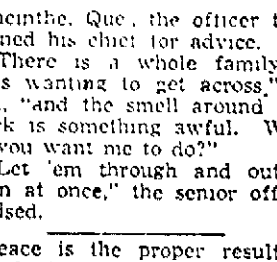
His Seals Are Sent To Seal Their Scent

By The Associated Press

ST. LEONARD, N. B.—A truckload of trained seals rumbled across the U. S.-Canadian international bridge, disturbing a new customs officer's quiet evening.

At a loss as to what to do about the seals, enroute to a fair at St. Hyacinthe, Que., the officer telephoned his chief for advice.



"There is a whole family of seals wanting to get across," he said, "and the smell around that truck is something awful. What do you want me to do?"

"Let 'em through and out of town at once," the senior officer advised.

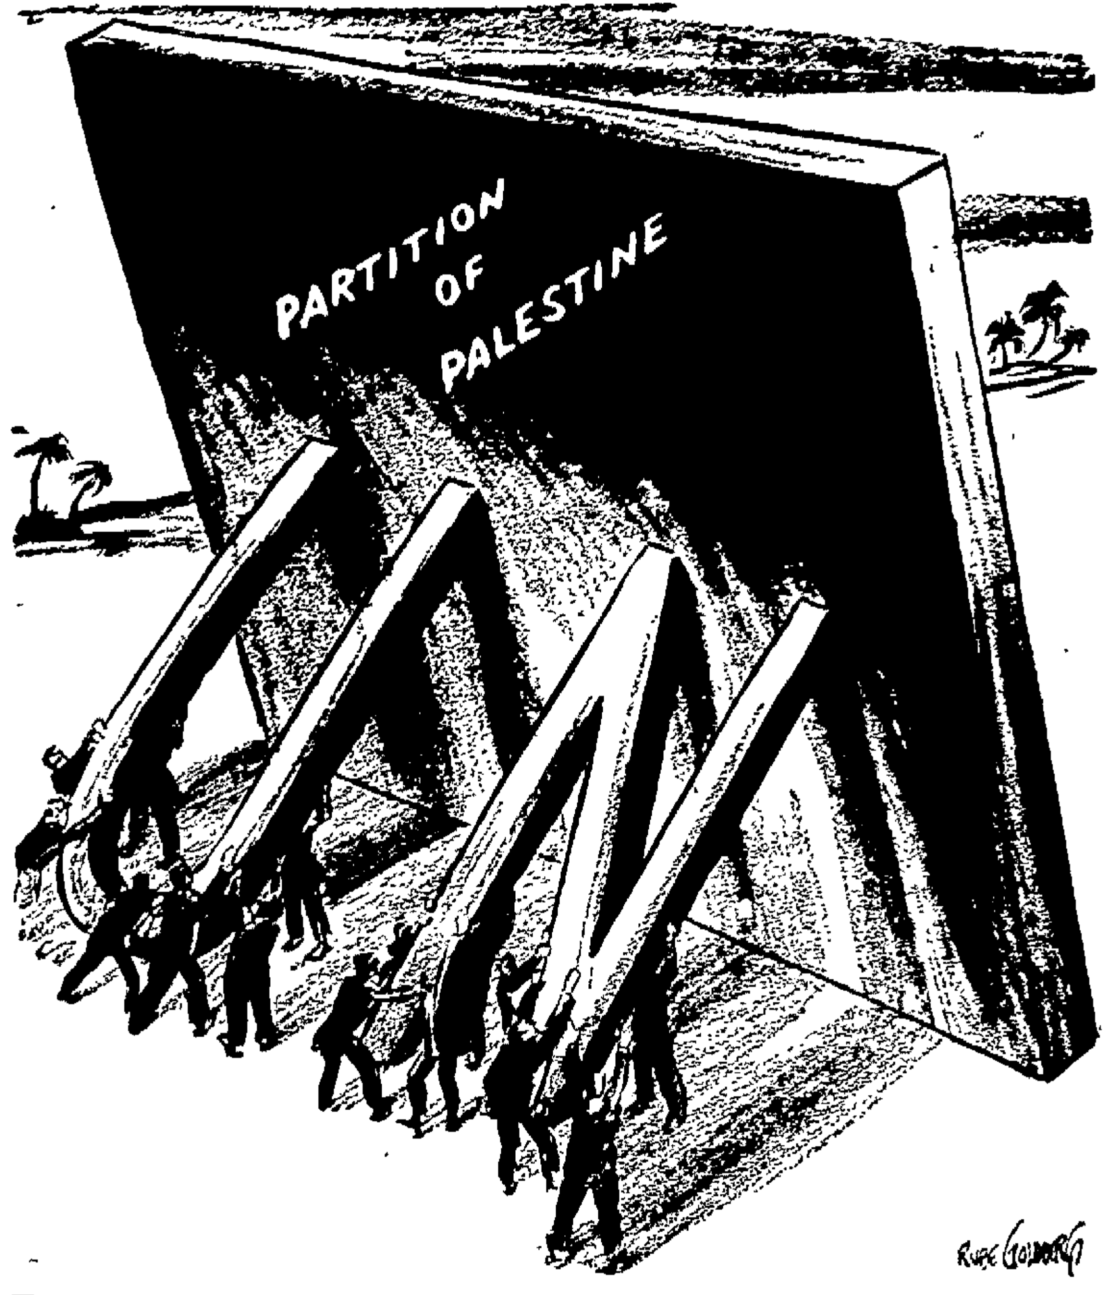
Can They Back It Up?



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Dec. 5, 1937.

Rain the preceding night froze on the pavement and the snowfall which followed made driving hazardous. One inch of snow fell and the minimum temperature was 14 degrees. A forecast of cloudy with snow flurries and somewhat colder temperatures brought little cheer to warm weather addicts.

Mrs. Berthat A. Linstedt, 56, of near Edison, died at her home.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Albrecht, 94, oldest member of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church, died at her home on South Vine street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Behner of Agosta entertained at dinner to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Behner's sister, Mrs. Wallace Wolfinger of near Marion.

J. D. Sears, Bucyrus attorney and former Crawford county prosecuting attorney, delivered the address at the annual memorial services held by Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks.

Miss Dorothy Smith of Marion and Elda Jones of Delaware were married in Central Christian church by Dr. Harry L. Bell.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Dec. 5, 1927.

Four sailors were dead, three steamers were being pounded to pieces off the North Carolina coast and other ships were reported in peril as the worst storm the Atlantic had experienced in years began to subside. In Marion county all of the eight roads totally or partly closed the week previous because of high water, were open to traffic, County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens reported.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Finch of Ellis court, who were observing their golden wedding anniversary, received congratulations from Mrs. Finch's mother, Mrs. I. R. Eatherton of Carner avenue, who was unable to attend the celebration.

Grover Zimmer was elected noble grand at a meeting of Kosciusko Lodge No. 58, I. O. O. F.

Miss Laura Bowen was hostess to the Beta Delphian chapter at her home on South High street. The members discussed "Italian Galleries."

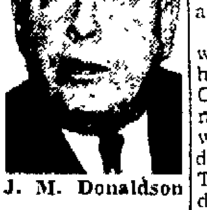
William E. Fetter was elected chancellor commander at a meeting of Canby Lodge No. 51, Knights of Pythias.

Meet the New Postal Chief

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—Jesse M. Donaldson, new postmaster general of the United States and boss-man over some 480,000 postal employes, once had a yen to be a doctor.

But from the day 44 years ago when he started as a part-time postal clerk in the Shelbyville, Ill., post-office where his father was postmaster he has dedicated himself to the service.



J. M. Donaldson

Sitting behind his big desk in the New Post-office building here, piles of congratulatory messages stacked before him, photographers taking his picture, newsmen waiting to interview him, the stocky, genial man was proof that sticking to the job pays.

He is the first career mailman ever to become postmaster general. In that post he draws $15,000 a year and is a member of President Truman's cabinet.

Certainly neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night has stayed this courier.

For indeed Donaldson, who admits to both pride and humility in his new appointment, has lived up to that motto of the post-office service.

Born on Farm

Born on a farm near Shelbyville, Aug. 17, 1885, he taught for four years in one-room schoolhouses in rural Illinois and during summer vacations operated a fourth-class postoffice for his father.

He was appointed city letter carrier at Shelbyville in May, 1908, one of the initial carriers to inaugurate city delivery in that county seat. He began preparing for that job 10 days ahead of time.

"In those days," he says, "the mail that came to folks at Shelbyville was not addressed to street and number. It was my job to route my mail and know where to deliver it. I figure I covered 12 miles a day with morning and afternoon deliveries.

"Soon I got to know every man, woman and child on my route," he says. "They were good folks. On cold days housewives used to meet me at their gates so I wouldn't have to walk up to the door through the unshoveled snow. They'd give me hot coffee on cold days. During the summer they often met me with a glass of cold water, or lemonade."

Surprise

Donaldson's appointment as successor to Robert F. Hannegan who resigned to head the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club, was a surprise to him.

Donaldson and his wife, who have two children, a married daughter and a son, Jesse, Jr., assistant postal inspector at Chicago, live in a modern air-conditioned apartment, like to play bridge and visit with their many friends here. His wife says he plays good bridge and has never trumped her ace.

Before the war, Donaldson used to play golf, bowled twice a week. He says he could be a movie fan, but hasn't been inside a movie in two years. He likes to get up on Sunday morning and prepare breakfast.

Seeding Our Wasteland

AN IMPORTANT step in the salvaging of eroded land is reported in an article on pelletized seeds in Arizona Highways magazine. It all started when the government decided to finance Dr. Lytle S. Adams' plan for seeding barren land from airplanes. Dr. Adams was appalled at the condition of great federal tracts in the West and had been experimenting with a pelletizing machine which would encase from 3 to 7 grass seeds in a wad of fertilizer the size of a pea.

The machine has been developed so that it turns out 6,000 pounds of pellets in eight hours. Cost of seeding, exclusive of the cost of seeds, is about $2 an acre. Also devised was a seeder which flings the pellets along a 1,000-foot swath, so that a speeding plane seeds about one acre per second.

Some 30,000 acres already have been planted this way and the 1948 Interior Department appropriation includes a fairly generous sum for continuing the work. Results so far indicate the plan is a success.

Mixed in with the fertilizer is an insect-rodent repellent so that the pellets will not be eaten after they are scattered. Lehmann's lovegrass has been used for planting so far, and agricultural observers in western states believe a way finally has been found for the large-scale planting of this hardy grass, so that vast barren tracts will become green.

Road Fund Use

City highway improvements are lagging behind other phases of the postwar federal aid program, Public Roads Administration figures show. Only 17 per cent of federal funds available for these urban improvements are now represented by awarded contracts, while the percentage for primary roads is 40 per cent and the percentage for the secondary-road system is 33 per cent.

Only one per cent of these urban funds represented completed contracts as of Oct. 1, while comparable percentages were 10 per cent for primary roads and 11 per cent for secondary roads.

The slower rate of progress for urban projects is attributed to the greater amount of advance planning required, difficulties in securing rights-of-way in cities, and in some cases to the necessity for advance arrangements in financing.

Experience is not what happens to a man. It is what a man does with what happens to him.

CABINET COMMITTEE HEADS FOOD SAVING

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — The cabinet food committee took over the administration's food saving campaign today with a plea for an all-out national effort to curb waste and reduce the use of grain for such things as whisky and beer.

"Full and general observance" of meatless Tuesdays and eggless Thursdays is necessary, the committee said, if this county is to feed itself and help western Europe until the next harvest without food prices soaring "beyond the reach of millions of American families."

The committee said that one of its first moves will be to ask the distilling industry to hold down its use of grain after its 60-day voluntary shutdown ends Christmas day. Brewers will be asked to prolong their curtailed use of grain beyond the agreed termination date of Feb. 1.

The Distilled Spirits Institute, which represents 70 per cent of the distilling industry, promptly announced that it will cooperate by proposing reduced-basis operations after the shutdown to "effect a large saving in grain."

The cabinet committee is composed of Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, Secretary of Commerce Harriman and Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett. In its announcement of plans last night, the group asked:

1. Bakers to make further efforts to curtail "consignment selling" of bread, which might overstock retail shelves.

2. Expanded campaigns by state and community citizens committees to obtain observance of conservation practices.

3. The saving of a slice of bread per day by each family.

GALION LEAGUE PLANNING COOPERATIVE BUYING CLUB

Special to The Star

GALION, Dec. 5—A cooperative fair at which time $500 worth of groceries will be sold at cost, is announced for next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Maccabee hall, by the Galion Cooperative Industrial League. This is a new group which has changed its name from Labor's Joint committee, and is now in the process of organization. It is comprised of workers from several Galion industries. At next week's meeting officers will be elected. This announcement is being made by Edward J. Duck, international representative and organizer of the United Auto Workers (CIO) who will act as coordinator at the meeting. The fair is being held to introduce the Consumer-Cooperative movement to the Galion area, and establish a buying club, Duck said.

He reported the food is being sent in from Chicago from the National Cooperative, Inc., of which the Ohio Farm Bureau is affiliated. He explained that the purpose of a buying club is not to run the grocers out of business, but to help workers in bringing down their living costs.

Akron Delegation At Marion Service

A delegation of 15 persons from Akron were among a crowd of approximately 125 which attended a one-night evangelistic service of the Maranatha Bible church here Thursday. Dr. Dallas F. Billington, pastor and founder of the Akron Baptist temple, was the speaker, and a quartet from Akron sang several Gospel songs. Mr. Neal, song leader of the Akron temple, directed congregational singing. Mrs. J. W. Baker of Marion was pianist, Rev. David E. Weinzierl of the Christian and Missionary Alliance gave the invocation, and Rev. Lester R. Kidd of Green Camp offered prayer. Dr. Billington's message dealt with two types of character, Judas and the Apostle Paul, contrasting the evil and the good.

Marion Women Form First Group of Kind in Nation

The distinction of being a first, not only in Marion but in state and national federated music circles, goes to the recently organized Marion Ohio Club of Life Members of the State and National Federation of Music Clubs. Made up of a group of women whose major interest in their broad field of activities is music, the club not only is the first of its kind to be organized in the federation but is unique in its originality, being made up entirely of life members.

Founded by Mrs. J. C. Woods of 295 Lafayette street, the club was organized on May 10, this year with six charter members. A seventh was enrolled more recently. The six charter members with Mrs. Woods are: Mrs. O. D. Anderson of 264 South Seffner avenue, Mrs. David W. Evans of 346 West Center street, Mrs. H. K. Mouser of 141 South Prospect street, Mrs. LeRoy Schneider of 407 Forest street and Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz of 1054 Mt. Vernon avenue. Mrs. Harry J. Mautz of 236 South Seffner avenue became a member in October. Mrs. Woods is president of the club and Mrs. Anderson is secretary-treasurer. All are actively interested in music in the city, the district and state, and practically all are members of the board of the state federation. The club represents seven of the 52 life members in the state. The members federated with the state and national organizations on May 12, 1947.

No regular meetings are held and the club has as one of its major objectives enrollment of life members in the federation. Life membership fees, Mrs. Woods explained, go into an endowment fund used to further federation projects such as the advancement of American artists and American musical compositions. Among scholarships sponsored by the federation is the Kate Chase Scholarship at Chautauqua and the Edgar Stillman Kelley Junior scholarship, support of the MacDowell Colony at Peterborough, N. H., assisting with the erection of summer music studios at Berkshire Music center in the Berkshire mountains, fostering American folk music research and assisting with the providing of music for men and women in veterans' hospitals. A major interest also is work in the promotion of junior music clubs. All projects are subject to the jurisdiction of the national federation. Both men and women are eligible for life membership in the state and national organizations.

One of the most recent projects of the Marion Life Membership club was providing 125 records for use at the veterans hospital at Chillicothe. At present the members, together with other music organizations, are enlisting the aid of other organizations and individuals in providing recordings of "White Christmas" for disabled veterans at the Chillicothe hospital as a part of their Yuletide entertainment.

Yule Story Is Told At Meeting of Club

A Christmas story based on a theme of racial and religious tolerance, in line with a wide goal claimed by all organized business and professional women, was presented at a dinner meeting of the Marion Business and Professional Women's club Wednesday night. The meeting was held in the Marion club room of Hotel Harding, and the featured story narrator was Miss Margaret Huffman, a member. A group of Christmas songs was presented by girls' ensemble of Harding High school accompanied by Miss Ann Ferguson, and group singing of Christmas carols by the club was directed by Miss Dorothy Gail Stephenson, accompanied by Mrs. Flora Gruber. Miss Mary K. Miley presided for business.

It was decided to continue the project for which a child's wheelchair was purchased by the club some time ago, by finding another child who needs such a chair. The wheelchair was loaned to Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Gwinner of Marion for their son Robert when he was recovering from severe leg burns and could not walk. The family reported recently that the son no longer needs the wheelchair.

Guests welcomed were Phyllis Badgely and Diane Cramer, students of Harding High school business course. The club entertains various girls enrolled in these classes at each club meeting. For the dinner, tables were lighted by green candles tied with red ribbon bows, centering the speaker's table was a small artificial Christmas tree with decorations, and ropes of crushed tinfoil twined around and between the candleholders completed the Christmas motif. The program planning committee was in charge of the meeting with Mrs. Lucille Cunningham as chairman.

The dinner was for immediate families of the bride and bridegroom, and the reception was for relatives and friends. A son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wintringham of 620 Park street, the bridegroom is an employe of the Railway Express Co. He was graduated from Harding High school in 1939 and during World War II was in service with the army air corps and spent a year and a half overseas. The bride was graduated from Harding High school last year and is employed as a secretary for the S. S. Kresge Co. Five and Ten Cent store. They are making their home for the present with the bridegroom's parents.

Miss Good Weds Ethan J. Temple In Wesley Church

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made of the marriage Nov. 15 of Miss Naomi Ruth Good, daughter of Mrs. A. R. Good of 170 Pennsylvania avenue and the late Mr. Good, and Ethan J. Temple, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Temple of Claiborne. The vows were repeated at 7 p. m. in Wesley Methodist church with Rev. Cecil M. Good, brother of the bride, formerly of Dayton and now enroute as a missionary to India, officiating. The double ring service was used, and custom of closed church was observed.

The altar, banked with palms and white pompons provided a setting for the ceremony. A half hour of organ music was presented by Mrs. Zenabelle Messenger, including "Through the Years," Youmans; "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte; "Oh Promise Me," DeKoven; "Theme from Concerto in B Flat Minor," Tschaikowsky; "Because," d'Hardelot; "I Love You Truly," Bond; Tendresse," Pacher; and the traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Willard Ginder sang "All for You," DeKoven and "Always," Berlin, and as a background for the ceremony, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" was played.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by another brother, A. F. Good of Dayton. She wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a deep off-the-shoulder style yoke of marquisette, with the satin draped at the neckline and ornamented with pearlized orange blossoms. Clusters of the pearlized blossoms, repeated at the skirt hemline, caught the bottom of the skirt into wide scollop effect, and larger clusters of the blossoms caught the veil on either side of her head. The veil was of silk net, reached below hip length, and was edged with lace. It was worn by a niece of the bride, Mrs. William Hall of Dayton, at her wedding. Completing the pattern of the gown, the bodice sloped to a point in the center front, the long sleeves ended in points at the hands, and the skirt ended in a short train. Her jewelry was pearls borrowed from Miss Martha Austin, who was maid of honor, as was the lace handkerchief which she carried, and her white Bible was topped with a corsage of red roses showered with white ribbon streamers.

Miss Austin's gown was of light blue satin, made princess style and with off-the-shoulder neckline from which a deep bertha collar with wide horizontal pleats fell. The skirt was caught with small bows of the same materials. She carried a colonial bouquet of red carnations and white pompons. Geraldine Good, a niece of the bride, was flower girl and wore a white moire gown made floor length with tiny puffed sleeves and round divided collar. Her bouquet was a smaller copy of that of the maid of honor. The bride's gift to Miss Austin was a bracelet and matching earrings, and to Miss Good she presented a ring.

Wayland H. Temple of Waldo, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and ushers were Edward L. Jones of Marion and George D. Good of west of Richwood, brother of the bride. Gifts of Mr. Temple to the best man and ushers were gold keychain knives.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Good chose a black and white dress with which she wore black accessories. Mrs. Temple, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a brown dress with black accessories. Corsage for each was of white carnations.

A reception at Ringers Inn followed the ceremony immediately, and included guests from Dayton, Waldo, Claiborne, Lima and Canton. Mrs. Ruth Eibling, Miss Erma Jean Hensel and Mrs. F. McElroy served.

When the couple left on a wedding trip after the reception, Mrs. Temple was attired in a black gaberdine suit topped with a green coat with muskrat tuxedo front. She wore black accessories. Her white leather suitcase was a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Temple is a graduate of Harding High school and is an employe of the Arro Expansion Bolt Co. Her husband is a graduate of York High school in Union county and is an employe of Sinclair Refining Co. He is a veteran of World War II, having served three years in the Army, with two years overseas in the European theater of war. They are making their home at 170 Pennsylvania avenue.

As a courtesy to Mrs. Temple, Miss Austin gave a shower recently in her home near Marion. Contest prizes were won by Mrs. Maury Daniels, Mrs. Ruth Eibling, and Mrs. Temple, who found her gifts beneath a large umbrella decorated in her wedding colors of blue and white. Lunch was served on a table decorated with her colors and centered with a miniature wedding cake.

ANOTHER 'NEW LOOK' NEWSPAPER LISTED

By The Associated Press

The "new look" in newspapers, born of printers' labor disputes with publishers, spread to Allentown, Pa., today.

The method of publishing editions through a typewriting and photoengraving process was introduced to the industry in Chicago Nov. 24 when 1,500 members of the AFL International Typographical Union walked out. Chicago's six big dailies have appeared in that form ever since.

Yesterday 80 members of ITU Local 134 in Allentown walked off their jobs and company executives immediately announced plans to continue publication with the Chicago process.

The Allentown typesetters struck after turning down a 16 2/3 per cent wage increase that carried with it a provision that the recently expired contract with the Allentown Call-Chronicle newspapers be continued.

The papers' executive editor, William D. Reimert, said the union violated the contract in declaring its termination Oct. 1 without giving written proposals of changes. Such proposals are a condition of termination, he said.

Clyde Major, president of the Allentown local, said the printers' rejection was predicated on the company's refusal to acknowledge conditions of employment posted Monday by the union in accordance with national policies of the ITU.

Sassy Cashier in Restaurant Starts Sales Tax Campaign

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5—The girl cashier at a certain Ohio restaurant probably doesn't know it, but she is one reason why representatives of 15 Ohio Trade associations are meeting at the state tax commissioner's office today.

Recently, a scholarly looking man walked up to the cashier's counter to pay his bill. The girl took his money but gave him no sales tax stamps, as required by law.

"How about my stamps?" the man asked.

The girl gave him a nasty look, picked up a bunch of torn off stamps from the counter and flung them at the customer.

"There you are," she said.

"No, I want fresh stamps," he insisted politely.

Then with icy silence she tore off some unused stamps for him to pick up.

Glander Was Customer

The customer happened to be C. Emory Glander, the state tax commissioner.

So when the commissioner drew up an enforcement program to combat widespread dodging of the three per cent sales tax, he decided it would be a good idea to get representatives of the trade associations together to inaugurate an educational campaign among their employes.

"I not only receive complaints from public spirited citizens," the commissioner said, "but other evidence in my possession shows that there are widespread violations. Many vendors negligently or wilfully fail to keep tax stamps on hand. Many vendors collect the tax and then either negligently or wilfully fail to give out stamps. Many vendors or their employes are downright insulting when purchasers ask for the stamp to which they are entitled.

See Chance for Help

"Trade associations and their executives," Glander said, "can be of tremendous assistance not only to the state of Ohio but to their members in raising the standards of commerce."

Glander said that although the sales tax last year yielded more than $100,000,000 (million) as [illegible] $40,000,000 a year before the war, there were increasing evidences of evasion during the war years. He added that "unfortunately, the situation has not materially improved since the war ended." He reported that the state had recovered $6,500,000 in sales tax evasions last year and $25,112,246 since 1942.

CLARK LIST IRKS THOMAS

Congressman Says Many U.S. Subversive Organizations Not Named.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) of the house committee on un-American activities today described as "utterly farcical" the list of some 80 organizations labeled by Attorney General Clark as subversive or otherwise suspect.

"If the Attorney General can't do any better than this," Thomas told a reporter. "The committee on un-American activities will supply a list that will just put his to shame. There are hundreds of Communist and Communist Front organizations alone."

Clark got out his list last night. It named, among others, the Communist party, the German-American Bund, the Ku Klux Klan, Columbians, American Youth Congress, American Youth for Democracy, the Civil Rights Congress, the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee and the now disbanded Hollywood Writers Mobilization for Defense.

Used In Loyalty Check

The list is to be used in checking on the loyalty of government workers. It was relayed to heads of all government agencies by Seth W. Richardson, chairman of the administration's loyalty review board.

The attorney general said the list is not "complete or final" and may be expanded as investigations warrant the addition of other organizations.

In a letter to Richardson transmitting the list, Clark said that as President Truman has pointed out, "It is entirely possible" that many persons belonging to such organizations may be loyal to this country; that "membership in, affiliation with or sympathetic association with, any organization designated is simply one piece of evidence which may or may not be helpful in arriving at a conclusion as to the action which is to be taken in a particular case."

"We must be satisfied that reasonable grounds exist for concluding that an individual is disloyal," the attorney general said. "That must be the guide."

List In Three Parts

Clark broke his list down into three parts. The first repeated the names of 47 organizations the justice department classed officially as subversive in a 1943 report.

The second added 33 organizations in accordance with an order by President Truman several months ago directing the loyalty check on federal employes.

The Communist party is on both lists. And seven "affiliates and committees" are included on the second. Also on the second list are two "affiliates" of the Civil Rights Congress.

List No. 3 names these 11 schools as "adjuncts of the Communist party":

Abraham Lincoln school, Chicago; George Washington Carver school, New York City; Jefferson School of Social Science, New York City; Ohio School of Social Sciences; Philadelphia School of Social Science and Art; Samuel Adams school, Boston; School of Jewish Studies, New York City; Seattle Labor School, Seattle; Tom Paine School of Social Science, Philadelphia; Tom Paine School of Westchester, N. Y., and Walt Whitman School of Social Science, Newark, N. J.

Senator Denies Ohio School "Subversive"

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5—The Ohio School of Social Science, listed by U. S. Attorney General Clark as an adjunct of the Communist party, was organized at Cleveland in 1944 with Howard M. Metzenbaum, now a state senator, as incorporation agent.

Senator Metzenbaum, a Cleveland attorney, denied today that the school was "subversive" and said it closed two years ago for lack of funds.

Metzenbaum, listed by records of Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel also as an incorporator and a trustee, issued a statement today saying:

"I deny that there was ever anything subversive about that school, and all that it did was offer an opportunity for people to learn subjects which were not otherwise available."

The purpose clause in the incorporation papers said the school intended "to offer various adult education courses on a non-profit basis."

Allow schools to boost pay of teachers under contract without giving them additional duties as now required for such increases.

Permit Akron municipal court to increase wages of 28 employes about $300 annually.

The senate also confirmed the governor's appointment of Paul A. Mitchell of Butler county as state superintendent of banks for a term ending Jan. 14, 1950, and selection of eight trustees of Wilberforce university's college of education and industrial arts.

The confirmations brought the session's total to 33.

TO QUESTION MAN IN DEATH OF GIRL

By The United Press

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5 — Detective Lieut. Peter A. Connors left today for Mansfield, O., to question an Ohio state reformatory inmate who has admitted dating pretty 19-year-old Martha Seel a few days before her nearly nude body was found in the Allegheny river Oct. 8, 1946.

The convict, Clarence Griffey, 23, of New Philadelphia, O., escaped from the reformatory last year. He was arrested at Rockford, Ill., last month on charges of possessing obscene literature, and was returned to Mansfield late yesterday.

Griffey's connection with the brown-haired Etna, Pa., girl was established through newspaper clippings of her death found in his billfold.

Griffey, who is serving a 3-to-20 year sentence for rape, said he had dated Miss Seel several times, but denied having anything to do with her death.

"I state that liberated German prisoners are being used as strike pickets. The Communists are using German prisoners against Frenchmen who want to go back to work," said Jean Wi[illegible], councillor for the Pas de Calais district, which includes many of France's best coal mines.

His charge brought members of the council to their feet, shouting and banging their desk tops. The council was about to vote on Premier Robert Schuman's measure making sabotage and armed violence punishable by heavy fines and prison sentences of up to [illegible] years.

PAY BOOST DEMAND CALLED UNTIMELY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) today termed "untimely" CIO demands for a new round of general wage increases and said the request "should be resisted by industry."

Bricker told a reporter that CIO President Phillip Murray, who announced Tuesday that the union would seek "substantial" wage boosts early next year, "should have waited a little more to see if prices level off."

Prices are becoming stabilized or "softening up" now in some commodities, Bricker said, and cited radios, clothing and real estate as examples.

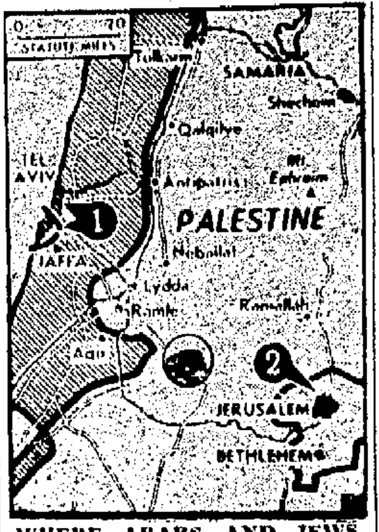
The Ohio senator proposed that labor withhold higher wage demands for the present and that industry, wherever possible, reduce prices voluntarily so as "to cooperate in the public interest."

"Wages are an element of prices," he said, "and they follow one another around the spiral. We must adjust the price and wage structures."

He added that two previous rounds of wage increases since V-J day "definitely" were a factor in the upward spiral of prices.

"The final solution," Bricker said, "is full production of the things that people want to buy so that prices level off. This hits at the root of the problem. It requires increased cooperation between employer and employe."

Bricker said that lower prices or lower taxes would produce "the same effect" for labor as a wage increase, adding "the important thing is what a dollar will buy for you."



WHERE ARABS AND JEWS BATTLE. Arabs and Jews fought with guns, grenades, knives and fire on the border between Tel Aviv and Jaffa (1). Fires kindled by the Arabs still burned in Jerusalem (2) but otherwise the city was relatively quiet. A police convoy system to protect traffic on road (symbol) between the cities was established. Shaded area will be Jewish under the proposed partition.

G.O.P. TO DRAFT OWN ANTI-INFLATION PLAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — The senate Republican policy committee decided today to attempt to work out with house members a GOP anti-inflation program which may call for volunteer allocation of scarce cost of living items.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a news conference a meeting of senate and house leaders will be held next week to determine whether "two or three" anti-inflation measures can be pushed to final passage in the special session of congress.

He listed measures to extend export controls, regulate trading on the grain exchanges and to curb installment buying in this category.

The Ohio senator said there was discussion by the policy group of a proposed bill under which government would take the lead in attempts to bring about voluntary agreements in industry to allocate such critical products as steel.

He said this measure would have to contain a clause exempting participating businesses from the anti-trust act, as well as provisions for government funds to conduct a compaign.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich) of the house banking committee said he thinks there is no doubt that the Republicans will "come up with a policy to stabilize the nation's economy."

Freshmen senators disclosed, meanwhile, that they had discussed at a meeting of their own the demands they have been making for a "positive" Republican program to meet the issue of rising living costs.

There seemed every likelihood that when it emerges in its final form, the Republican manifesto will point to voluntary price and rationing action — without the club-in-closet proposal of President Truman for standby powers to enforce those curbs—as the best way to stop price rises.

Santa AND THE GOOD BOY

BY [illegible]

CHAPTER TWO

Mr. Sleek Bargains With Santa

CHRISTMAS was coming and [illegible] Santa Land there was not [illegible] creature!

How the elves and fairies and [illegible] sang and laughed and [illegible] at their work! For was [illegible] the happiest time of the [illegible] folk who loved toys and [illegible] more than anything in [illegible]

[illegible] Santa himself was on a [illegible] trying out new sleds. [illegible] himself on each tiny [illegible] waved a red mittened hand [illegible] the elves roared with [illegible] went flying down the hill-[illegible]

"Perfect!" cried the elves. And [illegible] Santa nodded and said, "Perfect."

When the sled testing was over Santa went to watch the kite makers who were trying out the kites Santa was to take to the boys and girls on Christmas morning.

There were thousands of them [illegible] and skipping in the sky. "Beautiful!" murmured Santa [illegible]. "So graceful and [illegible]!"

But just as he spoke a strange thing happened. The kites began dropping out of the sky! The [illegible] ran and reeled in the string and played out the string but it was no good; the kites kept right on drifting to the earth.

Then the sky itself suddenly darkened and the wind died away and there was a terrible stillness everywhere.

"What can it be?" cried the frightened elves.

Santa's cheeriness was gone. "It [illegible]," he whispered. "When the sky turns dark at noon Evil has come to Santa Land."

AT THAT moment a swarm of buzzards dropped out of the sky and on each buzzard sat a bad fairy called a sprout. On the biggest buzzard of all sat Mr. Sleek who had come to drive Santa from his land.

"What is it you want?" asked Santa fearfully, for he knew Mr. Sleek was Bad and carried Badness with him wherever he went. "Say what you have to say and go away from here."

"Ho!" cried Mr. Sleek. "Don't be in such a hurry for I have come to stay. I am going to make ashes and switches to take to children on Christmas day."

Then Mr. Sleek set his sprouts to work in Santa's shops burning toys to make ashes and cutting up toys for paddles and switches.

The gleeful sprouts stacked the sleds Santa had been testing and set them afire. They stamped on beautiful half finished dolls. They smashed the kites.

When Santa's outraged fairies tried to stop them the sprouts laughed and threw magic dust in their eyes to blind the little fairies with tears. Then they dropped a net on the good fairies' heads and tied them in a heap on the ground.

"See," said Mr. Sleek to Santa. "Your good times are over. You cannot stop me from having my way."

"Why do you do this?" asked Santa. "Why do you wish to hurt children so?"

"Because children are Bad," replied Mr. Sleek. "They do not deserve the things you give them."

"Children are good!" protested Santa angrily.

"Ha!" scoffed Mr. Sleek. "Tell me the name of one good child and I will leave your land."

NOW Mr. Sleek hadn't meant to say that at all—it had just slipped out in his excitement—but before he could take it back Santa cried:

"That is a bargain!"

Even a bad creature like Mr. Sleek must keep a bargain, even a bargain he hadn't meant to make. Besides he was too proud to back down so he nodded.

Then Santa said, "Stop your sprouts from their work and if I do not return in 24 hours with the name of a good child then you can have the whole of Santa Land."

Mr. Sleek nodded glumly again. He was disappointed because he would like to have started work at once on his ashes and switches.

But he was not too glum because he was quite sure that Santa could never find a truly good child in the whole wide world.

"TELL ME THE NAME OF ONE GOOD CHILD AND I WILL LEAVE YOUR LAND."

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

MY bewilderment at Mary's astonishing statement made me irritable.

"I wish you'd explain that paradox," I said, a bit tartly. "Here's a man in peril who has the chance of getting letters out only once in a while. Yet he sends more messages to you, the wife of another man, who repeatedly has deflated him, than he does to his betrothed wife whom, he repeatedly protests, he loves devotedly."

"You've answered your own question in a phrase that I'll take up with you later," Mary said tantalizingly. "But, aren't you interested in what Georges said in his letters—or rather notes—to me?"

"Not in the least," I snapped. Then I told the truth reluctantly.

"You know I'm interested," I said, and she chuckled.

"I can always tell when you're lying," she said impertinently.

"I've a notion to smack you for that," I threatened, and she laughed comfortably.

"I'm perfectly safe," she taunted. "Remember, I'm a convalescent from a sanitarium."

"I'm not likely to forget it," I retorted, "but please, member, I 'can be pushed just so far.'"

"I'll remember, and I'll give out with Georges' little notes. They were very artistic, just pleas for my assurance that I did not hold that last performance of his against him."

"When he tried to kiss you, and you slapped his face so soundly that he looked like a boiled beet for hours?" I asked.

"That's so," she said. "you and Uncle Dicky were involuntary witnesses to that little scene."

"I never shall forget it," I said with a chuckle. "You were magnificent."

"I only wish I'd hit him harder," she said vindictively, "or that I had a chance to sock him again. Maybe it would cure him of sighing that no matter what came into his life of joy or sorrow, he never could forget me, and that I was one of the most sacred memories of his life."

I laughed outright at Mary's face.

"You evidently do not take Georges' little protestations at face value," I said.

"They aren't worth half a cent in a dollar," she said. "The only significant meat in the cocoanut was his plea that I send him some written assurance that I had forgiven him.'

"You didn't, did you?" I queried in quick alarm, and she laughed merrily.

"Got your nanny that time, didn't I?" she mocked. "No, my darling auntie, be assured that Georges hasn't a line of writing from me I'd as soon print a note to him in the gossip columns."

"I am very much relieved," I told her truthfully. "You are such a kindly generous person, that the harpies see you coming a mile away."

"Such a naughty word to call little Georgy Porgy!" she said. "But, while he's usually harmless, when his vanity is touched, he puts out stinging rays."

"You promised to tell me what you thought was the reason for his letters," I said.

"You said it yourself," she said. "You told me I repeatedly had de-dated him. Don't you know Georges well enough to know that he can't stand that. He has to prove to himself that there's some lingering tenderness in me for him. He wants to bring it out, gloat over it a bit, then bid me a crushing—and deflating adieu forever before he marches off with Olina.

"I hope you get a chance to give him the treatment he deserves," I said viciously.

"Don't worry," she said serenely. "When we get down to the hideaway, Ill be there with bells on. Little George Porgy will wish he'd never been born by the time I get through him him."

"More power to you!" I said. "If you need any aid call on me and your Uncle Dicky. Which reminds me, I'd better tell him he can come out of his 'dungeon cell.'"

MINISTER DISCUSSES OUTLOOK FOR PEACE

Dr. Edwin A. Brown Speaks at Kiwanis Meeting.

The "Outlook for Peace" was discussed by Dr. Edwin A. Brown, Marion minister, before members of the Kiwanis club in their weekly luncheon program Thursday at Hotel Harding. Pastor of Wesley Methodist church, Dr. Brown was introduced by Rev. Eldred Johnston of Central Christian church.

Dr. Brown explained the latest achievements of the modern day, stressing how rapidly people are living today. He asked the question, "What Lies Back of the Present Situation?" and explained this by stating that he believes the basic difficulty between the United States and Russia is fear.

Enlarging on the fears of both countries, Dr. Brown said America's fear of Russia is communism. He said people in the U. S. believe that if communism ever became the dominant influence, it will spell doom for U. S. capitalism and democracy.

Russia's greatest fear is, Dr. Brown said, capitalistic nations, of which the United States is the largest in the world. Other fears which Russia has of the U. S. are, he stated, the U. S. Navy and the present atomic production.

Dr. Brown said he believes there are only two ways out of the dilemma, (1) war, and (2) foreign policy of both nations, adding that actually the latter is the only way out. He said the foreign policy should not aim at encirclement, but should be based on friendship.

Program chairman for the meeting was Harold Denzer.

Plans were made for a number of Kiwanians to man a Salvation Army kettle for one day, Saturday, Dec. 20, as is done every year by the service clubs. An announcement was made of the annual Ladies night party and installation of officers to be held Jan. 8 at Hotel Harding by Charles E. Jennings, chairman of the social committee.

Guests were Wendal B. Ward of Chicago, Arthur Garison of Zanesville, and Harold Denzer Jr. and Charles Harmon of Marion.

CHECK MANSFIELD ANGLE IN AUTO DEAL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5—Bankruptcy court today pressed investigation of out-of-town operations of John W. Singelton, bankrupt dealer in slightly used automobiles, as claims against the salesman soared to a total of $694,290 filed by 343 disgruntled customers.

Testimony before the court yesterday by Attorney Theodore R. Spilka identified Robert K. Adelman of Mansfield, O. as a dealer who had been "stuck" by the collapse of Singleton's "auto empire."

Adelman's name was given by several other witnesses as a steady customer of Singleton's local sales office, and testimony was presented by other disgruntled purchasers linking the Richland county dealer with the Singleton deals.

Sheriff Frank Robinson said at Mansfield he had been trying since Nov. 8 to attach Adelman's car as a result of a judgment obtained there by Earl E. Bates. William A. Calhoun, attorney for Bates said in his petition that his client had paid Adelman $2,015 on July 1 for delivery of a 1947 Buick within 60 days after that date, and had received no auto.

Attorney Calhoun also reported he knew of at least one other deal on which Adelman was forced to refund money when he received no delivery from Singleton.

Police Capt. Thomas Murphy, head of the criminal investigation bureau, reported Ohioans who had filed claims against Singleton alleging they paid him money in advance for autos and received no deliveries included: Mansfield—Hubert Holloway, 33, a claim for $2285; Ralph Zall, claim for $1500, and James R. Borden, $1500; Shelby—Ada Amato, $2200.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

MAJ. GEN. BENNETT E. MEYERS, who was pretty busy during the war, retired on $550 a month.

The Army suspended the pay after Meyers disclosed he was interested in a number of other things besides his regular job in the Air Forces.

The size of his retirement pay, and how he got it, has caused some wondering.

Here is an explanation about Meyers, his retirement pay, and Army pensions in general.

Meyers was in the army 28 years. As a major general his base pay—straight pay without extras, such as for housing—was $8,800 a year.

He was retired for disability. Which means: he was considered physically unfit for further active duty.

What kind of disability? There's been no offical statement on this.

W. Stuart Symington, secretary for the Air Force, indicated at a news conference that Meyers was retired for a nervous breakdown.

MARLOW

His retirement pay of $550 a month ($6,600 a year) was 70 per cent of his straight, active pay of $8,800 a year.

Unusual? No. Any general officer, an officer above the rank of colonel, can retire at 75 per cent of his active pay after 30 years' service.

But no matter how short a time he had been a general officer, if he was retired for disability he'd get 75 per cent of his active pay.

This doesn't mean that he has to be totally disabled. It means only that he cannot carry on his regular active duty. A bad heart would be enough.

An Army board decides on the disability. The board could, if it wished, discharge an officer with one year's pay and no more.

What has been said so far here applies to all general officers, whether they're regular army men or reserve officers, and so on.

BUT THERE'S THIS gimmick for all but regular army officers:

The disability must have been something that developed while the officer was in active service.

Suppose a reserve officer, who had had a kidney disorder, was called into active service. The kidney condition grew worse. He couldn't do active duty.

In that case he'd have to apply to the veterans administration (VA) for disability pension. Then he might not get 75 per cent of his general's pay.

The VA could decide that he was only slightly disabled and give a pension much less than 75 per cent.

BUT SUPPOSE a regular army man, who was a general officer, got drunk and, in an auto accident, suffered an injury making him unfit for active duty.

He wouldn't go to the VA. The Army board would decide whether to retire him on 75 per cent of his active pay or discharge him with one year's pay, or fire him without pay.

All this is covered by law. And, still overed by law, there are slightly different arrangements for officers, from second lieutenants to colonel, under the rank of general.

There's no room here to go into their cases. But what of the regular Army enlisted men, from private to sergeant, and what of war-time draftees?

A REGULAR ARMY enlisted man can retire after 30 years' service on 75 per cent of his straight, active duty pay.

And, if he's served 20 years and has to retire for disability, he gets 75 per cent of his acive pay. The army gives him that. He doesn't have to go to the veterans administration.

But if that same regular Army enlisted man had to retire for disability with less than 20 years' service, he'd have to go to VA.

The VA would decide the degree of his disability—how much he was unable to do other work—and pay him accordingly.

But any wartime draftee who was disabled—say he was shot in battle—had to go to the VA which would decide on his degree of disability.

That wartime draftee—depending on the degree of his disability—might get only a small percentage of his active pay or even more than his active pay if he was not only disabled but maimed.

Anna Gordon Union Has All-Day Meeting

An all-day meeting was held by the Anna Gordon Union of the W.C.T.U. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ed Ellington of 180 John street. The morning was spent in knotting two comforters and a potluck dinner was served at noon.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Elder S. C. Webster of Mt. Vernon, secretary of home missions and sabbath school of the Ohio Conference of Seventh Day Adventists. He spoke on the subject, "Jews Returning to Palestine." He expressed the belief that they won't return as a nation as the Bible teaches that. Two new members, Mrs. Homer Nagley and Mrs. Roy Lesch, were welcomed into the group. Mrs. Nagley was transferred from the Mary Harris Armor Union. A basket was filled for a needy family for Christmas and a gift exchange was held.

In general, most crops grow and produce best when the soil is slightly acid to neutral.

STUDY SOIL LOSS IN AREA OF LAKE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5—Farmers living about Lake White in Pike county are going to find out how much of their precious top soil has been washed into the lake in the past 12 years.

The Ohio conservation division announced today it was cooperating with the U. S. soil conservation service, the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy district and the Ohio Water Resources board in a field project to determine the extent of erosion from the 37½ square miles of watershed into the 323 acres of Lake White.

The lake was drained recently to remove the large population of coarse fish so that it could be restocked with game species.

"The four cooperating agencies," the conservation division said, "consider this a rare occasion to obtain many important facts on the rate of fill, by different kinds of eroded soils in Pike county, and to obtain an idea of the amount of soil being eroded from the farms in that watershed. This is primarily sheet erosion which is not readily seen. The stream bank erosion is very definite. But the most important loss is the thin layer of soil washed from the surface."

"The amount of material deposited in the lake," it added, "will give an idea of how fast the soil is being eroded from the surrounding farms. In the future the information will be useful in the construction of new lakes for fish propagation and the possible rate of fill in for proposed storage reservoirs to be used for water supply and for flood control."

Some 400 Spaniards were killed and about 1 950 expelled from New Mexico in an Indian rebellion in 1680.

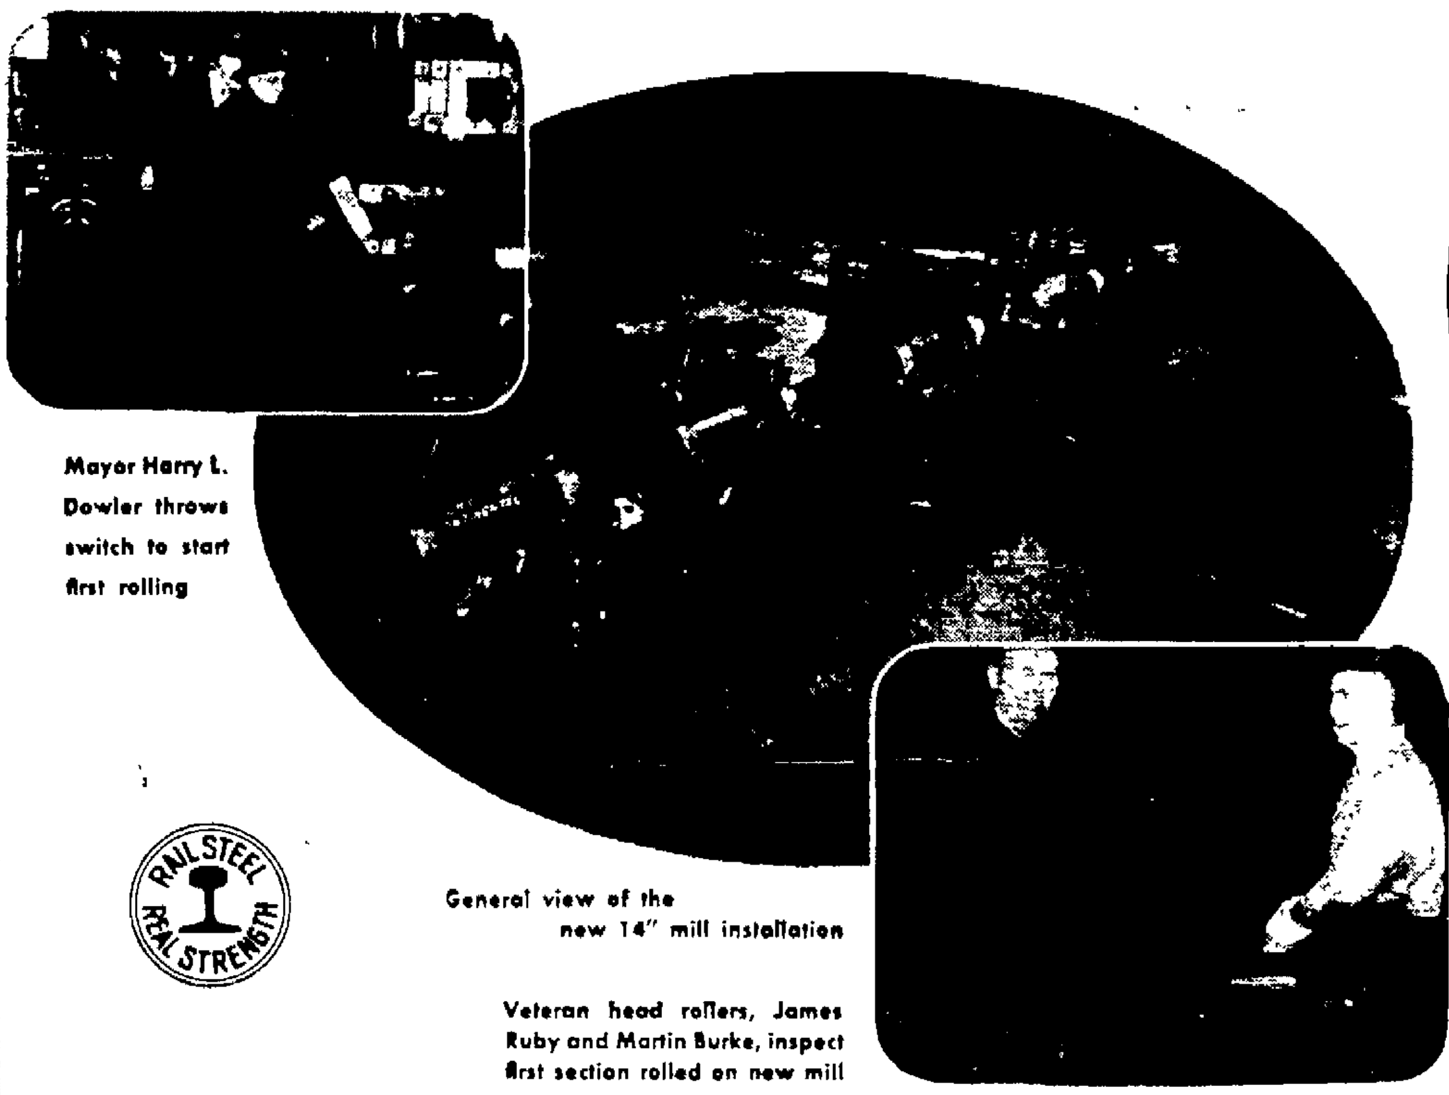
POLLAK NEW 14" MILL goes into operation



Mayor Harry L. Dowler throws switch to start first rolling

General view of the new 14" mill installation

Veteran head rollers, James Ruby and Martin Burke, inspect first section rolled on new mill Throwing the switch which set in motion the new 14" mill at Pollak Steel Company's Marion, Ohio plant completed the first series of six major Pollak mill improvements all of which are part of the billion dollar steel industry expansion program.

THE POLLAK PROGRAM demonstrates the faith of this company in Marion, Ohio as an industrial center, in the teamwork of management and labor and the future of high peacetime demands.

THE OVER-ALL INDUSTRY PROGRAM and the record-breaking production of 1947 is a complete refutation of statements that the steel industry is holding back American economy through a lack of foresight and expansion.

POLLAK STEEL IS USED in the manufacture and construction of many items important to the American scene: for Industry, Agriculture and Construction.

IN INDUSTRY, over 350 types and sizes of Pollak Merchant Bars and Shapes are required in steel bed frames and springs, metal porch and garden furniture, automobile bumper back bars, tools, such as clamps and jacks, dryer cars and industrial trucks, overhead conveying systems.

IN AGRICULTURE, Pollak Rail Steel supplies strength and rigidity with less weight, for fertilizing, seeding and harvesting machinery. Grain elevators and grain storage structures are reinforced with Pollak Reinforcing Bars. Millions of Pollak Notchback and Studtee fence posts give protection to stock and crops and add to the appearance of the farm.

IN CONSTRUCTION, Pollak Reinforcing Bars are in demand for public and private projects. They have been used in the Delaware Dam, Delaware, Ohio (under U. S. Corps of Engineers), the new nineteen-story Terrace Plaza Hotel, Cincinnati, Ohio, The Ohio Farm Bureau grain storage unit, near Bexley, Ohio, the new Meadowbrook Apartments at Indianapolis, Indiana and Veteran Housing Projects, to name only a few.

A Doctor Turns Detective

... person is one who is ... some substance which ... others. The offend... can be almost any... which others eat ... a bit of pollen, un... the vast majority; the ... comfortable pillow; ... which has saved ... millions.

... these things and hun... can cause allergic ... discomfort in the ... hay-fever, eczema.

... doctor suspects that ... a person has are ... he must turn detective in order to track down the substances that are causing the trouble. He must know about the time of the attacks and where they occur. He will question the patient carefully about the foods he eats and about the type of furnishings in the home.

For example, if the attacks come in the late spring or summer, they are likely to be due to some pollen. If the attacks come in the later summer and fall, ragweed is the probable culprit. If they occur the year round, it is possible they are due to some food. The person may be sensitive to house dust, or the dander from a dog, or to hair used in stuffing furniture.

The physician has a weapon which aids him in his detective work of finding what is causing the trouble. This weapon is skin-testing. This is carried out by injecting into the skin, a tiny amount of an extract from the various foods, pollen and dusts. If you are sensitive to the substance which is being tested, a red swelling will usually develop within fifteen minutes at the point where the injection is made.

If these skin tests show the doctor the substances to which you are sensitive, he must then figure out ways and means of keeping you out of contact with them. If you are sensitive to some particular food, of course the easiest answer is not to eat that food. If you are sensitive to feathers, some other type of pillow may be substituted for the feather pillow.

Sometimes, however, a person is sensitive to substances with which he just cannot avoid contact. In such cases, it is possible to desensitize by giving injections of the offending substance in gradual, increasing doses.

Unfortunately, many persons may not be benefited by this form of treatment. In such cases, new drugs such as benadryl and pyribenzamine, as well as drugs which have been used for a longer period of time such as ephedrine and epinphrine, may be helpful in giving temporary relief.

If you have symptoms of one of these allergic disorders, consult your doctor promptly. He will carry out the necessary tests and studies to determine what is responsible. Then he can carry through the course of treatment which will bring relief.

FARMER'S ALMANAC HAS NEW EDITION

Founded in 1792; Presses Turn Out 156th Issue.

The Old Farmer's Almanac, which has not skipped a year since its first number, again takes its place in the family reading circle with publication of its 1948 issue. Established in 1792, the almanac this year marked its one hundred and fifty-sixth continuous year of publication.

Published at Dublin, N. H., the familiar yellow jacketed volume, in addition to all the usual features, has many additional ones such as the life of Bud Fisher and some examples of his Mutt and Jeffisms, why we have leap year, teen age grooming and many other interesting and informative items.

The coming weather is of interest to all, and this year's news is not good. The coming winter, according to Mr. Weatherwise, will be "white, long and cold," and he cautions, in addition—something he has rarely done—that the summer of 1948 may be one of severe crop failures — recalling that this coming summer falls in a year of great sun spot activity as did the cold summer of 1816 when great spots could be seen on the sun and when snow fell in July.

Approximate planting, growing and harvesting tables for various sections of the country are given and for those who would be entertained in a lighter vein there are anecdotes, old-fashioned puzzles and charades.

SMITH QUERY BRINGS CLASH AT HEARING

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — A wrangle developed in the house banking committee yesterday as Democratic members challenged inquiries by Rep. Smith (R) of Marion, O., on whether citizens who served on the Harriman foreign aid committee could not profit personally by relief shipments.

The incident arose as Smith questioned Secretary of Commerce Harriman whether a steel executive, who served on the committee, and Randolph Burgess, New York banker, might profit if the long-range Marshall plan for European aid is approved.

Reps. Patman (D-Tex) and Monroney (D-Okla) protested, saying Smith's questions impugned the motives of prominent persons not then before the committee which is holding hearings on President Truman's proposals for domestic cost-of-living curbs.

Harriman told Smith "it is very unfair to question what conceivable ulterior motives these men had in serving on the (Harriman) committee. They gave their efforts for the good of their country and in the interest of the people of the United States."

Monroney remarked that such procedures would discourage prominent citizens from advising the government.

Smith then withdrew his questions from the record, saying "I intended in no way to reflect on the motives or integrity of anyone."

The 19-man Harriman committee was named by President Truman to survey the nation's business resources to report what aid might be made available by the U. S. under the proposed Marshall plan.

HARPSTER SCOUT MEETING

A meeting of the Harpster Girl Scout and Brownie Troop committee leaders was held Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Fred Ross at Harpster. Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held Dec. 10 at the home of Mrs. Frances Turney, and an announcement was made that new leaders are needed for Troop 18. Those present were Mrs. Donna Sheaffer, Mrs. Viola Parsell, Mrs. Frances Schwilk, Mrs. Katherine Eaton, Mrs. Turney and Mrs. Lillian Brewer.

Coast's Bid for Higher Status May Get Minor's Blessing Yet

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5—The Pacific Coast league, rebuffed in its fight to become a third major baseball circuit, may yet receive the blessing of the National Association of Minor Leagues as it resumes its all-out effort for higher classification today with a modified resolution for big league status.

Although minor league presidents voted 32 to 17 in favor of the coast loop's request yesterday, it failed to pass since it did not get the necessary three-fourths vote.

The Pacific Coast announced it would redraft its resolution, eliminating any reference to clauses which would affect the major-minor agreement, and present it again to the executive session which winds up the convention today.

Final decision, however, rests with the major leagues who meet next week in New York.

Only one major league trade was made during the day. The Boston Braves purchased outfielder Jeff Heath from the St. Louis Browns for an unannounced sum.

VICTORY SONG NAMED HORSE OF THE YEAR

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 — Victory Song, owned by the Castleton farm stable at Lexington, Ky., was named today as the harness horse of the year by a committee of 50 sports editors, turf writers and radio commentators.

The Trotting Horse Club of America announced that the four-year-old trotter had received 165 points in the voting and that his stablemate, Hoot Mon, had received 160 points for second place.

Third place in the yearly honors went to April Star, a pacer owned by R. L. Craig of Urbana, O., which scored 108 points.

Victory Song set a world's race record during the past season for four-year-old stallions and also established another world mark of 1:14 2/5 for five furlongs.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—The other day Joe Louis received a check for $1,500 for a one-minute stint as a guest on a radio program Tonight he'll be paid off at a considerably higher rate for some work that likely won't be much harder — a title defense against Jersey Joe Walcott....The bout figures to gross about $225,000 at the gate, breaking the Madison Square Garden record of $201,613 made back in 1927 by Jack Delaney and Jimmy Maloney....Of this the champ will get the usual 40 per cent of the net, plus a share of radio and television receipts. He'll have to shell out his manager's cut and the not inconsiderable training expenses, but if he's trying to break the by-the-minute record, he won't have to work very long.... This dept. figures that in spite of bold predictions from the Walcott camp, Jersey Joe will last about five rounds. Louis isn't in any hurry.

THE OLYMPIC HOCKEY fuss between the Amateur Hockey association and the Amateur Athletic union seems to be spreading to the Swiss organizing committee. Apparently one Swiss group is afraid the American teams won't appear and the winter games will be a flop while another wants to string along with the A. H. A., which has been actively promoting hockey.... Meantime, the best hockey show of the season was the Rangers' Lester Patrick night get-together when the old-timers who made hockey history 20 years ago came back to honor the greatest of them all....As Bunny Cook said: "Things haven't changed much. We still wait until Lester goes to bed and then we sneak out and have some fun."

Prexies Set for Cage Bexley Opener Tonight

Harding Presidents will meet the Bexley Bobcats in the basketball opener at Edison gymnasium tonight.

Even though the Prexies are rated as the underdog against a veteran team Coach Somerlot thinks chances for a win are good. The Presidents will be out to avenge the 53 to 33 beating handed them last year by the Bobcats.

The reserve game will start at 7 p. m. and the varsity game at 8.

NOTRE DAME CHOICE TO BLAST TROJANS

Irish Given 13 Points Over Southern California.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5—Notre Dame's famous Irish, unbeaten in 17 games and determined to clinch the 1947 mythical national collegiate football crown, rolled into town today feavily favored to blast Southern California's Trojans out of the undefeated-once tied ranks in their annual classic tomorrow.

Frank Leahy's big warrior band from South Bend is a solid 13-point favorite to knock off the Rose Bowl Trojans in this 18th renewal and 19th game of a series that began in the Rockne-Howard Jones era.

Los Angeles' vast memorial coliseum has long since been sold out for the game and tickets inside the 40-yard stripes have sold for as high as $75 a pair.

Unless rain hampers the enthusiasm of rain-shy Californians, upwards of 102,000 will sit in on the contest. Two weeks ago 102,938 watched the Trojans defeat U.C.L.A., 6-0, and sew up the Pacific Coast conference title and the Rose Bowl bid.

Edison Junior High Beats St. Mary Graders

Mason and Reeves scored seven points apiece to pace Edison, and Wensinger and Tinnerello scored nine each for St. Mary.

The St. Mary junior reserves won, 25-11.

Great Lakes Bowl Teams in Good Shape

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5 — Villanova and the University of Kentucky football squads were here today, primed and ready for tomorrow's first annual Great Lakes Bowl game.

Kentucky Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant said the Wildcats were in tiptop shape except for Don (Dopey) Phelps, his No. 1 breakaway back, and Phelps' running mate, Jack Farris. Injuries have forced both to work out only in sweat clothes this week.

Ohio High School Coaches To Pick All-Stars Today

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5—Ohio High school coaches prepared today to deal with another all-star football game—a prodigal returned from a two-year stay with big-time college mentors.

Directors and district representatives of the Ohio High School Football Coaches association were scheduled to meet tonight and tomorrow and decide the following items:

Selection of the association's All-Ohio football team.

Selection of the two all-star squads, made up of seniors.

Selection of the four coaches for each of the all-star teams.

Selection of the date and site of the game.

For two years now, the north and south all-star teams have been piloted by university coaches. It was Ray Eliot of Illinois and Wes Fesler of Ohio State last year, but this year the stars will be led by Ohio High school coaches.

An unofficial poll of coaches by The Associated Press indicated wily Harry Strobel of Barberton's state champion Magics was favored for the northern team; Chuck Mather of Hamilton for the southern outfit.

Only two bids for the contest have been received—one from Canton, its host last summer, and a second from Lockland, O. The Lockland coach, Harold Roettger, also is president of the association.

Proposals from both bidders will be made tonight to the assembled association representatives.

The date of the game is certain to be late next summer, but that is as close as it can be pinned prior to actual selection.

NAMED MOST VALUABLE

By The Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 5—Guard Howard Brown of Dayton, O., Indiana's 1947 football captain, today was the unanimous choice of his teammates as the Hoosiers' most valuable player, an honor he has won twice in three seasons of postwar play. Brown, a 210-pound alumnus of Dayton Fairview school, has captained Indiana the past two campaigns.

Browns Sell Heath To Boston Braves

By The United Press

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5 — Jeff Heath, outfielder who swatted 27 home runs last season, today became the latest ex-member of the St. Louis Browns when he was sold outright to the Boston Braves for an unannounced sum.

Heath, a lefthanded hitting veteran, had a poor .248 batting average for the Browns last year despite his large number of homers. Browns' general manager Bill DeWitt announced that all American league clubs had waived on Heath, thus allowing his sale to the Braves of the National league.

Polar Grip Tire Demonstration

Proves New Firestone Tire Will Not Slip on Ice

Tuesday afternoon at the local Firestone Service Station, a demonstration was held on the new Polar Grip tire.

In making this demonstration, two cakes of ice were placed under the rear wheels of a service truck, which was in a hydraulic lift. One wheel having the Polar Grip tire and the other a conventional tire. With the rear wheels moving at a fast rate of speed the lift was lowered until the tires were resting on the cakes of ice, and the lift was on the ground. Immediately upon touching the ice with the truck's total weight, the wheel with the conventional tire continued to spin, but the other wheel stopped at once. In another demonstration, with both rear wheels having the Polar Grip tires on, the same procedure was again followed, and immediately upon both rear wheels resting on the two cakes of ice, the motor was stalled, as the wheels once again would not slide on the ice, thus proving that the New Firestone Polar Grip Tire really will not slip on icy pavement.—Adv.

Louis Title Bout on WMRN Tonight

Joe Louis (above), world heavyweight champion, risks his crown for the 24th time at Madison Square Garden tonight. This is his first start since he kayoed Mauriello about a year ago. The challenger is Jersey Joe Walcott of Camden, N. J.

There are those who say this may be an upset to end all upsets! Few of the fistic fancy thought there was any likelihood of Tunney licking Dempsey! Gentleman Jim Corbett wasn't supposed to have a ghost of a chance with the mighty John L! And plenty of folks said it couldn't be done when Braddock declared he'd wear Maxie Baer's gilded kelly.

Listed among Walcott's victims are Joe Baksi, Jimmy Bivins, Lee Oma, Elmer Ray, Joey Maxim, Curtis Sheppard.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WMRN (1490 on your dial) at 10 p. m.

And remember, men . . . LOOK sharp! FEEL sharp! BE sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!

$225,000 GATE SEEN IN BATTLE OF JOES

Louis To Risk Title at Garden Tonight.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 — Joe Louis risks his heavyweight championship for the 24th time in 10 years tonight, but if Jersey Joe Walcott can take it away from him it will be one of the ring's greatest upsets.

A crowd of approximately 18,000 paying $225,000 is expected at Madison Square Garden for Louis' only fight of the year, with the main bout starting at 10 p. m., EST, and scheduled for 15 rounds.

The record indoor gate is $201,613 drawn by Jack Delaney and Jim Maloney Feb. 2, 1927.

Louis and Walcott each is 33 and each is a Negro. There the comparison ends.

Louis has one of the most brilliant of all fighting records. Walcott has been up and down through the years, and so doubtful was his claim to be matched with the champion that originally tonight's encounter was called an exhibition until it was pointed out Louis' title was at stake no matter what it was called.

Betting has been light. Officially the odds favoring Louis are one to 10.

Louis, at 212 pounds, heaviest of his career by a few ounces, has about an 18 pound advantage over Walcott. He is two inches taller than Walcott's six feet, and has two inches more of reach.

Win or lose, Louis gets 45 per cent of the gate, or probably $100,000, and Walcott gets 15 per cent.

BOUT TO BE AIRED OVER WMRN AT 10

The 15-round world's heavyweight championship bout between titleholder Joe Louis and challenger "Jersey Joe" Walcott, scheduled for Madison Square Garden tonight, will be aired exclusively over ABC and WMRN at 10 p. m., EST.

Bill Corum and Don Dunphy, ABC sportscasters, will describe the bout for fight fans throughout the nation.

You Budding Tycoons, Come to O.S.U., Says Wes

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5 — Ohio State university's campaign to lure top scholastic talent left its mark today on suburban East Cleveland Shaw High school.

Buckeye grid Coach Wes Fesler told members of Shaw's football squad last night that a springboard to success in the business world might be attained if they enrolled at the state university.

Durocher's Return Imminent; Rickey Calls Brooklyn Huddle

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN, Dec. 5—Leo Durocher's return as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers appeared imminent today with President Branch Rickey summoning his official family into a hurried conference.

Rickey is expected to time the well-worn news for Monday release.

Rickey insists that Durocher, suspended by Commissioner A. B. Chandler for last season, had not yet been signed. However, in years of less storm and strife, Leo often waited until opening day before formally inking the papers. The important thing is a verbal agreement between Rickey and the man many gagsters call "his favorite reclamation project."

Persistent newspaper and radio stories that Durocher was getting back his old job brought members of the Dodger delegation hurrying home from the Miami, Fla., winter meetings.

Burt Shotton, who managed the Brooks to the 1947 pennant, bustled into town from his Bartow, Fla., home. Shotton did not appear at the winter meetings of the minors in Miami although he normally doesn't miss them.

Shotton has never been quoted on his 1948 plans but those close to the Dodger situation are sure he would like to return, although he reluctantly took the job last year on a day's notice.

As is customary in a Dodger announcement, all moves have been clothed in secrecy appropriate to an atomic bomb spy story.

TOLEDO ROCKETS FAVORED TO WIN

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 5 — The University of Toledo Rockets ruled a one touchdown favorite in betting circles today to defeat New Hampshire's Wildcats tomorrow in the second annual Glass Bowl game.

Led by Coach William (Biff) Glassford, the visitors will work out briefly following their arrival today. The Wildcats were undefeated this season and have lost only one match in the past two years.

Toledo completed its drills yesterday with a review of offensive plays.

The Rockets, sparked by the running of halfback Dick Hust and superb passing by quarterback Lee Pete had the most successful season in the school's history this year, taking eight victories and losing only to Joh Carroll and Canisius, of Buffal N. Y.

Lanky Miami Cager Leads Redskin Attack

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5 — A lanky athlete known as Big Ba Brown, who performs at center of the Miami university basketball team, flipped 10 field goals last night, leading the Redskins to a 72-40 win over Defiance college.

It was Miami's first game of the season — but you couldn't tell it when six-foot, four-inch Brown went to work, a few seconds after the opening whistle.

In other games last night, Wilmington dropped Bliss Business college of Columbus, 50-43, and Marietta knocked off Rio Grande 74-50.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

IN THE great twentieth century drive to wipe out special privilege in the world, one small class has escaped legislative attention.

I am speaking of hermits. Congress should get after these acorn-munching life dodgers

The banker and the employer class claim the New Deal blackjacked them Labor says it now is getting lumps on the skull from the Taft-Hartley act. Nurses complain they are overworked, schoolteachers grumble they are underpaid. Hollywood thinks it is being persecuted, housewives moan nobody appreciates them High prices have put us all through the wringer.

BOYLE

It has been a rough century for every class except the hermits

How long are we going to let these fugitives from life's disorder run wild in the woods, laughing and scratching themselves and evading all responsibility?

WHY SHOULD the rest of us walk the treadmill of the common-place, wearing callouses on our brains figuring out ways to pay the butcher, the baker and the candlestick manufacturer" Why, indeed, when escapees from this routine are allowed to roam about the underbrush, frightening the rabbits and confusing innocent squirrels, and with no worry except what bush their next berry is coming from!

The contrast between the common man's thralldom and the hermit's freedom threatens the basis of our whole social order.

Hermits have had it too easy for too long. They don't have to pay income taxes, wait on street corners for their wives, fawn on bosses, shave, take sass from children, stand still for a public opinion poll, or go to cocktail parties. The wind fans them free for nothing, a stream is up their mirror, the moon their lamp.

THE CRICKET serenades them with his rusty-sweet fiddle, one small tune in nature's endless music And the wood thrush never bores them with the mouldy preamble "Stop me if you've heard this one." He just opens his small beak and lets go, pouring joy from a feathered container

The possibility of a third World war never ploughs furrows in the brows of hermits, because the bulletins on the start of the Second World war never reached them They think a night club is something you keep handy to throw at a hoot owl They can whittle all morning, and if their backs itch they can rub against a shaggy oak tree all afternoon They can pick their teeth in public and the deer won't complain

Freedom is a fine friendly thing but hermits have too much of it We've got to switch them back to respectability, make them wear neckties, convince them they need shoes, shame them for having no bank accounts They must be forced back to matrimony, parenthood, the use of the ballot, crowded buses, and the monotony of the daily task that must be done on the scheduled hour.

YES, HERMITS MUST be bent to the iron discipline of modern life, for at stake is civilization itself Otherwise, left free, the example set by these reckless fellows may cause all brooding mankind some gay day to play hooky from duty en masse and run, laughing and scratching, back into the woods forever

Hermits must be harnessed.

CRITICIZE SCHOOL GRADING METHOD

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5—Lack of any definite policy in "passing or flunking" children in Ohio schools was criticized today by the Ohio Education association.

The teachers' organization reported "promotion or failure of children in Ohio schools is generally an arbitrary decision and is not controlled by boards of education."

For the past year the association's educational council study group has investigated the "pass or flunk" problem in Ohio schools. "Very little is being done to establish policies at both grade school and high school levels," it reported.

"A survey of 107 city and exempted village school districts," the council said, "disclosed that little reliable data is being compiled by boards of education concerning promotion and failure practices. In school systems where policy is established, the decision is regarded largely as an individual problem for the classroom teacher."

Before making any recommendations, the council plans to carry on further research into the problem. It stated that at present "practically no objective is being compiled to show whether age of entrance, kindergarten, or other factors later affect the progress of the pupil in school."

The council pointed out that flunking of a large percentage of pupils would add to the cost of public education.

INVESTIGATE SCHOOL BAN ON YULE CAROLS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 — Mayor William O'Dwyer has directed an investigation of an assistant superintendent of schools' order that pupils of 23 Brooklyn schools may not observe the Christmas season in their classrooms with the traditional religious carols and symbols.

Assistant Superintendent Isaac Bildersee ordered yesterday that such observances of the season as Santa Claus are approved, but that "Christmas carols with reference to the Nativity may not be sung, nor may decorations include religious symbols of any faith" in schools under his charge.

The mayor's announcement of an inquiry followed a sharp protest of the order by the New York State Council of the Knights of Columbus. Dr. William Jansen, superintendent of schools, said the incident was based on a "misunderstanding."

Bildersee, meanwhile, explained he directed the principals of his schools to avoid religious expressions, including such carols as "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." He added: "I will not back down from this."

For several years schools in his districts have celebrated both Christmas and a Jewish holiday, Channuka, which falls early in December, with the symbols of both faiths, he explained.

Bildersee, a member of the Jewish faith, said he felt this further emphasized differences of faith and therefore ordered religious observation of both dropped.

"The order was not anti-Christian or anti-anything whatsoever," he said. "On the contrary, it was given in the spirit of seeing to it that what is done does not offend the sensibilities of even one child."

He said he suggested use of Santa Claus, holly and such, of "Jingle Bells" and anything else "not specifically religious," including the carol "about peace on earth." He approved Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" and Bret Hartes "How Santa Claus Came to Simpson's Bar," though he said the latter required elimination of some words.

School officials estimated that in the district under Bildersee's charge there are 30,000 pupils, about 20,000 of them Jewish.

PLANS ARE DISCUSSED FOR COUNTY MUSEUM

Speaker Discusses Project Before Club Women.

Necessary steps towards the establishment of a place in which to house valuable mementoes of historical significance were discussed and pictures shown of results of efforts of interested persons in such a project at a meeting of the Marion Art club and several guests last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz of Mt. Vernon avenue. Guests on the program were L. J. Gray, assistant supervisor, division of state memorials, and Mrs. William Mason Phillips, curator of "Glendower," a Warren county museum.

Mr. Gray discussed the steps necessary in establishing a place in which articles connected with the development and progress of a city may be housed and told of the assistance which may be obtained from state departments in carrying out the project. Mrs. Phillips, who was active in the establishing of the Durbin Ward House at Lebanon in Warren county, showed colored slides of the restoration of the historic home which was done a few years ago.

A great deal of interest and enthusiasm was shown in the project and the informal discussions following the program brought out that should a museum be established in Marion county, there are many valuable papers, documents, furniture and other articles which would be available and would record the history of the county and its early settlers.

Guests were Mrs. L. J. Gray of Columbus, Mrs. Vincent McMullen of Youngstown, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Beatty, L. E. Sherer and Henry True. The club will resume meetings on Jan. 15 at which time Mrs. George E. Planck will be hostess.

Cite Need of Police Training by Sheriffs

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5—Members of the Buckeye State Sheriff's association want a law that anyone holding an Ohio sheriff office must have police experience or have taken a course in a recognized police school.

The association approved such a proposal yesterday in the closing session of the 17th annual meeting and expressed hope it would be made a law by the 1949 general assembly.

Members also voted for standardization of deputies' uniforms and clarification of the law with regard to how long mental patients may be held in county jails not having hospital facilities.

Electronic Program For Foremen's Club

The December meeting of the Marion Foremen's club will be held Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at Columbian hall at Pearl and Columbia streets.

A program entitled "Electronic Heat" will be featured at this meeting. It includes a sound motion picture and a show with stage properties. The presentation will be directed and produced by Monty Montague of Pittsburgh, Westinghouse manager of sales promotion, and a discussion will be conducted by electronic engineer Hal Toner of Pittsburgh, representing the same organization.
